CONGRESS TIED IN DEADLOCK ON DROUGHT HELP

House Plans to Postpone Action; Endurance Test Foreseen.

PRESIDENT REFUSES SENATE WOODS DATA

Pride of Body Is Becoming Factor; Vote on Measure May Delay Recess.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The drought relief bill was resolved yesterday into an endurance contest between the administration and Congress.

House leaders, seeking to uphold the President and frightened by Monday's adverse vote, decided to lay the bill aside, so to speak, and let the House members worry a while and, to add to their worries, passed out the word that it is too bad, but that there is little chance of passing the measure now before the Christmas holidays.

To this Minority Leader Garner and Senator Joe Robinson countered with the determination not to permit a Christmas recess until the bill is passed, and Senator Watson agreed with them.

Just what the outcome will be is problematical, but the whole situation rests on a sizzling furnace which may explode at any time.

Group to Hear Hyde.

The House agricultural committee intends to have Secretary of Agriculture Hyde before it today, in executive session, in an effort to find out if he had anything to do with the $60,000,000 proposition which brought forth the President's condemnation last week and which has been made such an issue that senators say they can not back away from it. The Senate passed the $60,000,000 bill unanimously.

Senator McNary, chairman of the Senate agricultural committee, assistant Republican leader and sponsor of the bill, has stated publicly that the bill came to him in such form that he had every reason to believe that the administration indorsed it. He is determined not to be made the goat now.

It is understood that yesterday, in an effort to straighten everything out, Senator Watson got a letter from Hyde disclaiming having anything to do with the bill, and intended to make this letter public. Whereupon Senator McNary is understood to have let it be known that if Watson did do this, he was prepared to blow the whole matter out of the water, and prove that Hyde did have something to do with it.

Pride Controls Fight.

This being the case, it will be interesting to know what Hyde's attitude will be before the House committee today. Unless he is prepared to give the committee a public disavowal of any connection with the $60,000,000 bill, the administration forces will have nothing with which they can beat down the contention of those who supported the measure that the administration had originally indorsed the bill, but changed its mind.

Pride has come to be almost the controlling factor in the fight now, and there must be considerable swallowing of pride before it can be settled. In the meantime, of course, the passage of the bill either as a $30,000,000 one, extending loans for crop rehabilitation to the drought stricken areas, or as a $60,000,000 measure, providing loans also for food, clothing and medical supplies to destitute farmers, is being held up.

The $116,000,000 unemployment bill comes up before the Senate today on the disagreement yesterday of the House and Senate conferees on the Senate amendments to the bill, principal of which was the Robinson amendment eliminating the authority of the President to shift funds from one allocation to another. The House conferees refused to accept the Senate changes. What will be the Senate's attitude today remains to be seen, but the feeling is not as strong on this measure as on the drought relief bill.

Wood Reports Denied.

What may fan the flames of the controversy was the President's re-

Col. Frank Knox Quits As Manager for Hearst

New York, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Col. Frank Knox tonight announced his resignation as general manager of the Hearst newspapers. In a statement Col. Knox said he and William Randolph Hearst had reached a divergence of opinion as to methods of business management.

"I have today tendered to Mr. Hearst my resignation as the general manager of his newspapers," the statement read. "Mr. Hearst and I had reached a divergence of opinion as to methods of business management, and since our differences could not be reconciled, my withdrawal was the appropriate remedy for the situation."

Body of Youth Found In Water-Logged Boat

Henry S. Florance (left), whose body was found in a half-submerged boat in the Potomac River, near Foxs Ferry, and John Bingham, his missing companion, who is also believed to be dead.

Companion, Missing, Believed Dead; Potomac to Be Dragged.

The body of Henry S. Florance, 17 years old, of 232 North Alford street, Alexandria, was found late yesterday floating in a partially submerged rowboat in the Potomac River, near Foxs Ferry, apparently the victim of exposure.

Today the river near that point will be dragged for the body of John Bingham, 17 years old, the youth's companion, who is believed to have been drowned on a trapping expedition which the youths began on Monday afternoon.

Turner Snelling, of Alexandria, discovered the body of the Florance youth, lying face downward, in a nonsinkable rowboat that was floating near the Maryland shore, across from Alexandria.

BANDIT CHASE ENDS WITH 2 SLAIN, 3 HELD

WOUND DEPUTY SHERIFF

Sidell, Ill., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The wild pursuit of five bank robbers by a relentless posse through the border line region of Indiana and Illinois, ended dramatically today on a farm near Sidell, with two bandits dead and three captured.

One of the dead bandits committed suicide when capture appeared inevitable. Another was killed by the guns of the pursuers. One of the captives was wounded.

A deputy sheriff, Poe Walker, who tried to halt the robbers at Dana, Ind., was believed fatally wounded by the volley of machine-gun bullets that poured from the bandit car as it sped through that town. Nearly all of the loot—estimated at $15,000—which the robbers obtained in holding up the Citizens Bank of Clinton, Ind., was recovered. The robbers did not have enough time to dispose of it.

Almost from the time they left the bank a posse organized by Police Chief Everett Helms, of Clinton, was on their heels. The bandit car broke down 12 miles out of Clinton and they seized another, tossing the owner $500 in gold. The posse drew closer.

At Dana the posse halted only long enough to see that Walker was taken to Terre Haute for medical treatment. When their second car became overheated near Chrisman, Ill., and the robbers commandeered a truck, the posse was close behind. At Scotland, Ill., the bandits took possession of a faster car, but took time to carry their three machine guns from the truck.

When the machine became disabled and they were seeking another, the posse overtook them. One bandit was wounded by the farmer whose car they were trying to steal. Two others fled to a cornfield to be found later, dead, and the other couple was found hiding in farm buildings.

BOMBS IN TWO HOMES

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Dec. 16.—The first serious casualty in the Danville textile strike lay in critical condition tonight in Memorial Hospital with an Army rifle bullet in his spine and, even if he survives, faces paralysis from the waist down. He is A. Lockwood Pickett, 24, and married, of Forest Hills, N. C., son of A. F. Pickett and, according to Chief of Police Cole, formerly convicted in Pittsylvania of bootlegging.

He had nothing to do with the strike but failed to heed the challenge of four militiamen on College avenue last night, swerved his car past the soldiers and was shot in the back in the scattered volley which followed. It is not known which of the four hit Pickett. In the car was 60 gallons of liquor and by his side in the roadster was Virgie Hobby, aged 20, of Durham, N. C., who was held for questioning by the troops and then released.

Troops last night were issued ball cartridges, for the first time since the militia came here, according to Col. H. L. Opie. Orders were issued to stop and search suspicious cars, between certain hours, in an effort to prevent dynamite, used freely recently, from reaching the mill village. Lieut. Robert L. Jones had command of the squad in question and gave the command to fire. The car faltered, stopped, and the whine of the starter was heard again, but no effort was made to move it. Pickett was taken to the barracks infirmary for first aid and then to the hospital and Maj. E. W. Opie, in charge of the troops at midnight, made an investigation.

Examination showed that one shot penetrated the rear of the car. In passing through the metal, the bullet was split and the lead core was sepa-

Society Woman's Letters To Rector Read at Trial

Mrs. du Pont Lee, Sued for Alleged Slander, Admits Love Notes Which Also Warned Clergyman Against "That Adventuress," the Plaintiff.

Both Mrs. Marguerite duPont Lee and Mrs. Maude Bell Ford, socially prominent and wealthy Washingtonians, had innings yesterday in Justice Frederick L. Siddons' branch of District Supreme Court where the former is being sued for $50,000 damages by Mrs. Ford for alleged defamation of character. There were sensations galore.

Mrs. Ford's inning came first when Mrs. duPont Lee, taking the stand as a witness for the plaintiff, identified some gushy letters which she had written to the Rev. William Thomas Reynolds, former rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Georgetown.

Then Mrs. duPont Lee had her turn, for her witnesses testified that on two occasions the rector had been drunk in Mrs. Ford's apartment on N street northwest near Twenty-third street.

That ended the testimony and court recessed. Today arguments will be concluded and the jury will get the case. The case involves remarks which Mrs. duPont Lee is said to have made about Mrs. Ford, reflecting on the latter's morals and on the minister.

Mrs. Marie Gorsuch and her husband, Thomas M. Gorsuch, gave the testimony relative the rector's drinking. Mrs. Gorsuch, a telephone operator at an apartment house which Mrs. Ford managed, stated that she attended a party at Mrs. Ford's apartment on September 1, 1927, and that both Mr. Reynolds and Mrs. Ford became intoxicated. The witness said Mrs. Ford had to be put to bed and

M'KAY ACCUSES DEFENDANTS IN BUSH'S KILLING

PROSECUTION EXPECTS TO CLOSE CASE TODAY

Son of Dead Man Tells of Suspect's Getting Work From Him.

With the examination of 17 of about 40 witnesses the Government plans to call, including William H. McKay, an alleged confederate, the trial of William J. Carnell and Frank Mahoney, on charges of first-degree murder in connection with the death of Louis Bush, bus line operator, moved forward rapidly yesterday in District Supreme Court. The case is being heard before Justice Peyton Gordon and an all-man jury.

McKay and Capt. Edward J. Kelly, of the homicide bureau of the police department, were the principal witnesses. McKay told of having obtained a gun for Mahoney and that the latter had borrowed it on the night of October 6. He also told of statements attributed to Mahoney concerning the crime. Capt. Kelly gave details of statements the police had obtained from both Carnell and Mahoney.

Trend of Defense Shown.

Cross-examination of these two witnesses by defense counsel indicated Mahoney's effort to escape the electric chair will be based on contentions that he had been drunk since September 16, the day after his wife is alleged to have left him to go to California.

Carnell's defense, cross-examination of Capt. Kelly suggested, will be based on the theory that the bus man killed himself in struggling with Carnell for possession of the pistol in his darkened garage in the rear of the Bush home, at 3534 Fulton street northwest.

Considerable opposition to the testimony of Capt. Kelly was voiced by Attorneys Cedric Johnson and J. F. Donahue, who represent Mahoney, and resulted in temporary retirement of the jury. Mahoney's attorneys claimed that at the time their client is alleged to have made his statement to the police he was ill—so ill, in fact, that two police surgeons were called to attend him. The attorneys cited the Wan case—one of the District's most celebrated—in illustration of their contention. Justice Gordon overruled their objection and the police officer was permitted to testify.

Prosecutor May Close Today.

The Government is expected to conclude its case early this afternoon, Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins believing he will be able to introduce all his direct testimony by noon or soon thereafter.

Carnell and Mahoney heard McKay's testimony with different moods. Carnell appeared bored, looked for a time at the witness, glared out the windows at the sinking afternoon sun, blinked and finally stared blankly at the ceiling. Mahoney bent forward eagerly, listened attentively and when his attorneys cross-examined the man prompted them repeatedly. It was due to his promptings that, on cross-examination, McKay admitted Mahoney had been drinking more or less steadily since September 16.

Attorneys Louis L. Whitestone and W. R. Lichtenberg, representing Carnell, did not bear down on the cross-examination of McKay, but cross-examined Capt. Kelly at length. Concerning McKay's testimony, they

NORTH OF SPAIN JOINS UPRISING; CRISIS LOOMING

Rebels Capture Town of Logrono; Republic Proclaimed.

RIOTS AND DISORDERS ATTENDED BY STRIKES

Hendaye, France, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—All along the Franco-Spanish border today spread reports that northern Spain is in a state of insurrection, with the fires of revolt smoldering.

The strict censorship has caused information to go through roundabout channels and thus the accuracy may be doubted. But enough has come in to indicate that Spain is at a critical point despite optimistic assurances from Madrid.

The town of Logrono is said to be in the hands of rebels who have proclaimed a republic.

While San Sebastian was somewhat quieter today following the riots and general disorder yesterday in connection with a general strike, highways from that resort city to France were congested today by private cars and taxicabs bearing rich Spanish refugees to the safety of France. The city was strictly under military control.

Airplanes Drop Circulars.

From Perpignan came word that republican airplanes flew over Barcelona today and dropped proclamations inviting Republicans of the great Catalonian seaport to bide their time. Other large cities of Catalonia were visited similarly.

Barcelona still was tied up by a general strike today, with thousands of troops and civil guards alertly patrolling the streets to prevent disorder. The thoroughfares were largely deserted, with theaters and cafes empty.

Gibraltar told of persistent reports that the Spanish naval forces at Cadiz are supporting the revolutionary movement and uneasiness prevails throughout the southern part of the country.

The French frontier guards have been reinforced in the vicinity of Canfranc and are refusing entrance to the republic unless fugitives carry regular passports bearing French visas.

Leaders Tell of Movement.

How a union of Republicans and Socialists attempted yesterday to overthrow the Spanish government was related tonight by two young leaders now safe in France.

A provisional government had been formed, with a complete cabinet, which would take over the administration at Madrid. The leaders counted on royal troops in the capital to join a general stampede for rebellion, but the soldiers held back at the last moment, and an air force revolt, led by Maj. Ramon Franco, collapsed when no aid came.

Most of the blame was laid, however, upon the abortive military revolt at Jaca last Friday, with the government crushing the Jaca rebels in a battle the next day. This informed the government of what might be expected and so stopped the large Republican movement planned for yesterday.

The men who described the plan today were Luis Prieto, whose father was imprisoned Sunday as a Republican leader along with hundreds of others, and Caesar Falcon, a Peruvian, who edited a Madrid weekly until ordered to leave the country. His pa-

Says: On December 17 Colombia, Venezuela, Peru and Bolivia will commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Simon Bolivar. Nearly 20,000,000 people in those four countries honor him for changing the course of their history.

In a few years, his military skill and leadership drove Spain from a territory two-thirds the area of the United States which she had held from the days of Columbus. He ranks as one of the great and true patriots.

Born in Venezuela, trained in Europe, he returned home to dedicate himself and his great possessions to the freedom of his countrymen. Having seen revolution in France and free government in the United States, he adapted them to his own country with the result that his efforts in the North, and those of San Martin in the South, finally made all Spanish South America independent.

To the action of a soldier he added the vision of a statesman. He founded governments. Recognizing the unity of interests of the Western Hemisphere he called the first Pan-American conference at Panama in 1825. His public service and unselfish character entitle him to be named as one of the great figures of the New World.

FEDERAL COURT HOLDS 18TH AMENDMENT WAS ADOPTED UNLAWFULLY

Federal Judge William Clark, who, at Newark, N. J., yesterday, handed down an opinion holding that the method by which the States ratified the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution was invalid.

CONVENTIONS RULED ONLY PROPER POWER

Opinion Based on Point Not Yet Passed Upon by Highest Bench.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The adoption of the eighteenth amendment, Federal Judge William Clark held today, was invalid. He ruled that only by constitutional conventions and not by State Legislatures can such amendments which transfer to the United States powers heretofore reserved to the States, be ratified.

The only immediate effect of his decision, Judge Clark explained, would be in New Jersey and any arrests for the retail sale of intoxicants in that State would have to be made under the State prohibition enforcement act pending appeal of the ruling. Appeal would stay the effect of the decision until it could be ruled upon by a higher court.

The ruling will be effective only in those States in which United States District Court judges concur in the findings.

Jurist Heir to Millions.

Validity of the manner in which the prohibition amendment was adopted was tested before Judge Clark by a group of attorneys—all members of the New York County Lawyers Association—after a study of two years. The group represented William Sprague, a township clerk in New Jersey who had been indicted for transporting beer. By today's decision the indictment was quashed.

Judge Clark is 58 years old, an heir to millions who served in the ranks of the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War. He is the youngest member of the Federal judiciary, but he has been called a leading scholar of the Constitution. In a 1,500-word opinion he discussed the proposition that prohibition of intoxicating liquors was a question of government and a problem in political science. He called upon nearly a hundred authorities in support of his ruling and quoted from their public and private writings at length.

The jurist declared the question he was deciding had never been presented to any court and said he was not bound by any earlier or higher authority.

Highest Rulings Limited.

In national prohibition cases before the Supreme Court of the United States the only matters argued concerned the substance of the eighteenth amendment and whether or not an amendment changing the distribution of power between the States and the United States reduced the police powers of the former.

On issues other than that upon which Judge Clark ruled today the Federal courts, including the Supreme Court of the United States, have held the eighteenth amendment to be valid.

Although Judge Clark decided the case on points raised by counsel, he found several instances, he said, in which he was diametrically opposed to their contentions, and his decision contained less than half a dozen authorities cited by them in their briefs.

"The traditional method of adopting amendments to the United States Constitution," he wrote, "is challenged. Upon the outcome of the challenge depends the disposition of the case at bar. Even if this opinion meets with a cold reception in the appellate courts we hope it will at least have the effect of focusing the country's thought upon the neglected method of considering the constitutional amendments in convention.

MELLON AND MEYER ATTACKED IN HOUSE

Tax Refunds, International Banking Are Scored by Two Leaders.

ILLEGALITY IS CHARGED

(Associated Press.)

Tax refunds and international banking aroused a double attack in the House yesterday upon Secretary Mellon and Eugene Meyer, newly nominated chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Chairman McFadden of the banking committee expressed strenuous opposition to Senate confirmation of Meyer while Representative Garner, of Texas, asserted Mellon had misled the public on tax refunds.

McFadden's remarks were termed an indictment of the administration by Garner, who added that if given an opportunity to investigate he could show tax refund irregularities.

"If you want to turn the Federal Reserve system over to international financiers, place Mr. Meyer in that particular post at this time," McFadden declared. "He has a very close connection with J. P. Morgan & Co."

McFadden said international bankers were planning to float bonds, issued through the Bank of International Settlements, in the United States during the present economic depression to pay off European debts.

Close relationship between the Federal Reserve Board and the Bank of France in the mobilization of the world's gold was also charged by McFadden, who noted that they controlled 60 per cent of the supply. He said he understood Meyer represented the Rothschild interests and was liaison officer between the French government and J. P. Morgan & Co.

In assailing Mellon, Garner said the Secretary had attempted in an-

J. E. DAVIES' HOUSE ROBBED; LOOT $5,100

MAY BE "SOCIETY THIEF"

Joseph Edward Davies, prominent attorney and clubman, reported to police last night that his home at 2941 Massachusetts avenue had been entered and jewels valued at $5,100 stolen. The robbery, which occurred between 7 p. m. Monday and 7 o'clock last night, may have been committed by the same "society burglar" who entered the home of Ross D. Thompson Monday and took more than $3,000 in gems, police believe.

The family was away, Mr. Davies said, when the intruder gained entrance to the home and removed the valuables, including a stud valued at $1,500 and a coin watch worth $1,000.

Detective Sergeant O'Dea and Policeman J. O. Thume are investigating.

Following is the list of jewels which were taken from the Davies home:

Two pearl studs with platinum base, $800; two pearl studs with platinum stem, $800; pearl stickpin, $400; pearl, onyx and diamond links, $250; onyx and diamond shirt stud, $50; moonstone and onyx cuff links, $200; black stud with pearl and gold stem, $1,500.

Also four lapis lazuli waistcoat buttons, $100; mother of pearl cuff links with pearl center, $100; coin watch of gold, $1,000, and one platinum and pearl dress chain with gold pencil on end, $300.

Mr. Davies, who has offices in the Smith Building, ran for the United States Senate from Wisconsin in 1918. He was defeated, but received the largest Democratic vote ever polled in that State up tothat time.

Mr. Davies formerly was chairman of the Federal Trade Commission and

Five Days Are Left to Fill 600 Christmas Stockings

Fund Is $554.29 Short of Planned Total for Children's Cheer; Social Welfare Workers Will Distribute Gifts to 2,000.

Two thousand children in the city of Washington faced Christmas with "empty stockings" until The Post Christmas Fund came into existence.

Now, roughly speaking, some 1,400 of these children are assured a few gifts and toys and candy, to make the holiday a real happy occasion. Who will take care of the other 600? The Post believes Washington residents will, although they have only five days in which to act.

The Council of Social Agencies, which is distributing The Post's Toy Fund, has assembled lists of 2,000 children, divided into four general subdivisions. The Associated Charities has 900 listed; the Christ Child Society, including Catholic Charities, 500; the Salvation Army, 120, and the Board of Public Welfare, 480 children.

The Post fund this morning stands at $1,445.71 and the campaign will close Sunday. If $554.29 can be raised between now and Sunday, there will be a dollar apiece to spend on these children, and a dollar means a lot of joy to a small child.

Volunteer workers are arranging for the distribution of The Post fund to the parents of these 2,000 children, so that they will receive their gifts on Christmas Eve, just like other boys and girls whose parents have plenty.

That list of workers includes Miss Patricia Morse, child welfare division; Miss Martina Pleace, Christ Child Society; Maj. James Asher, Salvation Army; Walter S. Ufford, Associated Charities; Mrs. J. P. S. Neligh, Neighborhood House; Miss Lidia Burkin remove the dead hand of tradition from the domain of ideas."

The court related that in Massachusetts the first constitution was rejected because it had not been framed by a body chosen for that one purpose. He also pointed out that of eight constitutions prior to 1787 which provided for amendments, five required that the process be undertaken in some form of convention.

"This discussion of the assumptions underlying the amending clause of the Constitution has been as thorough as the inhibitions of our scholarship and the amount of space that can be alloted thereto, even in an opinion on a subject of such fundamental importance, permit.

"It seems indisputable that local self-government, popular sovereignty and the convention system of drafting and amending constitutions were the very 'warp and woof' of the political thought of the whole period prior to the drafting of the Federal Constitution."

Lincoln Quoted on Point.

Declaring the thought processes of President Lincoln had come to "typify so much the spirit of our institutions," he quoted the Civil War President as follows:

"'I will venture to add that to me the convention seems preferable in that it allows amendments to originate with the people themselves instead of only permitting them to take or reject propositions originated by others, not especially chosen for the purpose, and which might not be precisely such as they would wish to either accept or refuse.'"

Judge Clark presented at length his theory that the United States frame of government is a problem in political science, to be solved as far as possible according to scientific principles.

"Political science," he wrote, "can give only one answer to the question presented by the alternative methods of ratification prescribed by article 5 (of the United States Constitution). If the amendment to be considered is one designed to transfer to the United States powers heretofore reserved to the States or, if there are any such, to the people, that answer must be in favor of the convention method

Missouri's Rapid Ratification.

"This follows from the character of such amendment and from the character of the delegates to and deliberations in a constitutional convention, as compared with the corresponding character of the personnel of State legislatures and their deliberations."

The jurist then pointed out what he considered pertinent illustrations to support his contention that constitutional conventions were preferable to State legislatures in dealing with amendments.

The ratification of the women's suffrage amendment in Tennessee, Judge Clark related, resulted in the last analysis, "upon the change in the vote of a youthful legislator of that State who very sensibly declared that he had always been in the habit of following the advice of his mother." Records showed, he went on, that the Missouri Legislature ratified the eighteenth amendment in fifteen minutes.

OPINION'S REVERSAL PREDICTED BY DRYS

EFFECT IN NEW JEJRSEY

(Associated Press.)

A reversal of Judge Clark's decision by the Supreme Court was freely predicted yesterday by dry leaders, while opinion among officials was that it might adversely affect enforcement in New Jersey but would not of itself alter the status of prohibition.

Dry lawyers cited various decisions handed down by the Supreme Court in contending that those arguing the case would be "threshing old straw," and that the court itself already has defended the method of ratifying the eighteenth amendment against several previous attacks.

Edward B. Dunford, general counsel of the Antisaloon League, quoted arguments he said were advanced before the highest tribunal ten years ago by Elihu Root in contending the amendment was not valid because it had not been ratified by constitutional conventions instead of by State Legislatures.

Supreme Court's Words.

He cited the Supreme Court decision in this case as follows:

"The prohibition of the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes, as embodied in the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution, is within the power to amend reserved by the fifth article to such Constitution."

Dunford said he believed counsel in this case were "facing an insuperable legal obstacle," since the "contention which they advance is not new," and "was held unsound when first made ten years ago."

Some apprehension was expressed by one high Government official as to the decision's effect in New Jersey. He held it possible that some United States commissioners in that jurisdiction might possibly refuse to issue warrants in prohibition cases, and that other authorities, citing the case, might refuse to act against violators.

Limited to Clark's Court.

In another quarter of the Justice Department it was held, however, that Clark's decision actually was controlled only upon matters arising in his own court and that other district judges there were not bound by it. It was contended emphatically that it would not prevent the making of arrests in New Jersey under the national prohibition act.

At the same time Oliver W. Stewart, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, contended that the amendment abolishing slavery had been ratified in the same way as that prohibiting liquor and that both were invalid if one was.

"If the eighteenth amendment is to fall by this attack," he said, "the thirteenth must go the same way. Slavery was perpetuated by the use of police power within the States. So it was with the liquor traffic. It seems safe to say that the Supreme Court will continue to sustain the eighteenth amendment as one properly submitted and adopted by the requisite number of States."

A report made last night to Fourteenth Precinct Police increased by $300 the valuation of jewels stolen Monday from Mr. Thompson's home at 2600 Thirty-first street northwest. Originally the loss had been estimated at $2,000.

Farm Bureau Names Officers.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 16 (Special).—J. Frank Van Metre was elected president of the Berkeley County Farm Bureau for 1931, at the organization meeting yesterday. Glen Fitzer was named vice president, E. Newton Thatcher, secretary, and J. Holland Sperow, treasurer.

Hoover to Stay in Capital Till Congress Ends Session

White House Statement Says President Has No Intention of Going Away on Trip While Important Legislation Is Pending in Both Branches.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Herbert Hoover, America's most traveled President, has no intention of leaving Washington until after Congress winds up its short session on March 4, it was stated at the White House yesterday.

The statement came as the result of a report from Florida that Jeremiah Milbank's houseboat, the Sauntérer, was being made ready for the President's use some time next month.

There is no tradition that holds an Executive in Washington while Congress is in session. President Hoover took his last vacation while the long session was on. That was in February, when he went fishing off Long Key, Fla.

But at that time, there were no such problems plaguing him and Congress as there are now—no drought problem, no serious unemployment problem.

When Herbert Hoover was elected President it was expected that he would maintain his reputation as a traveler. As an engineer and a relief worker he had been all over the world. As Secretary of Commerce, he made frequent trips between Washington and California. And then, as President-elect, he made his notable 15,000-mile tour of South America.

As President, however, his journeys away from the National Capital, excluding week-end visits to Rapidan, have been few and far between. The last one, a campaign tour, took him to Cleveland, Philadelphia, Boston and King's Mountain. Prior to that he made three trips away from the Capital—the brief winter vacation in Florida in February, a dash to New York to address the Associated Press, and a hurried visit to Detroit, Cincinnati and Louisville.

The President had planned a tour of the national parks in the West last summer, but this was called off on account of the drought. His proposed tour of the Caribbean countries also was abandoned.

Once Congress has wound up its short session, however, and assuming that there is no grave problem that might hold him here, President Hoover is expected to get away for a while and do some tarpon fishing.

SOCIETY WOMAN'S NOTES IN EVIDENCE

that her husband assisted the minister to his automobile.

Gorsuch corroborated his wife's testimony as to September 1 and said he also assisted the rector from Mrs. Ford's apartment the following night. The witness also asserted that the rector was drunk February 5, 1928, while conducting a healing service at a fashionable church near Washington Circle. It was on that occasion that the alleged remarks, the basis of the suit, are said to have been made.

Gorsuch stated that on that occasion he heard Mrs. Lee talking to the minister's chauffeur and to his nephew relative to Mr. Reynolds' condition. The witness said that while Mrs. Lee did not use loud tones the minister went up to Mrs. Lee and in a manner indicating he was drinking asked "Am I drinking?"

Mrs. duPont Lee, while on the stand, identified several letters, and in reference to those written to the minister smiled while testifying. She repeatedly pointed out passages she had written, and also others which had been quoted from Shakespeare and other writers.

Just before Mrs. duPont Lee took the stand, Mrs. Ford testified that she had given the minister something to drink only on a few occasions. She also denied that she ever had been immoral.

Three of Mrs. duPont Lee's love letters were introduced as evidence. In the letters the writer refers to herself as the "stormy petrel."

Under postmark date of June 13, 1927, she wrote, in part:

"My Own Dearest and Best Friend: As I write this you are approaching your beloved Baltimore; your many friends and the work you love; but paradoxically go not away from me! You can not journey beyond the radiance of the Stormy Petrel's love, because precious as is the haven of those strong arms, to her dearer is your happiness, your well-being, no matter where the seeking leads you. Have not these last few months taught us much, dear heart, and above all never to be disconcerted with the happenings of life. * * * We are warm, pulsing human beings; consecrated to, and courageous in, our devotion to each other; not simply struggling helplessly in the grip of forces mightier far than we. There is a binding cord not woven at Mashotah, but in the great loom of Destiny; and from a substance time has not to destroy; nor fell circumstance to corrode. This is love! You heard the call to curse, as did Balaam of old. As answer your arms closed about the Stormy Petrel! * * * We do not know that to many women upon your horizon, "days do not speak and multitude of days do not teach wisdom." It is well for such a life as yours to have the ardent love of some absolutely sane woman. * * * Love, dear heart, from your Stormy Petrel."

Another letter of no date addressed "Beloved Pastor," related to a social call she had made. She relates a number of events that happened, mentioned that she had been told Mrs. Ford was in love with him.

Concluding that letter the writer said: "Do be careful in dealing with Mrs. Ford. You don't want to be dragged down by this adventuress. Beware of giving her an inch!"

Another letter dated Thursday evening and signed only "Your S. P." said in part: "Dear Heart: How I miss you! Is there not between our solitary and complicated natures an absolute understanding? Did you not learn that from your stormy petrel would never come a sign or token from her hungry heart that she craved just something her very own, and hers alone? Was it not inevitable you should heal her heart, not by he laying on of hands, but by the giving of a token of your love? Not leaving her forever standing at the threshold of paradise, but in your strong arms bearing her within its portals? Do you expect beads to satisfy a spirit hungry for bread, not a stone? * * * For long years destiny cast me about like a ship on the current; then finally into the harbor of your dear arms! * * *"

Attorneys W. Gwynn Gardiner, Smith Trimble and E. H. Marthill appear for Mrs. Ford, while Mrs. du Pont Lee is represented by Attorneys J. Edward Burroughs and John C. and W. W. Mackall.

nual reports to deceive the American public on the percentage of tax refunds. Garner declared that collections since Mellon has been Secretary amounted to $19,000,000,000, while tax refunds, abatements and credits had totaled $3,000,000,000. The Texan said Mellon claimed only 2.8 per cent of the collections had been returned.

Asked if there was anything to indicate any of the refunds had been improperly and illegally made, Garner said he thought there was and if given the opportunity to investigate the Treasury Department, he would do it.

Another Texas Democrat, Wright Patman, later continued the attack on Mellon, asserting the Secretary "is the worst enemy of the wage earners, farmers and veterans."

Referring to Mellon's opinion that veterans' compensation certificates should not be cashed immediately, Patman said:

"He always places property rights above human rights.

"He accumulated more money during the World War than any other profiteer and is now enjoying an income of $100,000 a day or $30,000,000 a year.

"He favored paying adjusted compensation to war contractors and railroads to the amounts of $3,500,000,000, but always opposed paying the veterans a penny, and the past ten years has made false statements about the condition of the Treasury in order to defeat veteran legislation."

Woman Hurt by Bomb In Auto; Miner Held

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Charged with attempting to kill Mrs. Anna Meinix, of Allied Mine, near Shinnston, by placing a bomb in her automobile, Wassell Korey, 40, a miner, was a county jail prisoner here today, held without bond.

Mrs. Meinix and her small son were injured when she got in her car and the starter exploded the bomb that had been placed there. Jealousy is alleged.

5 DAYS LEFT TO FILL STOCKINGS OF NEEDY

Pitiful letters are being reecived every day by The Post, and by these social agencies, from despairing mothers and fathers, asking that their children be allowed just a small portion of the Christmas joy this year. Your contribution will turn tears into smiles at some household.

The fund must average $110.86 per day to reach the desired $2,000 by Sunday night. Will you help? A dollar from you means $5 worth of happiness to a child. Let's make this a real Christmas for the "kids," despite unemployment, business slumps and other misfortunes.

POST TOY FUND

The Toy Fund today stands at $1,445.71. Five days remain in which to raise it to $2,000, for 2,000 children who are in need. Let's put the campaign over the top by Sunday night when the fund closes. Here are the latest figures:

Capital Man Qualifies To Administer Estate

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Dec. 16.—Charles M. Barnes, of Washington, D. C., has qualified as administrator of the estate of his father, the late Charles S. W. Barnes, for 30 years connected with the clerk's office of Augusta Circuit Court. The estate is unofficially valued at approximately $11,000.

Mr. Barnes died at the home of his son in Washington last Wednesday, and the body was brought here for burial. The son qualified as administrator before Judge Richard S. Ker in Corporation Court.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 16 (Special). Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wooldridge, of Lynchburg, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Nettie Helen Wooldridge to Graham C. Huff, of Oxford, N. C., which was performed here by the Rev. G. W. Port, pastor Second Methodist Protestant Church.

TWO MEN ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL

Capital Pair Saw Their Way Through Barred Window in Bladensburg.

NAMED IN RUM CHARGE

Sawing their way through the iron-barred window of the Bladensburg Jail last night, two prisoners, held on charges of carrying concealed weapons and transporting liquor, escaped and are believed to have made their way into this city.

The men are James Robert Doyle, about 30 years old, of L street northwest near Thirteenth street, and William Award Smith, Negro, about 25, of M street northeast near Second street.

They escaped about 8 o'clock, although they are believed to have been making preparations for delivery for several days. The men were arrested last Thursday and were to have been arraigned today in police court in Hyattsville, according to Deputy Sheriff Thomas H. Garrison.

Deputy Sheriff Garrison, who asked local police to search for the men today will lead his men to this city and take charge of the man-hunt. "Two-Gun Tom," as he is known to his intimates, won his office in the recent election and since then has been active in a drive on wrongdoers from the District of Columbia who invade Prince George's County.

Nuisance Charged To Justice Branch

Violation Is Alleged of Smoke Ordinance; Legal Fight Seen.

A warrant charging the Department of Justice with violating the smoke nuisance regulation at its building on Vermont avenue at K street was issued yesterday in Police Court by the corporation counsel's office. D. C. Malcolm, a health inspector, appeared as complainant, with the violation alleged to have taken place on December 8.

The issuance of the warrant probably will precipitate as much of a legal battle as did the same action in regard to the Capitol power plant last year.

At that time the warrant was served on David Lynn, Capitol architect. The United States Attorney's office opposed the Corporation Counsel's office in that skirmish and it was decided that Government buildings were not under police regulations of the District.

CONGRESS DEADLOCK SEEN ON DROUGHT AID

fusal yesterday to give the Senate the report of Col. Arthur B. Woods, head of his unemployment committee. The Senate asked for the report in a resolution several days ago.

The President replied:

"The President's emergency committee has made no report on unemployment. I have received notes and verbal suggestions from Col. Arthur Woods from time to time, and from the departments in the Government, on this subject. These were confined to guidance in formulation of the recommendations which I have already laid before Congress. Such notes and discussions are necessarily passing and tentative, and they represent that confidential relation of the President with Government officers, which should be preserved."

It has become quite obvious that there was a slip or a mistake somewhere in connection with the drought relief measure.

Thought Administration Plan.

McNary has told the Senate that the $60,000,000 bill was sent to him two weeks before action was taken and that the only contrary information, that it was not an administration proposal, was the budget recommendation later for $25,000,000 which did not register seriously with the committee because no argument accompanied the estimate.

Hyde, it is understood, is prepared to admit that the bill was sent up by the department, but that he had no personal knowledge of it. McNary, however, is not believed to be ready to accept even this statement.

The night before the Senate passed the bill Hyde issued a blast denouncing the $60,000,000 bill as perilously near a dole, and that was followed the next day by the President's denunciation.

Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, charged yesterday that this denunciation had delayed the passage of the bill a week, as it took the Senate that long to answer it.

Levy on Employers And Employes Urged

(Associated Press.)

A blanket tax of 5 cents weekly on employes and 10 cents on employers was advocated in the House yesterday by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, to provide relief for those out of work. He said he had prepared a bill to that effect which would include other forms of taxation.

"It is the duty of every person in the country to give some kind of relief," he said.

Police Change Sanctioned.

The transfer of Private Harvey L. Anderson, of the White House police, back to the Metropolitan Police Department, on his own application, and the appointment of Robert L. Jenkins to fill the vacancy were approved yesterday by the District Commissioners.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5 p. m. until noon today.

Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, introduced a bill providing $3,500,000 for county agriculture extension service in drought-stricken areas.

Confirmed nominations of J. Reuben Clark, of Utah, as Ambassador to Mexico; Hoffman Philip, of New York, as Minister to Norway; Nicholas Roosevelt, of New York, as Minister to Hungary; J. Butler Wright, of Wyoming, as Minister to Uruguay, and Charles E. Mitchell, of West Virginia, as Minister and Consul General to Liberia.

Agreed to consider Tariff Commission nominations January 9. Confirmed nomination of Brig. Gen. Ben H. Fuller as commandant of Marine Corps.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, introduced a bill providing repeal of the law by which the Interstate Commerce Commission can approve changes in parcel post rates and regulations.

Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, introduced a resolution to prohibit trading in margins on stock exchanges.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:15 p. m. until noon today.

Representative Dowell (Republican), Iowa, introduced a bill providing $280,000 for construction of addition to Veterans Hospital at Knoxville, Iowa.

Representative Garner (Democrat), Texas, minority leader, served notice that Democrats would oppose Christmas recess pending action on drought relief.

Considered agriculture appropriations bill.

ROCKVILLE TO GET GAS ON JANUARY 1

Washington Company Head Says Rates Will Be Those Obtaining in County.

AIMS TO EQUALIZE COST

Gas service will be inaugurated in Rockville January 1, George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., told the largest meeting of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce in its history last night, at the Rockville Firemen's Hall.

Mr. Wood said the gas rates for Rockville will be the same as those in other sections of the county now served with gas. The rate now is $1.20 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 2,500 cubic feet, and 90 cents for all over 2,500 cubic feet, in domestic consumption. The minimum in this class is 85 cents.

In the house heating class, the rates are as follows: Fixed charge of $1 per month, maximum charge of $2 per 1,000 cubic feet per month, and consumption charge of 65 cents per 1,000 feet.

"The object of the gas company under the present management is to equalize the rate applying to outlying communities," Mr. Wood said. "In this instance, Rockville is approximately 15 miles from Washington, yet the rates are scheduled to duplicate those in other sections of Montgomery County, some of which are only a mile or two from Washington. This, of course, applies only to the communities where it is possible and feasible to equalize the gas rate."

Mr. Wood's talk on the gas situation in the Greater Washington area is the first of series of events planned by the chamber in a campaign to advertise the advantages of Rockville and its environs. A business session of the chamber prior to the public meeting also discussed the advertising plans.

Three Get $50,000 In Holdup of Bank

Third Robbery in 10 Days Causes Pittsburghers to Inerease Guards.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Banditry here waxed to new heights today in a holdup of a North Side bank in which three men obtained $50,000 and escaped. The robbery was the third bank holdup in that district in ten days. Police apparently being unable to cope with the situation, many banks added private police as a precaution.

Bank officials, including the president, G. C. Gerwig, and employes and patrons, fifteen persons in all, were herded in the main room of the Manchester Savings Bank & Trust Co. soon after the doors were opened this morning. Cowed by guns, they looked on while the robbers forced the assistant treasurer to open a vault containing the $50,000.

Working quickly and threatening death to any attemping to frustrate them, the bandits seized many packages of currency and loose bills. They fled unhindered in an automobile they had stolen. The machine was found abandoned in the city a few hours later.

Suspect in Ohio Holdup Ordered Returned There

Joe Berger alias J. W. Bertson, alias Benjamin Myerson, was returned to Toledo, Ohio, yesterday to face charges of assault with intent to rob and kill, growing out of an alleged jewelry store holdup.

Berger appeared in District Supreme Court yesterday and after he consented to return, Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat signed the requisition, which had been sent here by the Governor of Ohio. The man was arraigned here last week in Police Court and, after testimony that he had jumped a bond in California, was placed under $75,000 bail. He remained in jail until yesterday.

Parking Regulations Sanctioned.

Three parking regulations were approved yesterday by the District Commissioners. One hour parking on C street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, no parking in front of the Shoreham Hotel, and no parking on the north side of Newton street, between Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets, were ordered.

SOVIET CHIEF FACES LOSS OF HIS POST

Prospect of Shake-Up Which May Even Include "Premier" Rykoff.

CRITICS FORCING ISSUE

Moscow, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The exigencies of Soviet politics today indicated the prospect of another shake-up in administrative posts in the government which may reach even as high as Alexis Rykoff, president of the council of people's commissars, which post corresponds to that of premier in other countries.

Because of severe criticism by various organizations throughout the union of his former "right wing" activities, Rykoff may soon request the central executive committee to relieve him of his position.

If this plan has been decided on it is considered likely the new premier has been chosen, but his identity is held in greatest secrecy. The only other man to hold the post of Soviet premier was Lenin, Rykoff having been appointed after Lenin's death.

For some time it has been felt the premier's days were numbered as a powerful party figure. Last spring Rykoff, with Michael P. Tomsky and N. A. Uglanov, appeared before the all-union congress of the Communist party and "confessed" their sins as members of the right wing, promising to support the party policies in the future.

Uglanov, notwithstanding his protestations, was dropped as commissar of labor and Tomsky was ousted as head of the Soviet Trade Union, but Rykoff managed to retain his posts.

Reports today were that the Communist administration now intends to eliminate any sign of opposition because it is felt that an absolutely united party front must be maintained if the five-year industrialization plan is to be carried out.

YOUTH'S BODY FOUND IN BOAT ON POTOMAC

dredges near Foxs Ferry, notified the harbor police, who brought the body to the District Morgue, where it was identified by relatives.

Lieut. E. T. Harney, of the Harbor Precinct, said he believed that the boat, which had an air compartment at either end, had capsized in the rough water, throwing both youths into the water.

Each of the youths wore heavy clothing and hip boots. Police think that Florance clambered back into the boat only to succumb to exposure and that Bingham was dragged under the water by the weight of his boots.

From relatives of the youths, it was learned that they had left home early Monday afternoon to set muskrat traps on the Maryland shore of the river. They had tried to rent a boat from an Alexandria boathouse, but were refused because of the roughness of the water. Later they tried to borrow a pair of oars from the boathouse operator, it was learned.

Florance is survived by his mother, Mrs. Bertha Florance and a younger brother, John. The Bingham youth is an orphan and has a sister, Mae, living at 53 East Linden street, Alexandria. He roomed at 111 North Payne street, Alexandria.

CHICAGO GANGLAND FEELS LAW'S LASH

DOAK ISSUES WARRANT

Chicago, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Three erstwhile powerful gang syndicates felt the lashes of the State and Federal Governments today.

From the north, south and west sides gangsters were hauled into court—and the Clan Capone was hardest hit.

Selection of a jury was begun in municipal court for the vagrancy trial of Jack Guzik, the Capone gang's reputed business agent and Loop beer collector, recently convicted by the Federal Government for income tax evasion.

Tony "Mops" Volpe, bodyguard to "Scarface Al," pined away the hours in jail, thinking of gangland's better days and awaiting the Government's next step toward deportation. Volpe was arrested on a warrant issued by Secretary of Labor Doak, alleging Volpe was an alien.

Danny Stanton, one of "Al's" chief gunners, fought extradition to Wisconsin, where he is indicted for the murder of Jack Zuta. "Dago" Lawrence Mangano, Capone gambling overseer, was up on a vagrancy charge.

Seven Melrose Park bookmakers, reputedly in the Capone alignment, were arrested in a raid.

Bernard O'Donnell, one of the notorious West Side triumvirate of brothers—the others being Miles and "Klondike"—also was held for a vagrancy hearing. He was taken by detectives who met him at the door of another courtroom—just after he'd succeeded in having a bond forfeiture in a perjury case set aside.

Anthony "Red" Kissane and John Barry, once mighty members of George "Bugs" Moran's old mob, were arrested in a North Side cafe on suspicion of carrying weapons. None was found, but the pair was held.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Maj. Geyer, American naval attache here, whipped a pistol out of his pocket, fired a bullet into a mad bull and saved the life of a Mexican bullfighter here today.

The dramatic incident occurred as the fighter fell a few feet in front of the onrushing bull. The infuriated animal rushed for him, but Geyer was too quick on the trigger. The bullfighter was helped to his feet and carried from the arena as the crowd cheered the American.

U. S. INTERVENTION HELD NEED IN CUBA

UNIVERSITY WORK HALTS

Havana, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The Cuban government, troubled by political unrest and student agitation, sees its situation in one sentence:

"Peace throughout the republic, or intervention."

Dr. Eugenio Molinet, acting secretary of education, so put the situation today, and the government is continuing to take every precaution to insure the former.

The National University was closed indefinitely today by presidential decree, and with the order issued yesterday closing public schools throughout the island, the administration believes it has acted sufficiently to prevent further group agitation by students.

In the meantime, additional pressure is being put on the American Embassy by various groups for intervention under the Platt amendment. American Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim has given no indication that he is taking seriously the flood of intervention petitions and manifestos pouring daily from numerous sources opposed to the Machado regime.

The island has been generally quiet since constitutional guarantees were suspended last week, but four small bomb explosions occurred in scattered parts of Havana last night and today. No one was injured, nor did any property damage result. One bomb burst beneath an electric train returning to Havana from Marianao and another exploded under an electric car near the center of the city.

40 Trains Are Stalled By Heavy Polish Snow

Warsaw, Poland, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Forty trains were stalled in eastern Poland as the result of a heavy snowstorm which began December 14 and continued unabated today.

In the village of Krasne 29 buildings were destroyed by fire, volunteer firemen being unable to combat the flames because of the storm. Telephone and telegraph communication with many eastern towns was interrupted.

REPUTED PAL ACCUSES TWO AT LOUIS BUSH MURDER TRIAL

gained from Justice Gordon instruction to the jury to disregard anything the witness testified Mahoney had told him about Carnell when the latter was not present.

McKay, under direct examination by Collins, admitted he had known Mahoney about a month prior to October 6, but stated he had not met Carnell until that night. On October 4, he said, he went with Mahoney, at the defendant's request, and obtained Mahoney's pistol from Charles H. Faunce, who was holding it on a $5 loan. McKay said he gave Faunce $5 and that Mahoney, after receiving the pistol, gave it to him and he took it home and hid it.

Tells of Revolver.

On the night of October 6, he said, Mahoney and Carnell came to his apartment, on Florida avenue near North Capitol street, and Mahoney requested the gun. McKay said he gave the gun to Mahoney and that it was transferred to Carnell. He also said the men asked him if he knew where they could "pull a job." Then they asked for a drink, the witness said, a request that was granted, the three consuming about a half pint.

The following day, McKay said he saw Mahoney on the street and the man accompanied him to his establishment and asked that a paper be procured. The paper was obtained and McKay said that after Mahoney had read the story of the Bush shooting he had asserted Carnell had "done the job." McKay also quoted Mahoney as saying they had ridden about looking for a "place to pull a job," and had spotted Mr. Bush at Dupont Circle.

Mahoney, according to McKay, said he had left Carnell in the alley after beating Mr. Bush home and that, after hearing two shots, he had "froze" and run. Carnell came in later that day, the witness went on, but said nothing about the Bush matter after Mahoney had whispered to him.

After that the two men came to see him repeatedly, the witness testified, and on one occasion told him to keep his mouth shut. On October 8, McKay said he surprised Carnell trying to load a gun and quoted the man as saying he was going to throw it in the river. He related that he lent the two defendants his automobile and that they left, returning in a half hour.

Quoted as Being in "Mess."

Still later that night, McKay said, he returned to his apartment and found Mahoney alone. He quoted Mahoney as intimating Carnell had called Philadelphia and that two gangsters had visited the apartment and the gun had been given to them.

Several days later McKay said Carnell told him he was as much in the mess as he and Mahoney, that he would go to the chair and that he was "on the spot."

McKay admitted on cross-examination he had been questioned three times by police, once in the presence of Collins, but denied he had been promised immunity to testify.

This point was stressed by Mahoney's counsel because McKay was granted a separate trial, while a similar plea on behalf of their client was denied.

Most of the other witnesses were asked to describe the scene of the shooting, the condition of Mr. Bush when he came into his home, results of police investigation at the scene and results of the autopsy.

Of that group only William L. Bush, son of the slain man, offered testimony that excited the crowded courtroom. Bush said that three days after his father's death Mahoney came to him, offered his condolences and obtained employment for one day.

Charles H. Faunce told that Mahoney and McKay had come to him on Saturday, October 4, and obtained the gun he had obtained from the former two years before in consideration of a $5 advance.

Jury Soon Obtained.

The jury was obtained after little trouble when court opened in the morning. Only five prospects were examined before both sides announced their satisfaction.

Mr. Collins gave the jury a thorough outline of what the Government intends to show, beginning with a description of the indictment, going into detail on what Government witnesses were expected to testify, and concluding with:

"That, gentlemen of the jury, is the Government's case. If we prove what I have told you, and I tell you frankly we intend to, I ask you to do your duty and return a verdict of guilty as indicted."

Mr. Collins, in outlining the Government case, said:

"We expect to show that prior to October 6, the date of the shooting, the defendants became acquainted with McKay, that they visited him at his home where different things were discussed. We expect to show that the defendant, Mr. Mahoney, prior to that time, had owned an automatic pistol which he had pawned to a man named Faunce.

To Emphasize Gun Deal.

"We intend to show that on October 4 Mr. Mahoney went to Mr. McKay to get him to get the pistol out of pawn, and that as a result of certain conversation they went to the place where Faunce was employed and where he had the gun. We will show that they called Faunce to the machine, that he delivered the gun and received $5 from McKay."

Collins explained Mr. McKay took the gun home and that on the evening of October 6 Carnell and Mahoney called on McKay and asked for the gun. The prosecutor said he would prove they said they wanted the gun for a "stick-up."

Carnell and Mahoney roamed the streets that night until about 9:30 o'clock, Collins told the jury. At that time, he said, they passed near the Plaza Hotel, which was owned by Bush, and saw Mr. Bush talking to the hotel manager. Collins declared he intended to show the defendants discussed Mr. Bush, that Mahoney had worked for him, knew of his habits and knew Mr. Bush carried considerable money and a large diamond.

After that Collins said he would show the jury the two men proceeded to the entrance of the alley in the rear of Mr. Bush's home, at 3534 Fulton street northwest, near the corner of Thirty-sixth street northwest. At that point Collins said he would show Carnell left the car and disappeared down the alley, while Mahoney, in a car, stationed himself at a point near Thirty-sixth street, where, when Mr. Bush drove by he signalled Carnell, who was in the garage.

When Bush Was Killed.

Collins then described the garage, how Mr. Bush parked his machine, that the man had stepped from his car, had been told to "stick 'em up" and had grappled with his assailant. He said he would show Mr. Bush got Carnell down, that the gun was dropped and that Carnell retrieved it and shot Mr. Bush. Collins also said he would attempt to show that two, possibly three, other shots were fired at Mr. Bush.

Collins said he would show Carnell and Mahoney fled from the scene and remained in hiding several days. On October 11, however, Collins said, he would show Mahoney went to Mr. Bush's bus station and obtained employment for one day. Later, the prosecutor said, he would prove the two men had purchased tickets for bus transportation to California, that Mahoney was captured shortly afterward at Pittsburgh and that Carnell was apprehended near that city later.

POINCARE RALLIES FROM HIS ILLNESS

Doctors' Reports Cite Slight Improvement in Condition of Statesman.

ADMIRERS ARE CHEERED

Paris, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Paris sighed with relief tonight on learning officially that the condition of former President Poincare was slightly improved.

Throughout the day there had been conflicting reports on the illness of the war-time president and eminent statesman of the republic, most of them emphasizing the seriousness of his condition.

Awaking to hear that M. Poincare was dead, the population of Paris listened all morning to rumors which finally reached the Chamber of Deputies, where many politicians and statesmen immediately left for Rue Marbeau to pay their respects to the departed statesman.

A short time later an official denial of M. Poincare's death was printed, and visitors emerging from the little house on the edge of Paris after talking with Mme. Poincare and other members of the household all agreed that his condition was improved.

Partial Paralysis Feared.

Although the doctors have maintained that the former president's illness is of the nature of a general breakdown with a slight congestion of one lung, the patient experiencing some difficulty in breathing, reports from other sources close to the statesman say he is suffering from the beginnings of partial paralysis.

The fact that M. Poincare had no fever and his pulse was normal cheered his friends and admirers.

Among the callers at the little house in the Rue Marbeau was Lord Tyrrell, the British Ambassador, who came to obtain the latest news and express to Madame Poincare the "keen anxiety felt by the king and queen of England in the illness of your eminent husband." Norman Armour called on behalf of the American Embassy.

Loss to Politics Keenly Felt.

In spite of reassuring news from the statesman's bedside, the realization that M. Poincare is lost to active French politics for all time has caused a feeling of deep regret.

The man in the street has come to regard as the ultimate hope of France the man who took up the task of saving French finances in July, 1926, when the situation was regarded as almost desperate, and within two years brought the country to a financial standing unsurpassed and equaled only by the United States.

M. Andre Tardieu, close political and personal friend of M. Poincare, called today, and also M. Doumer, president of the Senate; the Prince of Monaco, former President Millerand and other prominent persons.

CASUALTY IN STRIKE SERIOUSLY INJURED

rated from the steel jacket. Both parts of the missiles entered the driver's body. Miss Hobby is quoted by Commonwealth Attorney P. J. Hundley of Pittsylvania as saying that when she heard the word "halt" she tried to seize the brakes. She also stated, Hundley says, that at a Danville filling station, shortly before going to Schoolfield, Pickett was told that he would probably be stopped by the soldiers.

Col. Opie today appointed a special board to make an investigation of the shooting and draw up a report to Gov. Pollard. It is composed of Maj. Reese T. Grubert, Maj. Harry F. White and Maj. Goode Reynolds. The investigation, Opie said, will be made at the earliest possible moment. Long before daylight five regimental officers conferred with Commonwealth's Attorney Hundley and Sheriff Charles R. Murphy, on the shooting. Hundley said today that the sheriff had been instructed to pour out the liquor.

There will be no civil procedure unless Pickett lives. Hundley said that in that event he will be prosecuted for violating the liquor law. The soldiers, whose names were not divulged by Col. Opie, will not be prosecuted, Hundley stated, because they were obeying specific orders.

The strike situation was unchanged today, though it was reported that several members of the Loom Fixers Union have gone back to work. It was this organization which started unionization here last January. It also became known that the union is demanding the return of provisions from union workers who are going back to the mills.

The homes of A. W. Rake and S. S. Davis, both nonunion workers, who live on the Mayfield, N. C., road, were damaged by bombs early Monday morning, it became known today. The houses are about a mile apart. The porches, doors and windows of both houses were wrecked. In both instances cars sped from the scene after the explosions.

$1,000,000 IN DRUGS SEIZED ABOARD SHIP

1,047 Pounds, Hid In Furs, Revealed at New York; Smugglers Flee.

LARGEST SINGLE HAUL

(Associated Press.)

A net spread by customs officers in New York was opened yesterday to disclose $1,000,000 in narcotics, but the smugglers slipped through its meshes.

The narcotics—1,074 pounds, concealed in 25 crates of furs—were landed from the Fabre liner Alesia, December 5. Since then officers, with machine guns trained on the pier at Thirty-first street, Brooklyn, have waited in closed motor cars for the drug peddlers to appear.

Apparently, however, they became wary when officers of the Alesia searched the vessel for a legitimate shipment which had disappeared from the vessel's strong box on the voyage from Constantinople. Deciding the smugglers had escaped the trap, the Treasury Department announced seizure of the narcotics.

The half-ton was reported to be the largest single seizure ever made in this country. Commissioner F. X. A. Eble, of the Customs Bureau, and Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger, of the Narcotic Bureau, recently planned a campaign against such smugglers, and the seizure came from cooperation between the departments.

Agents who rounded up a gang of smugglers along the Atlantic Coast a few months ago heard rumors of the consignment and that it was to come from Turkey, origin of many illicit shipments. That country is not a signatory to Hague conventions, which prohibit narcotic shipments without permits.

The Alesia was met before she touched the United States and followed into Providence, R. I. Agents watched every one who left or went to the vessel at the pier.

Firemen's Promotions Approved.

The promotions of Sergt. W. L. Hurley of the Fire Department, to the position of a lieutenant, and of Private Clarence Quick to that of a sergeant were approved yesterday by the District Commissioners.

PITTS' TESTIMONY OCCUPIES ALL DAY OF SMITH CO. CASE

Defense Rests After Long Cross-Examination of Former Chairman.

VARIATIONS OF INCOMES IN VARIOUS YEARS CITED

Largest Crowd to Attend Session Fills Courtroom to Capacity.

The defense in the $5,000,000 F. H. Smith Co. conspiracy case rested at 3:30 o'clock yesterday after G. Bryan Pitts, most prominent of the three defendants, had been under cross-examination most of the day. The Government announced that it expected to conclude its rebuttal testimony by this afternoon.

Bristling, occasionally defiant and always cautious, Mr. Pitts, former chairman of the board of the Smith Co., sat through more than three hours of cross-examination by Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General. The largest crowd which has yet attended a session of the conspiracy trial in District Supreme Court filled every seat and stood in line outside the door of criminal division No. 2, attracted by the prospects of fireworks in cross-examination of the principal defendant.

Codefendants with Pitts on charges of conspiracy to embezzle funds of the Smith Co. and to conceal records are C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., former vice presidents of the firm.

Hush Greets Questioning.

The witness was turned over to the prosecution shortly after 11 o'clock, as soon as he had finished detailing, indirect examination, his connection with the last 30 items of the 95 named by the Government in its bill of particulars. An expectant hush fell over the crowded courtroom as Mr. Dodds launched immediately into his questioning.

"When did you last see the disbursement journal of the F. H. Smith Co.?" asked the prosecutor.

"Mr. Dodds, I don't remember ever having seen that book. If I did, I didn't know what it was."

"When did you last see the general journal?"

"I don't know that I ever saw it."

"Have you seen any books or records of the F. H. Smith Co. other than those brought in here?" Mr. Dodds pursued.

"I have not."

Pitts Exonerates Anadale.

On one occasion the former chairman of the board specifically exonerated Anadale of any connection with the use of one item which had been deposited to the account of "C. Elbert Anadale—Special" in the Merchants' Bank & Trust Co. This item, Pitts said, was paid to him by the Montclair Corporation, of which he was sole owner, while he was in Europe. This item, totaling $12,500, was paid on an authorization signed by Pitts before he left the United States and was used to purchase a Rolls-Royce automobile for Mrs. Pitts, according to his testimony.

Previously, under direct examination, Mr. Pitts had emphatically declared that neither Anadale nor Edwards had in any way benefited by his use of funds from the corporations he owned or from any funds named in the bill of particulars.

Frequent sharp tilts between the witness and the prosecutor resulted from Pitts' unwillingness to answer questions unless they alluded to specific persons, places and times. On more than one of these occasions, Mr. Dodds dropped the question after considerable bickering and moved on to another. On other occasions, the witness' disinclination to answer questions couched in the prosecutor's language resulted in quibbling over words which verged on the comic.

Terminology Causes Clash.

In one such case, Mr. Dodds alluded to the Montclair Corporation, the Beverly Building Corporation and others, as "subsidiaries" of the Smith company. Pitts refused to consider them as subsidiaries and Mr. Dodds offered to substitute the word "little."

"But they were not little," objected the witness.

A compromise was reached by calling them thenceforce "comparatively little" corporations.

Evidently building up a line of attack based on alleged disparities between Pitts' income tax returns over a period of years and his purchases of stock aggregating $750,000, the prosecution traced the defendant's income back to 1916. Although Frank G. Raichle, of defense counsel, objected to this line of questioning, his objection was overruled and Mr. Dodds proceeded to question Pitts.

In 1917, Mr. Dodds declared his return showed, was $6,500. At that time the defendant was 22 years old. For succeeding years, his returns were said by the prosecution to be: 1918, $8,277; 1919, $13,961; 1920, $18,933; 1921, $28,869; 1922, $80,757; 1923, $66,644; 1924, $65,103; 1925, $103,975, and 1926, $173,458.

When Mr. Dodds introduced photostatic copies of what he alleged to be Pitts' income tax returns for 1927, 1928 and 1929, the defense strenuously objected. Finally, when Pitts said he didn't know what his incomes were for those years, did not know what the returns contained, and could not specifically identify them as his, they were withdrawn by Mr. Dodds. Wilton J. Lambert, of defense counsel, then moved that testimony relating to them be stricken from the record and that all reference to income tax returns be removed.

After considerable argument among attorneys, Justice William Hitz, presiding, said that he would let the motion stand until this morning, when defense counsel could present the transcribed record and indicate the passages to which they objected.

Sold Name for $50,000.

Turning back to the origin of the F. H. Smith Co., Mr. Dodds brought out from the witness that he and Samuel J. Henry, former president, had sold the name to the F. H. Smith Investment Co. for $50,000. Of this amount, Pitts said, he and Henry each received half. He admitted, under questioning, that this company had no other connection with the old Washington firm of that name.

One sharp clash between the witness and the prosecutor occurred when Pitts was being questioned in regard to his being served with a subpena in New York last summer. He contended that, although the subpena was served on him, he was not concerned with it because it related to the Smith company and its records, and he was then no longer connected with the firm.

Pressed by Mr. Dodds as to whether or not he was actually served with the paper, he said heatedly, "You ought to know, Mr. Dodds. You were there to see that I got it."

Kept Marshal Waiting Hour.

"Yes, I was there," Mr. Dodds retorted. "And we served it after you unlocked the door to your office, after keeping the marshal waiting an hour and a half."

In direct examination Pitts continued his explanation of items in the bill of particulars, which he had begun Monday. He identified items totaling $274,820, which, he said, had been paid him from funds owed by the Smith company to the Montclair Building Corporation, of which he was sole stockholder. Funds which he said had been traced to stock dividends and interest on bonds, and others which he said were personal, aggregated $176,386. Deposits in the Southern Maryland Trust Co. which he identified totaled $374,471.

El Lado del Mar, Pitts Florida estate, again came into prominence when he identified two items, totaling $28,732, as having gone toward work on the property.

NORTH SPAIN JOINS REBEL MOVEMENT

per, Nos Otros, was the organ of extreme republicanism.

Uprising Not Communist.

The Republican government was headed by Niceto Alcala Zamora, former minister of war, who was to become premier and minister of marine.

"The republican movement is conservative," Falcon said tonight. "The socialists joined with us, promising to respect the commerce and banking systems of the country. They are moderate and conservative, they are fighting for political revolution through evolution. The movement is neither communist nor anything like it, simply a union of republicans and socialists. The majority of the people of Madrid are republican in sentiment. I think that the king is the only royalist."

Hundreds of Spanish refugees are pouring into Hendaye, since it is a convenient border town and thus has become a central rendezvous.

Government Reports Calm.

Madrid, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Spain was outwardly calm tonight in spite of a revolutionary aftermath in the form of an extensive general strike that affected, during the day, almost every section of the country.

Order was enforced by the presence of 75,000 troops and thousands of civil guards called out yesterday under Premier Damaso Berenguer's proclamation of a state of siege. They clashed in a number of cities today with strikers, but official reports received in Madrid denied that there was bloodshed.

Martial law was still in force, and a strict censorship prevented the circulation, by regular channels, of any news that might serve to alarm the population. Reports that the situation was much more critical than appeared on the surface were denied by officials.

It was known, however, that strikes broke out in Barcelona, center of Catalonian unrest; Cuenca Orense, Gijon, Saragossa, Lerida, Zamora, Ferrol, Huelva, San Sebastian and Santander. For a time a food shortage was feared in some important cities, but later, through the efforts of troops and policemen who assisted in the protection of reopened shops, restaurants and bakeries, this condition was alleviated.

Heavy Patrols Maintained.

Nevertheless, heavy patrols of troops were maintained tonight in the important centers of unrest. In most of the points affected, according to government authorities here, business was resumed normally in the afternoon and public services were maintained.

A number of arrests were made and as a result Premier Berenguer said no further revolutionary attempts were expected.

In an exclusive statement to the Associated Press the premier declared that the army was everywhere loyal and that the revolutionary movement inaugurated by Maj. Ramon Franco at Cuatro Vientos Air Field yesterday had "failed completely."

Officers involved in yesterday's revolt attempt were under court-martial today and it was expected that their sentences would be promulgated tomorrow. The general expectation was that they would suffer little more than a reduction in rank.

May Forego Extradition.

It was believed that the government would not demand the extradition of Maj. Franco, Gen. Quiepo de Llano and their companions who escaped by airplane to Portugal yesterday. Theirs being a political offense, it was pointed out, they were entitled to the right of sanctuary in a foreign country.

Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 6 (A.P.).—Reports from usually reliable sources on the Spanish frontier today indicated that serious fighting had occurred at Muelya between strikers and government forces with many casualties on each side.

In Valencia rebel airplanes were said to have bombed the royal palace.

Stock Yards to Be Built.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 16 (Special).—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is contemplating building extensive stock yards at Grafton, the western terminal of the Cumberland division. Heavy shipments of animals between the West and East are continually going over the company's lines.

FIRE CHIEF IS SUED FOR DIVORCE DECREE

Woman in Prince Georges Declares He Abused and Abandoned Her.

NEW ZONING APPROVED

Noble F. Rushe, chief of the Hyattsville Fire Department, was sued for limited divorce yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Maude Rushe, in a petition filed in the circuit court of Prince Georges County. The woman claims that Rushe "cursed, abused, beat and choked" her and that he later abandoned her.

Rushe resigned as chief of the fire department some time ago, but was reelected at a recent election. They have two children, Frank, 13 years old, and Lily, 11, and the wife asks the court to award them to her.

Through her attorneys, J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassall, the woman says that she was married in 1916, and that she was abandoned ten days ago, on December 8. In addition to abusing her, the woman says, her husband would not provide food for her and the children. She asks that the court order Rushe to pay alimony.

Three changes in zoning of lots in Capitol Heights, Tuxedo and Fairmont Heights were approved yesterday by the board of commissioners of Prince Georges County. All the changes were from residential A to commercial B.

The tracts affected are: Lots 17 and 18 in Tuxedo, belonging to Lester Berry; parts of lots 1, 2 and 3 in Capitol Heights, belonging to Joseph W. Smith, and lots 59 and 60 in Fairmont Heights, the property of Patrick Digges. All the changes had been approved by the Park and Planning Commission.

Application from the Washington Railway & Electric Co. for a refund of certain taxes from 1901 to 1929, inclusive, was denied. Some time ago the commissioners agreed to a lowered assessment for the street-car company, on the plea that the company was assessed for certain land which it did not own. At that time, the clerk to the commissioners said, the company agreed, in view of the lowered assessment, not to ask any refund of taxes on this land.

The new sheriff, W. C. Hopkins, appeared and asked that he be paid for the transportation of prisoners on a piece basis. The old sheriff, Charles S. Early, has been paid $100 a month flat for this service. Sheriff Hopkins presented the schedule of charges he wanted to go into effect, but was told that the present arrangements would have to hold until July 1, 1931, as the budget had been made up on that basis. His request would be considered when the new levy is made up, he was told.

J. Frank Lillard appeared as a representative of the Bar Association to ask more chairs for the law library in the courthouse and to ask that hat racks be installed. The commissioners told him that they had no money for the purpose, but would see what could be done. Several petitions, asking the board to recommend to the State Roads Commission the repairing of certain roads, will be considered when the board draws up the road-building program it will submit to the State body.

A proposal that the county share in the cost of a contemplated survey of traffic conditions in and near Washington was held under consideration. Half the cost would be paid by the United States Bureau of Roads, and the rest would be borne by the Washington Commissioners and by the surrounding counties.

Working for several hours on the safe in the coal office of G. P. Bickford, in Berwyn, thieves finally opened it and gained only 51 cents. The crime was similar to that committed in Berwyn several months ago, when an attempt was made on the safe of the Sanitary store in that town.

In both cases the marauders raided a railroad tool box to get the instruments used in the crime, and in both cases they apparently wore gloves. A sledge was used on the Sanitary safe, but only a pinch bar and cold chisel were used in the job yesterday. The investigation was made by Lieut. Tom Garrison and County Policeman Claude Reese.

Through Attorney John S. White, Elsie Payne yesterday filed suit for absolute divorce from Raymond Payne, charging abandonment. The woman, who lives in Cottage City, said that she married Payne in 1922 and that they have two children, Marguerite, 6 years old, and Robert, 3. Payne, whose address was given on Seventh street northeast, near B street, deserted her in 1927, the woman says. She asks the custody of the children.

Starting for the doctor's office to receive treatment for a minor ailment, F. G. Sowers, of Hyattsville, ended up yesterday in Sibley Hospital with a broken leg. He slipped on the steps of the office of Dr. Leonard Hays and received the injury in his fall. He was taken to the hospital by the Prince Georges Rescue Squad.

Woodrow Wilson, last of the quartet of colored youths who escaped from the Maryland House of Correction at Cheltenham Sunday night, was captured yesterday in Annapolis. When arrested by Annapolis policemen he was driving the car of Millard Schultz, which was reported stolen from Camp Springs shortly after his escape.

Judge Thomas D. Griffith committed the youth to the Marlboro Jail to await action of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny. The other three, who were recaptured earlier in the week, were returned to the school.

ALEXANDRIA PLANS ASSESMEENTS CUT

Board of Equalization Seeks to Halve Levies on All Real Property.

MAN FROZEN TO DEATH

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523

The local board of tax equalization has adopted a resolution to the effect that tax assessments on all real property in Alexandria will be reduced 50 per cent, effective December 26, unless the attorney for the city secures satisfactory proof of the acquiescence of the corporations in Alexandria to a reassessment of their property at 100 per cent of the market value, such acquiescence to be sanctioned by the State Corporation Commission in writing.

This action on the part of the equalization board, it is understood, will mean a saving to the city of approximately $30,000 in taxes. The local board of assessors has placed the assessment of real estate over which it had jurisdiction at the full market value, and the city council has named tentatively a tax rate of $1.20 on each $100 of assessed valuation. The corporations, however, are assessed at only 40 per cent of the market value. Negotiations are understood to be under way by which the corporations will assent to a higher assessment, but nothing definite has yet been announced.

The action of the equalization board will mean that in all probability the city council, at its meeting tomorrow, will adopt a tax rate of $2.40 on each $100, which will not affect the amount of taxes to be paid by the property owners.

Miss Mary Monroe, city school nurse, addressing the Alexandria Rotary Club yesterday, stated that the conditions are no worse than for many years past, and that the list of those applying for charity is practically the same as in former years. If the professional beggars, and those who hunt jobs without any real desire to find work were eliminated, the citizens of Alexandria would find that the conditions here are good, she said.

Other speakers heard were City Manager Wallace Lawrence and Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Both these spoke in an optimistic vein as to the local conditions.

President-elect Rogar C. Sullivan, of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, has made preliminary arrangements for a training school for directors and chairmen and officers of the club, the first meeting of the school to be held in the George Mason Hotel at 8 o'clock Monday night. It is expected that Robert O. Hutchinson, of Manassas, the newly elected lieutenant governor of Kiwanis in the Capital district, will address the meeting and take charge of the training school.

President Sullivan has announced these committee appointments for the ensuing year:

Henry Barbour Beach, 40 years old, was found dead yesterday morning in the yard of the home of Joseph Bradley, 505 North Royal street, his body frozen stiff. Mr. Bradley, shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, discovered the body and notified the police, Sergt. George Everly and Policeman Posey took the body to an undertaking establishment.

City Coroner T. Marshall Jones issued a certificate of accidental death from exposure.

The body was later taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Brawner, 522 Queen street, where funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Mr. Beach is survived by a son, who lives in Washington.

The facilities of the Alexandria city jail were increased yesterday by the addition of 24 cots, placed in the corridors to accommodate the unusually large number of prisoners. The capacity of the jail normally is approximately 80, but there are now more than 100 occupants, despite the fact that Judge William S. Snow, of the police court, recently announced that minor offenders would be permitted to pay their fines in installments, rather than be sent to jail for nonpayment. This, however, does not apply to drunks or violators of the prohibition ordinance.

LA PLATA IN DANGER AS FIRE RAZES MILL

GASOLINE TANKS ESCAPE

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Dec. 16.—A section of the town of La Plata, Md., was threatened with destruction by fire which today razed the Matthews-Howard Co.'s mill, destroying thousands of bushels of grain and grain products and many tons of hay which were stored there.

The blaze is believed to have started from sparks caused by a short circuit in the wiring of the structure. Fire apparatus from Washington, Marlboro and Leonardtown was called to aid the local volunteer fire department when it was feared that the flames would ignite the nearby gasoline reservoirs of the Standard, Sinclair and Texas oil companies.

The mill building, which was close to the Pennsylvania Railroad's Popes Creek line, was a mass of flames when the fire fighters arrived. A lumber storage house and several nearby residences were threatened.

The fire was discovered about 2 o'clock by Raymond Rowen, manager of the mill, which was a three-story structure. An ample water supply from the town's 75,000-gallon reservoir and the fast work of the volunteer fire fighters, aided by other La Plata residents, prevented the spread of the fire to nearby buildings. When reinforcements arrived, including No. 15 Engine Company from Washington, the fire was under control, although the ruins probably will smolder throughout tonight.

The three oil companies whose tanks were menaced by the fire, store many thousands of gallons of gasoline, kerosene and lubricants there for distribution to dealers.

Hugh E. Kirby, member of the board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, is announced as the principal speaker. Mr. Kirby will address the club on the plans for the proposed George Washington Memorial parkway from Mount Vernon to the Great Falls on the Virginia shore of the Potomac River, as provided in the Capper-Cramton bill passed at the last session of Congress.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting at the Washington Golf and Country Club tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock.

Taking advantage of the early distribution of Virginia automobile plates, which has started in the office of Sheriff Howard B. Fields by J. V. Turner, in charge of the distribution, many citizens are getting their tags in advance of the rush which will occur the latter part of the month.

With the new method now in force in the issuing of the tags, Mr. Turner is urging all motorists to pay special atention to the cards being issued this year, as they contain the cards for both 1931 and 1932 tags. The card for 1932 must be saved by the owner, as the Motor Vehicle Commissioner will issue no cards next year excepting to owners of new cars, Mr. Turner stated.

The injured, said to be N. H. Coleman, Paul O. Quinn and Joe Hood, of Rawlings Siding, were brought to the Petersburg Hospital.

FALLS CHURCH VOTE SET FOR JANUARY 13

Two Elections Necessary to Pass Upon $125,000 Bond Issue.

PETITION IS PRESENTED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Falls Church Town Council has issued a call for a special election to be held on January 13, among the resident freehold property owners, on whether or not the proposal for a bond issue for $125,000, with which to install a municipal water system, will be left to a vote of the qualified voters within the corporate limits. Two elections will have to be held on the question, because of provisions in the town charter. The proposed water system is to be connected to the District of Columbia water system, through Arlington County mains.

A petition signed by 218 of the freeholders in the town was presented to the council at a special meeting Monday night. It was stated at that time that only eleven persons approached had refused to sign the petition for the water installation. The council estimated that there were approximately 600 resident freeholders in the town.

Under provisions of the town charter there are two qualifications to be met by a person participating in the first election. They must own property in the town and maintain actual residence in the corporation. It is not necessary to be registered, as in a general election, or even have the taxes on the property, or head taxes, paid to date.

The council has recessed until January 5 and prior to that time, and twenty days before January 13, the town officials will establish an authentic list of resident freehold property owners. These lists will be posted in three or more public places together with a notice of the election. Any person claiming to be a freeholder, and whose name is not on the list, may appear before the council on January 5 and establish his claim.

If the majority of the freeholders vote in favor of the proposed bond issue, the council will make an application to the circuit court for permission to hold the second election, at which time the bond issue must be favorably voted upon by a majority of the qualified voters in the town. This list includes those whose head tax was paid on or before December 8, 1930, and who are entitled to vote in the general election next November.

G. E. Darrell, mayor of Herndon, has issued an order removing the ban placed on the use of water from the town's water system during the drought this summer. Although the recent rains have had no effect on the wells of the surrounding country, the mayor states that he feels safe in lifting the ban and being more liberal, as the town wells have held up through the entire drought. Farmers from the country surrounding Herndon have hauled water from these wells to be used on their farms for waterink stock and other purposes, besides the regular demand by the citizens of the town, and there has been no noticeable depreciation in the town's supply.

The fire departments from Vienna, Fairfax, McLean, Falls Church, Herndon and Cherrydale, were forced to lay more than 1½ miles of hose to extinguish a fire that destroyed the entire first floor of the home of J. P. Wickline at Andrew Chapel, on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike about 4 miles from Tysons Cross Roads. The water was obtained from Wolf Trap Run by laying two lines of hose.

The lower floor of the home, which was completed about a month ago, was completely wrecked and the second floor was damaged by the smoke and water. The fire originated in the basement but its cause was undetermined. The loss was estimated to be approximately $3,000.

The recently elected officers of the Fortnightly Club of Herndon are as follows: Mrs. Harry B. Mitchell, president; Mrs. Mary M. North, vice president; Mrs. Arthur H. Buell, secretary; Mrs. Marvin Perkins, assistant secretary; Mrs. Frederick W. Robinson, treasurer; Mrs. Russell Lynn, librarian and Miss Elizabeth Leonhardt, assistant librarian.

The librarian, Mrs. Lynn, reported to the club, which maintains the Herndon Library, that there are 6,511 books on the shelves, with 475 readers. Six new books are added to the collection each Friday at which time the library is kept open from 1 o'clock until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The next meeting of the club will be held on January 8, at the home of Mrs. Lynn.

Fairfax County Engineer F. N. Larkin, and County Engineer W. F. P. Reid, will hold a conference today to discuss road improvements in Mount Vernon district during the coming year.

Byron Austin, postmaster of Falls Church has announced that his office will give continuous service throughout the day, and that during the Christmas holidays the office will be open evenings, as late as necessary to handle the day's business.

Mrs. J. W. Brookfield, county chairman of the Junior Red Cross, has appointed Mrs. S. C. Stuntz to assist her in the Oakton and Vienna schools. In the northern section of the county Mrs. G. Ashley Money and Mrs. O. F. Northington will have charge of the drive.

The Aid and Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church at Falls Church will meet tomorrow in the church parlors.

FORMERLY USELESS STOCK ISSUE IN SUIT

WITNESS FROM CAPITAL

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 16.—A suit of the Union Mining Co. against the New York Mining Co., one of the early operations in the Maryland coal field, which dissolved in 1924, involving the distribution of about $55,000 held by the Second National Bank here as trustee, was heard late yesterday before Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, who withheld decision.

The suit is to decide whether this sum is to be paid to the plaintiff, the only known stockholder, although many heirs of original stockholders have appeared to claim their share, despite the fact that the original stock certificates have been lost. At one time the stock was looked upon as valueless.

Among the original stockholders were Washington Irving, the Nevins heirs, descendants of the founder of the Cat and Dog Hospital, New York, which still operates on his endowment, and a number of others, mostly in New York.

The witnesses included Miss Louisa Weightman, 87 years old, of Washington, D. C., daughter of the first territorial delegate from New Mexico. She testified for the estate of Richard S. Coxe, of Washington, which claims 125 shares of the stock. There is a large array of counsel.

MR. LEGGE IS OPTIMISTIC.

Alexander Legge chairman of the Federal Farm Board, continues to be optimistic over the farm situation Recently he said that one of the "brightest spots" in the situation was that the "vicious circle" of increased visible supply of world wheat was broken in November. Since August, 1926, he said, the visible world supply each month was greater than in the corresponding month of the previous year, but last month crop reporting agencies estimated that the visible supply was less than it had been in November, 1929. In the same statement, Mr. Legge foresaw wheat production reduced to a permanent domestic basis within five years, and possibly within three years. This year wheat acreage was reduced about 5 per cent. Next year Mr. Legge expects further reductions of 5 per cent. He estimated that ordinarily a reduction of 20 per cent from the 1929 production would be necessary to bring production into line with domestic consumption, but that due to increased feeding of wheat to live stock such curtailment might not be necessary. An annual surplus of 200,000,000 bushels of wheat could be absorbed by use of grain for live stock feed, said Mr. Legge, without disturbing the demand for corn, which in normal years runs around 2,700,000,000 bushels.

It is, no doubt, gratifying to members of the Farm Board that the visible world supply of wheat was smaller last November than it was in November, 1929, but surely the board is not willing to accept the record of a single month as conclusive of anything whatsoever. If in December further reductions of the visible world supply of wheat as compared with the supply of a year ago are shown, and if the reductions continue for a period of months, there will be good reason for rejoicing, but the mere fact that one month showed decreases means nothing.

If the Farm Board is counting definitely on a 5 per cent curtailment of wheat acreage in next season's planting it may possibly be disappointed. The 5 per cent reduction of last year was accomplished with the greatest difficulty. Farmers who curtailed their acres were those who were willing to cooperate in the experiment launched by Congress when it enacted the farm marketing act. From now on the board will be dealing with farmers who are not so willing to cooperate. The board probably will find that acreage curtailment will become progressively more difficult as the reductions become more pronounced. The fact that wheat is selling around 80 cents may, however, be a determining factor toward acreage curtailment.

Many farmers can not market their wheat profitably at 80 cents. They will be forced to forego planting while prices remain at low levels. But once prices improve, does the board suppose that there will not be increased planting? A similar situation prevails with respect to the feeding of wheat to live stock. While wheat is selling at 80 cents it is possible to use it profitably for feeding. But as the price increases it will become more and more costly to feed wheat to stock. Finally the point will be reached when wheat can no longer compete with corn as stock feed, whereupon the surplus that otherwise would be disposed of in the form of meat will find its way to the market.

The farm problem is as much of an enigma as it ever was. During these hard times the way is paved for acreage curtailment and wheat crop conversion to meat, but as soon as the general economic situation improves it is not improbable that the same old ills will return to plague the farmer. Meanwhile, of course, the visible world supply of wheat may be reduced somewhat, but, even so, permanent improvement can not be expected until there is definite evidence that the American farmer has reduced his production to the domestic requirement.

EINSTEIN, HUMORIST.

Prof. Albert Einstein, discoverer of that deep and mysterious theory known to the public as relativity, stepped out of his role as a scientist on Sunday to expound another theory that is equally as hazy, nebulous and amusing. He set himself up as the exponent of "militant pacifism." He spoke in glowing terms about a "war resistance fund" to support individuals refusing the call to the colors. It was very evident that even when he departs from his own field of relativity Prof. Einstein remains soaring in the clouds.

Is that what the world-famed scientist crossed the Atlantic to tell America about? Does he expect the American people to take him seriously when he advises citizens to defy their governments? The naivete of his suggestion indicates that he was jesting with his audience. Or was the learned doctor trying to give a practical illustration of how absurd a distinguished man can become simply by getting out of his own field?

Perhaps Prof. Einstein was merely trying to caricature some of the American peace panaceas. One ingenious thinker suggested that business men and industrialists of all the world get together and agree to withhold materials of war from their belligerent governments. Another urged the United States and Great Britain to disarm the world by denying to all other countries steel for armaments. Prof. Einstein goes one better by suggesting that pacifists from all over the world recruit the people, with the idea of resisting military service. When that is done, says he, let all the enemies of war contribute to a fund to aid those imprisoned for refusing to serve in armies. He seems to have forgotten one thing. The fund certainly ought to be large enough to pay the funeral expenses of traitors who desert and are shot down for their cowardice.

Prof. Einstein came to America widely heralded as a wizard of mathematics and science. No one thought of him as a humorist or satirist. But apparently he has decided to lay weighty matters aside and indulge in extravaganza while he is here.

WAR ON AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

The Foreign Policy Association has made an analysis of trade between the United States and Russia and brought forth a number of arguments to support America's contributions to communism. It is pointed out that Russia's commerce is less than 2 per cent of the world trade, and that the red regime is exporting less than Russia exported under the czars. Presumably this is the basis on which the association concludes that Soviet exports to this country present "no immediate menace."

The volume of exports from Russia has nothing to do with the question at issue. The fact is that Russia is dumping upon the world market goods made in confiscated factories, from stolen materials and with slave labor. Proceeds from this ruthless industrial system are being used to strengthen the Soviet's grip and to promote a world revolution. Only a small quantity of goods is needed to demoralize a market, and so long as the reds are undermining the standards of civilization in the interests of their own system, the menace in their export program is real and imminent.

The United States is pictured by the association as being in a favored position so far as Soviet trade is concerned. The balance of trade during the last fiscal year was almost six to one, "in favor" of the United States. This simply means that this country is making the greatest contribution to the success of communism. Other nations have jeopardized their trade relations with the Soviet by laying down embargoes against products that have been dumped within their borders. The United States still exposes its industries to that crooked competition.

Red Russia buys large quantities of machinery in the United States to build up its own factories so that it can ruin American industry by selling at less than cost. That is what is called a "profitable trade" with the Soviet. By accepting Communist goods the United States is helping the Communists to enslave the Russian people. At the same time it is exposing American enterprise to ruin. The menace of red competition has not yet become general, but if the United States continues to encourage the Communists in their revolutionary program the Soviet war on legitimate trade will extend to virtually all industries.

CHRISTMAS TOYS, JUST THE SAME.

The unemployed hawk their apples on street corners. Bread lines wind tortuously through squalid streets in the poorer sections of American cities. Missions and flophouses are crowded by miserable unfortunates seeking to escape the cold. The heart may well be heavy at the thought of the distress that is abroad as Christmas approaches. But a prosaic, routine announcement from a Government department lends a note of cheer to offset the feeling of depression. It reads as follows:

> The advent of the holiday season finds the year's greatest activity in the toy trade throughout the country, and 1930 is no exception. Even though gifts for the grown-ups may have a more utilitarian color this year, indications are that the children will come in for a generous share of yuletide cheer.
> As a Nation, Americans seem prone to insure the health and happiness of their youngsters, and even where definite sacrifices on the part of parents are involved the strained family budget will include expenditures for toys.

Of course the children will be made happy this Christmas. It is typical of the American people that they are willing to pinch a penny here and there, if necessary, so that the little ones may not be disappointed on Christmas Day. Toys will be provided for children whose parents are unable to purchase them, nor will the American people, so far as it lies in their power, permit misfortune, distress and suffering to afflict their fellowmen on that day. While the "family budget is being strained" to include the purchase of toys, it will be strained to help those directly affected by the depression. The heart of America, usually concealed, will be exhibited this Christmas Day.

"REGULATION OF BUSINESS."

The House judiciary committee is scheduled to begin hearings today on the Ludlow bill for stabilization of industry. It is difficult to see what can be accomplished by discussion of this measure with Congress in its present mood. There is urgent need for emergency legislation to give immediate relief to the unemployed and those suffering from results of the drought. But this bill is not an emergency measure. Its purpose is to prevent the recurrence of depression by establishing Federal supervision over industry.

The Ludlow bill would establish a Federal industrial commission of five members to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. It would be the function of this body to control production, coordinate industry, and to bring about a regular even flow of production and commerce. Presumably this commission would exercise control over industry in somewhat the same way as the Interstate Commerce Commission regulates railroads. Competition would give way to regulation.

The very thought of Federal supervision of industry is stifling. The energy that has built up the greatest economic system the world has ever known would be throttled. Economy and efficiency would be subordinated to arbitrary routine. The machinery of production would necessarily be geared to a slow grind, instead of being quickened by improved methods and the ever-changing desires of the public. The world has not yet found a satisfactory substitute for fair and reasonable competition, and it is hardly to be supposed that this proposed commission would prove to be one.

It is a mistake to suppose that there is any fundamental evil in either individuals or corporations producing to their capacity. The more that is produced, the more will be available for consumption and enjoyment by the great masses of people. The great mistake of the period immediately before the depression was the failure to build up incomes in proportion to the increased production. This condition could not be corrected by stifling industry with regulation. If the competition were eliminated from the industrial system, the stimulus on which it thrives would be gone, and with it the incentive to progress. It is possible that business cycles could be thus eliminated, but it is also probable that the country would remain in a state of sluggish depression. Initiative can not be curtailed and stimulated at the same time.

Business in this country is undergoing a sweeping evolution. Industry realizes the need for stabilization more keenly than does any politician. Efforts toward that end are being made, and it is certain that a return to prosperity will increase those efforts. Industry must be given time to set its house in order, to find its own remedy for unemployment, before the Government launches any scheme for regulation that might prove to be a gigantic blunder. The Government can assist in its own way, but any headlong plunge toward socialism can only make matters worse.

In these days of radical proposals to substitute governmental for individual responsibility it is well to remember the counsel of Abraham Lincoln: "In all that people can individually do for themselves," he said, "the Government ought not to interfere."

RESTORING PERSEPOLIS

From a State Department Bulletin.

A permit has apparently been granted to Prof. James Henry Breasted, orientalist and historian, to restore Persepolis, the American Minister to Persia, Mr. Charles C. Hart, reports to the State Department. This permit is the first act of the council of ministers under the recently enacted antiquities law. As of possible interest in this connection, there is to be held at Burlington House in London during the months of January and February, 1931, an international exhibit of Persian art and archeology, at which time the greatest masterpieces of Persian art owned by the various countries of the world, including Persia, will be on exhibit. Many of the sacred shrines of Persia, hitherto never viewed by any non-Moslems, have been dismantled by order of the shah and their treasures sent to London. Among the other countries cooperating in this wonderful exhibit are Great Britain, Germany, Soviet Russia, Poland, Egypt, Turkey and the United States.

The site of the ancient Persian City of Persepolis is about 40 miles northeast of the present town of Shiraz. If not founded by Darius I, of the first Persian (Achaemenian) dynasty, it became the royal residence (and in this sense, the capital of Persia) during his reign (circa 520 B. C.). The principal buildings of the city, the ruins of which exist to this day, date from the time of Darius and his successors.

The city, being situated in a remote mountainous region, never developed the importance of Susa, Babylon and Ecbatana (the modern Hamadan) which, after having been the capitals of ancient states absorbed in the expanding Achaemenian empire, remained for long centuries the principal cities of the Persian realm. Owing to this isolation the city seems to have been unknown to the Greeks of classical antiquity until the Asiatic campaign of Alexander, who not only penetrated to Persepolis, but is credited with having burned its palaces. (These ruins are now known to modern Persians as Takht-i-Jamshid.)

However, despite the probably accidental conflagration above mentioned, the city proper continued to exist and was in 316 B. C. the capital of Persia, a province of the great but ephemeral Macedonian empire of Alexander and his successors. Indeed, the principal town of the district was always situated near the ruins of the Achaemenian palaces. In A. D. 200 the City of Istakhr is known to have grown up near the site of the Achaemenian Persepolis, and was the seat of local governors.

Istakhr (Persepolis) was, in turn, the seat of the second great Persian empire, that of the Sassanian rulers, and was likewise famed as a center of priestly orthodoxy and learning. The Sassanian monarchs emulated their predecessors in adorning the vicinity of their city with rock sculptures in which endeavor they did not hesitate to overlay a portion of the Achaemenian remains with inscriptions and carvings. Little of the Sassanian building remains, for although these kings built, their constructions were of slighter mass than those of the first dynasty.

Oddly enough, Istakhr was as unknown to the Romans as its predecessor Persepolis had been to the Greeks, and that despite some 400 years of contact between the two peoples.

At the time of the Arab invasion of Persia (seventh century) Istakhr offered serious resistance to the invaders, but apparently, although captured, was not destroyed, since it remained an important town after the year 700. Nevertheless, its importance steadily diminished, since in the tenth century Istakhr had become totally insignificant and eventually ceased to exist as a city. The environs, however, remained covered with villages, which flourished in their gardens until the devastations of the wars of the eighteenth century.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

JANET MAKES A LIAR OUT OF ME.

I ought to be truthful, there's no doubt of that,
For a lie is a truly detestable thing,
But when a man's worried, lest Christmas fall flat,
What can he do with the questions they spring?
What to this query does any man say:
"What's in that package you're hiding away?"

Little Miss Janet stands guarding the door
And pounces on me every time I appear.
There's something those sharp eyes are searching me for,
There's something she's seeking this time of the year.
"What's in that bundle?" she asks with a shout.
I reply: "That's a puzzle you'll never work out."

I wonder if lies are scored up against souls,
And flung back at men when the river is crossed;
If they are I am doomed for the hottest of coals
And the cruelest spot in the realms of the lost;
For over and over when Janet has cried,
"Is that something for me?" I have brazenly lied.

Condemned I may be when my last day is done,
But how can a father escape such a fate?
If he truthfully answers he spoils all the fun
And he hasn't a minute to lose or to wait.
"Oh, what's in that parcel?" asks Janet, and I
Have to hurry to think up a suitable lie.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE morning mail brought a letter from a young man whipped by his conscience. He honors himself too little because he knows himself too well and doesn't know enough about other people.

"I am a coward," he says. "I am a cheat. I am a liar. I am eighteen. Is it too late for me to become a young man of character?

I would say to him, first of all, that a revelation of that kind, boldly signed, is itself proof of character.

When you say you are a coward, it isn't necessary to add that you are a sneak and a liar. Brave men do not sneak, and the man who fears nothing does not lie.

If, then, you can rid yourself of cowardice, the other faults will disappear.

To rid yourself of cowardice, you must begin with the realization that all men are cowards. There isn't a normal man on earth who is afraid of nothing.

Fear is a gift of nature. It is a part of every creature's protective equipment. Without fear to prompt the use of wings or nimble legs or to multiply the force of a blow, all creatures would be easy prey for their natural enemies. Fear keeps the stag alert and watchful. It prompts the charge of a buffalo. It causes the snake to strike. And it is as natural to man as wrath and love are.

Soldiers are afraid. Their courage consists in going forward or holding fast when their hearts are cold with fear.

All men are cowards about something. One is afraid in a storm at sea, one afraid of lightning, one afraid of wild animals or snakes or a loud-talking bully.

In nearly every instance the thing a man fears is the thing to which he isn't accustomed. Thus death is feared by all, or nearly all, because none can have experience of it. And the man who seems brave while others tremble before a loose tiger is the man who has dealt with tigers. There is no terror in the accustomed. The capacity for fear is destroyed by habit.

If you are a coward, it is because you have had no experience in overcoming fear. You fear the unknown. You fear a fist because you haven't invited a blow and thus discovered how little it hurts.

The way to rid yourself of cowardice is to do something you fear to do. Force yourself to do it. And when you find yourself still alive, select another fear and conquer it in the same way.

You can make courage a mental habit; and when the overcoming of fear has given you a new pride in manliness, you will play square and speak the truth in spite of the devil and high water.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Sign of Hard Winter.
Detroit News.

A New England trapper says the pelts of wild animals are light, and that therefore we'll have an open winter. On the other hand, the moss is thick on the north side of the Wickersham Commission.

Congress Can't Function.
New York World.

Hoover in Fighting Mood.
Topeka Capital.

It is gratifying to the country to hear from Washington that President Hoover is angered by the behavior of some persons in Congress. This is gratifying because getting mad is one of the marks of political leadership. It lines people up, and prevents having things put over against the common good. Two Presidents who excelled in this respect were Cleveland and Roosevelt.

Referendum by Minority.
Houston Post-Dispatch.

It is still a subject of comment that in the November election, despite the fact that such live issues as prohibition, unemployment and the Hoover administration's handling of the situation in the midst of business depression, were before the people, the total vote in a number of States was far below that of 1928, or that of some previous years. The number of voters who went hunting or stayed by the fire last November 4 was strikingly large.

One moral from this tale is that if a decisive vote is desired on the question of prohibition repeal, the surest way to get it is to submit the referendum in a presidential year. In other years, apparently, one-half or one-third of the qualified voters will not go to the polls.

True to Form.
Detroit News.

Courageous, craven, forward looking, uninspired, full of meat, empty, vigorous, timorous, positive, vacillating. Just the usual composite opinion of the presidential message.

Slam, Bang!
Lexington Herald.

Some one has called attention to the fact that putting a Republican out of office to put a Democrat in doesn't solve the unemployment problem, but it certainly does improve the service.

Immigration Doomed.
Philadelphia Public Lerser.

Complete suspension of immigration into this country for a period of two years seems assured. No opposition to this course has appeared in Congress, and the logic of the plan has appealed to the general public. With the employment situation showing little or no sign of improvement, it is unreasonable to welcome the arrival here of aliens in search of work.

Warning From a Democrat.
Atlanta Constitution.

Many Democrats have taken the position that the chief business for which they, as a minority, are in Congress is to prove as obstructive as possible to the present Republican administration and party Congress majority.

News comes from Washington that they are carrying that attitude on into the next Congress.

If the country and people were rocking along on a full-stream of economic ease and normal prosperity, that party program might be followed with small detriment to other than mere partisan interests. It is legitimate enough to "play politics" when public interests are safe and the people busy and contented. But it would be highly impolitic, unpatriotic and unsafe, when the country is stalled and the people needing a new era of business activity, to block the highway against wise and provident measures simply because the other party proposes them.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Stunned Pacifist" Points Out That United States Can Get Out of World Court—Mr. Gibson Not the Only Honest Man at Geneva.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with supreme interest your moving editorial of December 15, "If Gibson Could Speak."

Since when is Mr. Gibson so dumb that he can not speak for himself? And who is so omniscient or presumptuous as to speak for him? Are you sure that he would say, as you imply, that Britain is trying to hamstring the United States in the construction of warships and that Russia is the only nation that sincerely desires disarmament?

You imply that he might expose the sinister reasons why France and Italy can not agree on naval armament and why the nations of Europe plan to beg off from paying their debts. Well, why? Why not tell us, Mr. Editor, instead of raising such horrible spectres in our innocent minds? Have you read Mr. Gibson's mind, or were you with him at Geneva?

But as for the final stroke, that the European nations want to get us into the World Court so that they can bring up the question of debts: are you not aware that if we are in, the World Court can not consider without our consent any question in which we have or claim to have an interest without risking our immediately getting out again? Surely the nations wish us to be in permanently, not temporarily.

Meanwhile, isn't it too naive of us Americans to suppose that our representative is the only honest man at Geneva and that all others meet him with "perfidy and rapacity?"

"STUNNED PACIFIST."

Bring Back the Saloon, Open Up Breweries and Distilleries, and Prosperity Would Come Again, Says Mr. Whitehead, of Baltimore.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Antisaloon League sees red and is going to renew the fight. Churches and soulless reformers are again fanning up the almost dead flames of prohibition and its destruction and crime, and ask for more funds to throw away on an aimless struggle. No man with half sense would claim that prohibition ever did any good. Bring back the old saloon, open up the brewery, start the distilleries to work, and save the country. Put five million men to work with the return of the good old wet days, and with the opening up of the closed breweries and distilleries the country would be just as prosperous and happy as it ever could be. Besides, everybody would be contented and well. No more depression, no more dull markets, no more soup house and no more unemployment problem to solve. "What fools the people are!" So dense and dumb, such uncivilized hordes, they do not see, do not understand as yet that they are up to their eyes in sins and mistakes.

The country needs only a few more men like Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of the Maryland Free State and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York to have a say, and I do not doubt that Alfred E. Smith, too, could lead the starving, senseless multitudes back to safety and out of the gloomy, black wilderness of sin, crime and poverty brought on by the fanatics and the reform Antisaloon League rule and the wonderful Volstead act.

THOMAS J. WHITEHEAD.

Man of Blood Must Perish in Blood if Society Is to Protect Itself—Too Much Leniency to Murderers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently the newspaper headline, "Prisoner Gets Four Years for Taxicab Holdups," caught my eye, and owing to the shortness of the sentence imposed, I read further. The prisoner, I learned, got his four years after pleading guilty to two taxicab hold-up robberies. Not quite enough punishment in such a sentence, I reflected, to materially check the homicide activities of other gunmen.

Generally speaking, the law does not make sufficient distinction between murderous lawbreaking and other forms of criminality; the lawbreaker who carries a gun is not punished with the severity which is his due. It is a startling circumstance, come to think of it, that society has not made greater progress in protecting itself from the mankiller. The fact that we still temporize with jungle lawlessness is almost enough to cause a doubt that we are civilized.

In the crude commencements of civilization it was natural that there should be bestial hangovers from the savage state. The Oriental thug, the mercenary bravo, the cutthroat, the guntoter, the stagecoach highwayman, the bad Indian have had their day. The pity of it is that, under one name or another, their modern counterparts terrorize and kill their thousands of victims in this day and generation.

Prison reform and lenient treatment of many classes of wrongdoers are bound to have a great influence in making this a better world. But for its own good society must sternly make it understood that the man of blood will die in blood.

F. J. C.-R.

Texas Democrat Kindly Advises Mr. Hoover How to Solve the Prohibition Puzzle.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Each year the prohibition question grows more perplexing and annoying to the politicians. Something must be done "to assist things to turn up, as it were," in the language of Mr. Micawber. It will be useless for the Republicans to turn wet at this late date. If they remain dry they will probably be inundated by the wet tide.

But here is a happy thought. The main argument against prohibition is that it is not effective. Suppose Mr. Hoover should serve notice on the whole establishment that every man should get busy or some one else would get the job. The result would be astounding! The prohibition question would be settled, and Mr. Hoover would not have to pack his trunk until 1937.

Longworths Give Dinner For Hoovers

Annual Function of the Speaker Is Notably Small Affair.

THE President and Mrs. Hoover were the guests at dinner last night of the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

The guests invited to meet them were the Ambassador of Belgium, Prince de Ligne, and Princess de Ligne, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Graydon, the Governor of Porto Rico and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Lady Ribblesdale, Mr. Percy Pyne and Mr. Suydam Cutting.

The dinner, notably small, was a departure from the usual list of official guests invited to meet the Chief Executive, and was significant for the interesting out-of-town visitors who came for the event. About half of the guests form a house party at the Longworth home on Massachusetts avenue, as the Governor of Porto Rico and Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt and Mr. Percy Pyne are house guests of the Longworths.

The dinner is one of a series given for the President and Mrs. Hoover. The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, was host to President and Mrs. Hoover at dinner on Tuesday, December 9.

Adamses Honor Guests At Leahy Dinner.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams were the guests in whose honor Rear Admiral and Mrs. William D. Leahy entertained at dinner last evening. The other guests were Rear Admiral and Mrs. Frank B. Upham, Rear Admiral Montgomery Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren and Mrs. Albert Niblack.

Mrs. Niblack is the widow of Vice Admiral Niblack and is passing several weeks in Washington with her sister, Mrs. Leahy.

The Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Robert P. Lamont, was the ranking guest at the luncheon given yesterday by the Ambassador of France, M. Paul Claudel, who entertained in honor of the American delegation to the International Overseas Exposition to be held in Paris in 1931.

Others in the company were the Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. Frederick H. Payne; the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke; the Assistant Secretary of State, Mr. Wilbur J. Carr; Representative J. Charles Linthicum; Representative John Hamilton Fish, jr., Representative Henry W. Temple, Mr. George Akerson, Mr. Bascom Slemp, commissioner general of the American delegation to the exposition, who sailed for Europe last night on the Mauretania; Brig. Gen. Francis Le J. Parker, Maj. Gen. Frank McIntyre, Mr. Charles Burke, Mr. Loyall Farragut Sewall, M. Armend Sieper, M. Laurie, M. Desnoyers, M. de Longevialle, M. Pierre Claudel and members of the embassy staff, the first secretary, M. Pierre Henry de la Blanchetal; the second secretary, M. Raymond Bousquet, and the attache, M. Claude Achille Clarac.

The retired Danish Minister, Mr. Constantin Brun, who for almost 20 years has been envoy in Washington, has been honored by his government with the title, Honorary Counselor of Legation, a title conferred for length of duty and extraordinary service.

Mr. Brun first came to the United States in 1885, and has been here continuously with the exception of a term of service as Minister to Great Britain. He has been Minister to Washington since 1912, when he was transferred from London at his own request.

Mr. Brun has been succeeded by Mr. Otto Wadsted, who, with Mme. Wadsted, recently came to Washington. They are living at the Mayflower until a legation building is built.

Jugoslavian Reception Today for King.

The Minister of Jugoslavia, Dr. Leonide Pitamic, will entertain this afternoon at a reception from 5 until 7 o'clock, in celebration of the birthday of King Alexander.

Capt. Gordon Gordon-Smith, attache of the legation, and Mrs. Gordon-Smith, have been passing November and December in Belgrade and on the Dalmatian Riviera. On December 6 King Alexander received Capt. Gordon-Smith in audience, while Queen Marie received Mrs. Gordon-Smith at the royal palace at Dedigne.

Senator-elect Thomas P. Gore and Mrs. Gore will have their son, Mr. Thomas P. Gore, jr., with them for the holidays. Mr. Gore is a student at Rosedale Military Academy at Rosedale, Miss. He will arrive in Washington on Saturday.

Kelloggs Sail From Germany For America

Farewell Luncheon Is Given in Berlin by Chancellor.

The former Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg sailed yesterday for this country on the Bremen.

They were the guests of honor at a farewell luncheon given Monday by Chancellor Bruening, in Berlin, when the guests included the United States Ambassador to Germany, Mr. Frederic M. Sackett; Mr. George Gordon, Counselor of the American Embassy; Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank; Dr. Hermann R. Dietrich, minister of finance, and Herr von Buelow, of the foreign office staff.

Mr. Kellogg is now a judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice. He and Mrs. Kellogg will arrive in New York next Monday, a timely arrival as that day is Mr. Kellogg's seventy-fourth birthday. Presumably Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg will go at once to their home in St. Paul.

The Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro are the guests in whose honor Representative and Mrs. S. Wallace Dempsey will entertain at tea on Saturday afternoon at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Richard S. Aldrich, wife of Representative Aldrich, is on the committee for the Junior holiday dinner dance to be given at the Willard, December 26.

Others on the committee are Mrs. Anne Archbold, Mme. Ekengren, Mrs. Frederick De Courcy Faust, Mrs. U. S. Grant 3d, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, Mrs. Pendleton Mayo, Mrs. Lindsay Russell, Mrs. Charles Trowbridge Tittmann and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman.

The guests will include subdebutantes and young men of college age.

Mrs. David H. Kincheloe was the guest of honor at the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Watson E. Coleman at the Columbia Country Club. The guests were Mrs. Porter H. Dale, Mrs. William V. Gregory, Mrs. Paul Kvale, Mrs. John M. Evans, Mrs. Robert Luce, Mrs. Finis Garrett, Mrs. Oscar E. Bland, Mrs. Walter H. Newton, Mrs. Charles S. Corby, Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison, Mrs. Edgar B. Kay, Mrs. Hall Smith, Mrs. John Mock, Mrs. Z. Y. Moore, Mrs. George F. Finnan, Mrs. Eugene R. Woodson, Mrs. Angela Chappelear, Mrs. Arthur B. Adams, and Miss Roberta V. Bradshaw.

Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten will leave Washington on Friday for Florida and Cuba. They will pass New Year's in Havana and will return to Washington shortly after the first of the year.

Mrs. George Mesta entertained at luncheon in New York on Monday at the Hotel Pierre.

Italian Envoy Dinner Host To Toscanini

Distinguished People Greets Philharmonic Conductor.

Lieut. Buchanan Weds Miss Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival Thompson have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Kathleen Thompson, to Lieut. Charles Allen Buchanan, U. S. N., on Saturday in Coronado, Calif.

Lieut. Buchanan is the son of Capt. Allen Buchanan, U. S. N., and Mrs. Buchanan of Newport. Capt. Buchchanan was formerly naval aid to President Hoover and is now chief of staff of the Naval War College at Newport. Lieut. Buchanan was graduated from the Naval Academy in the class of '26 and is at present attached to the U. S. S. Omaha.

When Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie entertains at tea on Saturday for the friends with whom she was associated in relief work in the Near East during the World War most of them will have their first opportunity to greet Rear Admiral and Mrs. Mark L. Bristol since the days in Constantinople when Admiral Bristol was American High Commissioner there. Mrs. Imbrie has an Istanbul reunion about once a year.

Among those invited to the tea are the Ambassador of Great Britain, Sir Ronald Lindsay; the Ambassador of Poland, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz; the Minister of Finland, Mr. L. Astrom; the Minister of the Irish Free State, Mr. Michael MacWhite; Commander Harvey Delano, Commander Harrison E. Knauss, Mr. and Mrs. F. Lammot Belin, Mr. Richard Southgate, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hall, Lieut. Richard P. Glass, Mr. Arthur D. Condon and Mrs. T. Bradford Bassett. Girl in Navy Circle to Wed On Sunday

Velma McCandless to Become Bride of Ensign Robinson.

The marriage of Miss Velma May McCandless, daughter of Capt. Byron McCandless, U. S. N., and Mrs. McCandless, to Ensign N. Robinson, will take place on Sunday at 1 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 3608 T street. Miss McCandless willl have no attendants, although Midshipman Bruce McCandless, her brother, will act as best man. Chaplain Evans, of the Navy Department, will perform the ceremony.

The wedding will be small, with only the relatives of both families and a few close friends in attendance at the ceremony and breakfast which will follow. Ensign Robinson and his bride will go to Norfolk, where the former's ship, the U. S. S. Chester, is in port.

Capt. McCandless, who is now on duty in the Bureau of Navigation at the Navy Department, has been ordered to command the U. S. S. Raleigh, which is in port at the Boston Navy Yard. He will go there for duty shortly after Christmas. Having served in Washington as aid to the Secretary of the Navy during part of the World War period, Capt. CHAPTER XXVII.

December 17.

Six working days to Christmas. * * * A week! Is it possible? * * * A week to Christmas eve, and so many troublesome weeks behind. * * * Surely it has all been a dream. * * * When I first came to New York, I said, "Christmas is almost here." * * * How many years have I lived through since? * * * The days have been like months; the months, years. * * * And yet I think I am coming to the end of it. * * * Not only because Christmas is so very near; something tells me that everything, everything is working slowly but surely to an end where all will be explained. Only there are some things done that can never be undone. * * * Marcia and Fargeson can not come back. * * * But perhaps it is best so. * * * Poor, dear Ellen. * * * She must never know. * * * Mollie and Lionel have fallen in love all over again * * * There are two problems solved. * * * Sandy was to have gone to Boston. * * * He thinks he may persuade one of his wealthy friends there to adopt Ellen. * * * If only he can. * * * But perhaps the police kept Sandy from going. * * * I wish I know. * * * * * *

A letter came from Philip that morning. And when she had read it she put it in her bosom and promptly sat down and wrote him. Philip's rather unexciting solidity had taken on the proportions of a new virtue in her eyes these last few days. She saw him as the strong, sympathetic young man who had sat beside her that memorable night when they rode down the valley from the football game, and she had kissed her wish to a twinkling star. Plain was Philip, but honest and and loyal and devoted. And she was going to be his wife.

One thing in his letter, however, she found, to her own amazement, a little irritating. He had been giving her, briefly, the few interesting events of Kelsey during the past few weeks, and quite casually he included in this recital:

"You know, of course, that Miss Fuller eloped with some young fellow from Pennsylvania and left the fourth grade without a teacher. Mr. Hulbert, who is a trustee of the school and who won't let anybody else but yours truly repair his car, told me about it. He was all upset. But it is all right now. A Miss Wheeler, from Hartford, arrived last Sunday and began teaching Monday. I had to meet her at Waterbury. Mr. Hulbert lent me his car and paid me for the day's work, since he couldn't get away from his office. She's a hot one, all right. Doesn't care what she says or how she says it. But she's pretty, and I suppose she's all right once you get to know her. You'll see her for yourself when we come back to Kelsey after our honeymoon."

Now what was there in that to be disturbed about? Jean wanted to know, and not being able to answer, stamped her foot angrily. It may have been jealousy, but she questioned it. She rather suspected it was resentment. Had Philip deliberately included the new teacher in his letter?

When she wrote him a little later, however, she was careful to refer to the young woman, afraid that he might notice her failure to do so if she should simply ignore her.

"Your description of the new teacher * * " she wrote, " * * is rather hazy. You men pay so little attention to details, and we women live upon them. I'm glad she's pretty, however. It's about time the young men hanging out at the postoffice were given a treat. She may not be one of the major attractions, but I shall look forward to seeing her when we return to Kelsey. But you shouldn't have said * * * 'after our honeymoon,' Phil, dear. Our honeymoon will only really begin when we go back to Kelsey."

And she felt better after that, for if Phillip had intentionally sought to annoy her, she felt that she had made an adequate return.

It was after lunch that Sandy became a troublesome question. The papers were still full of Marcia, and had dug up a good deal of the mystery surrounding Fargeson's murder as well, but the early afternoon editions did not include Sandy's name among the witnesses. And she had been afraid of that. She had vision enough to see that it was only a matter of a few days when, regardless of the I. P. F., and of Sandy, his wealth, and his influential friends, the police would take him into custody. He had been too closely associated with Marcia, and his movements in the hours of both murders had been too suspicious to permit of easy alibis. And always there was some one, something to give one away.

Lionel was able to tell her nothing. Sandy had not told him of his plan to slip away to Boston overnight.

"There's nothing to worry about, however," Lionel told her. "He's in plenty of trouble, but he'll think himself out of it somehow. Marcia was responsible for her own end, I'd say."

This last seemed to Jean to have no connection with what had preceded it, and she searched his eyes curiously.

"Lionel * * * you don't suspect * * * Sandy?"

Much too pleased with the turn of affairs in his own life to take anything very seriously, Lionel laughed quietly. "I don't suspect anyone, Jean," he declared. "Only I wish Sandy had never met her."

But Jean knew what was in his mind and she said to him in a firm, quiet voice: "Sandy's no more capable of * * * violence than you are, Lionel. And * * ," disparagingly, " * * 'you couldn't hurt a house-fly.'"

A little later she went out to the nearest drug store and from the public telephone booth called the Colonial Airways office. The next passenger plane from Boston would land at about 3 o'clock. Those aboard would be another hour getting into the city by bus, however. The last plane had arrived at 10 o'clock that morning. Barring the 3 o'clock arrival there would be no more until tomorrow morning.

Then she crossed the street, ran down the subway stairs and rode out to the factory, telling herself that she was unnecessarily disturbed. She found Miss Trelling in a state of great excitement. And there was something in the eager faces of the girls busy in the big office that warned her of something unusual.

"Sound mathematics," Jean agreed, perplexed. "And Sunday's four; Monday's five, Tuesday's * * *."

But Miss Trelling shook her head laughing. "We're trying to finish by 3 o'clock Saturday evening," she explained, "and, unless something unforeseen happens * * *." She raised her shoulder significantly.

"No * * *! Not really? But how have you ever managed it?" There was more of Jean's amazement in her voice than in her words. Only a week before she had discussed with Lionel the possible necessity of having to make delivery direct from the factory if the last lot of miniature babies had not been gotten out by the night of the twenty-third. And here was Miss Trelling talking about finishing Saturday evening.

She was deeply grateful to Miss Trelling and her girls, but she knew that it was not for her, nor the I. P. F. that they had labored so faithfully. Their incentive had been the thought of those thousands of little girls who would awake Christmas morning and find that there really was a Santa Claus.

At 4 o'clock she was riding uptown again, one moment elated over the imminent success of the miniature baby plan, the next strangely concerned about Sandy. Try as she would, she could not analyze her feelings. It was as if Sandy, in difficulty, was sending out thought waves to her, unvoiced pleas for her to come to him. The idea, she knew, was absurd. Since when had she become a psychic medium?

But when, at 20 minutes after 4, she reached the office again and was told by Lionel that he had heard nothing from Sandy, she immediately went out again and called Sandy's apartment.

There was no answer.

He had said he would return this afternoon if he succeeded in getting away. But perhaps he had decided to stay over until tomorrow. If he had only thought to send her some message. * * *

Out on the sidewalk again, she told herself with extraordinary firmness that she was an idiot for worrying, and that she would go directly to the room, now her's alone, and wait.

Impulsively she hailed a taxi, and when the driver peered back at her through the little panel, she flushed and gave him Sandy's address. She had not done it intentionally. But the words had formed on her lips because they were uppermost in her mind.

It was not a large apartment building before which the taxi stopped, but squat, and substantial and forbidding. She did not know the number of his room, but in the entrance was a line of brass-paneled mail boxes and over one she found Sandy's name and under it the number 26, and under the numerals a little white button.

Even as she put the tip of a slim finger on the button and pressed, she heard some one coming down the stairs, some one, she gathered, in a great hurry.

Feeling, inexplicably guilty to be seen ringing for a young man in his apartment, she turned her back to the stairs, and pressed the button again. The clatter of feet behind her was annoying. Such haste was not in conformity with these surroundings.

And then the unknown was running across the floor toward the door, was rushing by behind her. She felt the swish of air as he passed and swung about in spite of herself to stare after the fleeing figure of a wiry little man whose small head was almost lost in a black derby.

For a moment she was too startled to think. Then she know what it was her confused brain was trying to convey to her lips. Two words:

"Slim Diggers * * *!"

And then she was running up the stairs as fast as her trembling legs would carry her, grasping at the rail as she ran, a great fear in her racing heart.

CHRISTMAS CONFECTIONS.

Pecan Roll.

3 cups sugar.
½ cup milk.
½ cup cream.
2 tablespoons butter.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 cup broken pecans.

Mix the sugar, milk, cream, butter and salt. Let stand 15 minutes. Boil gently, stirring frequently, until soft ball forms when portion is tested in cold water. Remove from the stove and let stand 20 minutes in a cool place. Add the vanilla and beat until thick and creamy. When thick knead in the hands 3 minutes. Shape into roll and roll in the pecans. Wrap in waxed paper. When stiff cut in slices.

Chocolate Fudge.

2 cups sugar.
2 squares chocolate.
2-3 cup milk.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
½ cup nuts (broken).

Mix the sugar, chocolate, milk and butter. Cook slowly, stirring frequently, until soft ball forms when a portion is tested in cold water. Remove at once from stove and let stand 20 minutes. Add the vanilla and beat until creamy. Add the nuts. Pour on to buttered dish. When stiff cut into bars.

Divinity.

2 cups sugar.
½ cup water.
½ cup corn syrup.
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 cup broken nuts.
½ cup candied cherries.
½ cup candied pineapple peel.

Mix the sugar, water and corn syrup. Let stand 10 minutes. Cook slowly and without stirring, until a hard "click" ball forms when a portion is slowly poured into a cup of cold water. Slowly pour into the beaten egg whites. Beat until cold and thick. Add rest of ingredients and pour on to a buttered dish.

Glazed Nuts.

2 cups sugar.
1-3 cup water.
1 cup shelled blanched nuts.
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar.

Mix the sugar, water and cream of tartar. Let stand for several minutes. Cook slowly over a moderate fire until mixture becomes light brown color. Do not stir during the cooking. Add the nuts. Mix well and pour onto buttered dish. When cool break into small pieces. Pecans, filberts, walnuts, almonds or any other kind of nuts can be used.

Second Lowest Bid On Radio Towers Wins

Award of the contract to erect the radio towers of the Metropolitan Police Department on the Tenth Precinct station to the Heron Todd Construction Co., of Washington, was approved yesterday afternoon by the District Commissioners despite the fact that it was not the lowest of three bidders. The next lowest bid was accepted, it was said, because the time limit was decidedly shorter.

The bid of the Geron Todd Construction Co. is $1,340, with a time limit of 30 days, while the low bidder's estimate was $1,235 with 90 days for construction.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PROLONG THE FRESHNESS OF YOUR CHRISTMAS GARDENS.

IT IS said that we can not have "too much of a good thing," but when it comes to Christmas greens—well this just does not apply.

In our grandmothers' time, when huge rooms and hallways were heated entirely by fireplaces, the question of keeping the Christmas greens fresh from the eve of the 25th of December until after the burning of the yule-log, did not have to be considered.

But today, in our smaller, overheated rooms, it is a problem to keep green our pines and holly until New Years. However, with a little planning and a little time devoted each day to their care, this can be done. And when we consider the beauty of fresh greens with their lights and shadows, where every berry and leaf is intact, surely we will want to keep ours fresh.

It is wise to purchase all varieties of greens as early as possible, remembering that the first cases the dealers and street venders receive are usually the most perfect. The branches are always shapely and well fruited or covered with cones, depending, of course, on the varieties you select. The greens rarely cost more than those offered the day before Christmas, which have been handled by throngs of people for days.

Of course, you can not bring these greens into the house several days before the happy event and expect them to keep green throughout the holidays. But you can lay them on the open ground, covering them with a sheet, a piece of burlap or some heavy paper—anything, in fact, that will keep them from blowing away, if the ground be covered with snow, so much the better. It will not injure them in any way. And, should you be a cliff dweller in some tall apartment house, all that will be necessary will be to tie them into loose bunches and hang them securely—mentally underscore securely—on a nail attached to the window ledge. Use tape or wire for this purpose. Never depend on string. No matter what the weather may be, they will not be injured—for, you know, they are quite used to the elements.

You will, no doubt, purchase ready-made wreaths for your doors and windows, and if you are wise you will hang these on the outside. There are two reasons why I suggest this. Houses so decorated lend an added note of gayety to a street and seemingly proclaim a merry Christmas from the very rooftops. And wreaths so hung will stay green long after the holidays are over.

Cut greens for interior decoration will keep green for many days if about 2 inches of damp sand is placed in the bottom of the various receptacles in which you arrange them. Of course, to receive the advantage of the moisture you must see that each stem reaches into the sand. This may seem like extra work at a time when every minute is at a premium. But after all, it is a case of having either fresh or faded greens. The use of sand will also prevent the urns or vases from being topheavy and toppling over every time they receive a slight jolt.

You'll love this model for its tricky lines.

The neckline particularly is so different—so utterly smart.

It's a straight slim silhouette that hugs the figure. The skirt has side panels lengthened with a boxplaited flounce, that gives a flat slimness to the figure.

It's an excellent dress for the college miss, for sports, spectator sports and to complete an ensemble.

Style No. 801 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The medium size takes 3½ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Wool jersey, wool crepe marocain, spongy tweed mixtures and canton crepe are other interesting suggestions.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

HATMAKERS' POISON.

THERE is a very considerable prevalence of chronic gas poisoning among those who work at a hat-making job. The New York bureau of industrial hygiene wants those who work in hatmaking establishments to get the following information about gas leaks:

"Injury to health may result either from leaking gas or the production of carbon monoxide by poorly designed or ill-kept equipment.

"Small leaks, incapable of lighting when a match is applied, are just as important as the larger ones. The fact that no one smells a leak is of no significance, because it is easy to become accustomed to the odor. Improvised patches on gas leaks are no remedy. They must be properly repaired.

"Appliances must be kept clean and free from soot in order to prevent unnecessary production of carbon monoxide poisoning in their operation.

"A yellow flame, or one which appears to spread or float, is dangerous.

"If the weather is cold and the presses are very cold, a dangerous amount of carbon monoxide gas may be produced when the flame under them is started. A gas flame impinging on a very cold surface will produce considerable carbon monoxide gas. It is well to start the gas going some time before the workship opens, so that the room may be thoroughly ventilated before workers are permitted to enter. Such a situation on Monday morning, combined with inadequate gas pressure and dirty appliances, recently caused a critical situation in one of the New York hat factories."

Among recommendations other than education of the employes made by the bureau are the following:

The compulsory use of only such gas equipment as has been tested and approved as safe by the laboratories of the American Gas Association.

Periodic inspection of gas-heated appliances and their connections.

Substitution of standard, flexible tubing approved by the American Gas Association for that in use at the present time.

Improvement of gas pressure in the hat district.

That the American Gas Association have standards for gas burning apparatus and for rubber tubes and connections will be welcome news to some.

CAUSED BY NERVES.

T. C. H. writes:

My fingers and toes, especially in damp and cold weather, become numb and white like frostbite when I go out of doors.

REPLY.

YES, BABIES HAVE TONSILS.

Mrs. W. D. M. writes:

I have been told that babies have no tonsils. If this is correct, at what age do they get them?

REPLY.

Babies have tonsils. Newly born babies do not have any considerable amount of tonsil tissue, but they have some.

DIET TO AID TEETH.

A. M. B. writes: Some time ago you published one or two different articles on a diet which would promote a better mouth condition for the teeth; in other words, a diet which would prevent tooth decay. May we have it again?

REPLY.

The instruction is to give plenty of antiscorbutic foods. Among these are orange juice, lemon juice, raw cabbage and other fresh vegetables and fruits. The diet should also include cod liver oil or viosterol.

EFFECT OF BRONCHITIS.

Miss B. E. H. writes: Please explain bronchiectasis. Is there any cure?

REPLY.

In bronchiectasis there are small dilations of the small bronchial tubes. This saclike dilation of the tubes generally follows bronchial asthma and chronic bronchitis.

The method of diagnosing it now preferred is by X-raying the chest after an injection of some iodized oil into the tubes. It is treated by operation. Many cases live a long time and in moderate comfort in warm, very dry climates.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

CANDIED CRANBERRIES.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Two cups cranberries.
Two cups sugar.
Two cups of water.

Select firm large cranberries. Make three large slits in each berry with the point of a penknife. Make a thin syrup by boiling the sugar and water together until clear. Allow the syrup to cool, add the berries and bring very slowly to the boiling point. The saucepan should be large enough to permit all the berries to float at the top of the syrup during cooking. If the berries are heated too quickly the skins will burst before the syrup soaks into the pulp. As soon as the syrup boils, take the pan off of the stove and let it stand overnight.

Next day drain the syrup from the berries and boil until it is reduced to about half its original volume. Allow the syrup to cool, place the berries in it and boil for three or four minutes and allow to stand for two hours more. Then boil gently a third time for two minutes. Allow the berries to stand in the thick syrup overnight. Warm once more so that the syrup will be thin enough to pour easily and drain the berries from the syrup. Spread them on a clean cloth or paper to dry. They should be bright, firm, plump and semitransparent. They may be rolled in powdered sugar, stored in jars or tins and used as a sweet meat or in place of candied cherries for garnishes for puddings, sauces and salads.

The syrup left over after the cranberries are candied has a pleasant flavor and fine color and is excellent as a pudding sauce, or may be diluted for use on pancakes or waffles.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

HOLLYWOOD.—Not so many years ago when the brothers Warner had to hurry out the back door of their studio to avoid creditors who waited for them at the front gate, Jack Warner, so the story goes, put a cot in his office and often stayed there all night.

MARJORIE WHITE

It wasn't much of an office and the cot wasn't very comfortable, but under the conditions he slept well enough and at least postponed meeting those to whom he and his brothers were indebted.

When the Warner organization got back on its financial feet, Jack still had memories of the hard iron cot. So a year ago he equipped an office that was exactly the opposite of the first one.

Gold leaf, colored glass, indirect lights, black marble and other such trimmings were spread through it. It was such a place as anyone would be glad to spend a night in, or even live in.

Now the Warner offices are being moved and the gold-leafed suite has been deserted, but if Jack ever sees an iron cot he'll probably send for his fancy office immediately.

Trick Cat.

"The cat that conquered Hollywood" might well be the title of this tale about two girls who stood in the extra line in vain in their quest for success.

It came to them only after their found a dying kitten, nursed it to health, and taught it to be the screen's leading cat actor.

The Dennis girls, Katherine and Nadine, came here from San Jose, Calif., seven years ago, intent on becoming stars.

Requests.

The popularity of picture people can be judged somewhat by the number of appearances they are requested to make for charity affairs, theaters, clubs and the like. Just now Marjorie White and El Brendel are the reigning favorites.

Two serial stars whose popularity dates back several years, Grace Cunard and Tim McCoy, again are appearing in a chapter picture, but not as the romantic leads they once were.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you are from 10 a. m. to noon, and from 3 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Everything on December 17 points to success and achievement. Every advantage should be taken of the very auspicious opportunities that will present themselves. An exceptionally good day for marriage.

The child born on this December 17 will be tenacious, persevering and conscientious. It will, just after adolescence, acquire an air of superiority, but this will be eliminated in after years by the knocks of life. Its disposition will give, and crave for affection.

You are inclined to be pessimistic and cynical. You never look on the bright side and see everything through smoked glasses. You cross bridges before you come to them, and even when you achieve something really worthwhile, you are always disappointed because you are not able to achieve more. It may be that the depression from which you suffer is attributable to health conditions, and more than usual physical care is required by all those whose birthday falls on December 17.

You are strongly attracted by all that is uncanny and weird. Taking very little pleasure in the recreations of others, you experience a great delight in solitude, and are liable to revel in things and events that pass unnoticed by others. Yours is, up to a certain point, a scientific mind, and rules govern everything you do or say. Spontaneity is entirely lacking.

You have a thirst for knowledge, but, unfortunately, once acquired, you fail to use it, although at times and when inspired by the right environment, you are a brilliant conversationist. Although you try to suppress them, your emotions are very strong, and when you meet "the one," they will overcome all opposition, and carry everything before them.

Rheumatism!

"I tried various treatments for rheumatism without much relief. Then Mountain Valley Mineral Water brought much benefit and great improvement"—says a letter. Another says, "Mountain Valley Mineral Water without a doubt banished rheumatism for me." And another, "The pains of rheumatism are gone. Five weeks of Mountain Valley Mineral Water brought me relief." Take hope, rheumatic sufferer—this famous mineral water from Hot Springs, Ark., should do for you what it has done for thousands of others. Physiologically balanced, its action is natural, scientific—it helps nature to neutralize the irritating uric acid and by inducing elimination through the kidneys tends to prevent the accumulation of trouble-making toxins and waste products of digestion. YOUR NAME
What Does It Mean?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Johnston" appears to have originated in Scotland. It is generally a Scottish variation of "Johnson." "Johnson" obviously means "the son of John." "John" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and may be translated "the Lord's gracious gift." However, "Johnston" frequently stands for "Johnstone," the name of several places in Scotland which have given rise to family names. Of these the most important is the town of Johnstone in Renfrewshire, 10 miles from Glasgow. The place-name "Johnstone" may stand for "John's town" or "John's stone." There is a Johnstone Castle in the Renfrew township. In the thirteenth century the city of Perth, Scotland, was called "Sanct Johns toun" (Saint John's town), so it is very probable that that city, also, has given rise to the family name of "Johnstone."

The family names "MacShane," "MacShan," "MacCheyne," "Shane" and "Cheyne" are Celtic equivalents of the English "Johnson," and therefore mean "the son of John." "Cheyne" has sometimes become confused with "Cheney."

The family name "Cheyney" (also spelled "Chaney," "Chanay" and "Chany") has come into English through the French. It is derived from the old French "chesnaie," and its full significance is "he who lives at or near the oak forest." This name is very often found in English records even before the time of the Hundred Rolls.

The family name "Moller" (also spelled "Mohler") is a low German form of "Mueller," which means "the miller" and denotes the occupation of the persons who were first so called.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Chic and gracious is this Sunday night gown of black georgette banded heavily with shining cire braid. (Courtesy of Joseph Paquin, Paris.)

Paris, Dec. 16.

PERUVIAN art in all of its interpertative beauty has always interested me greatly, fascinated me, would be a better expression • • • because of the ironical cunning of the designs, their geometrical skill and their way of presenting in a few lines a whole animal or human being or even landscape—always in a decorative way that forms itself into a design which can be repeated innumerably and never be monotonous.

And I have just come across two books of Peruvian art in my favorite book store which carries odd books from all the countries of the world—you know, the store they try to steer me away from out of respect for the bank balance! "El Arte Peruano en la Escuela" they are called, and are printed in the European looseleaf manner. One turns the pages and sees a civilization, a civilization literally presented from the grave. An art like that possessed by the Egyptians and Assyrians of the past raises its dimmed eyes—and laughs at our modern art, our futurism, cubism, and all of the other "isms" with which we try to reduce the obvious to the obvious, and fail to come within a hundred miles of the brilliant artistic formulas of the Incas.

One would like to call these designs crude, but ends by calling them stark beauty. And goes on to seeing them in all of their brilliant splendor woven and printed into the delicate silks that Miladi wears today. Only the background is different—the intrinsic beauty of the design remains.

• • • •

Somewhere in the now dim but then glorious past an Inca artist gave immortality and beauty to the ugly tarantula—and I overcame my aversion of many-legged things that crawl, long enough to copy it for you as a background for today's drawing.

• • • •

A bolero is a graceful thing at all times, and in Joseph Paquin's charming black georgette frock the bolero gains added importance from its wide banding of black cire braid. See the irregular way this banding is applied to the rest of the dress? The chic of this frock really defies description, so what better reason did I need for sketching it for you?

• • • •

Have you, hidden 'way off somewhere, a little box or bag into which you have put scraps of bright cloth, old buttons, beads—o-o-oh, and any number of such-like little gadgets? I'll bet you have! It's a funny habit of ours to save things without knowing what we will ever do with them. But here's your opportunity! Use them to make, oh, the most amusing and original gifts for the kiddies this Christmas! Honestly now—these bright bits and a little paste and some snipping of your scissors, and this week's illustrated leaflet telling all about the way to make perfectly delightful presents for children, will enable you to do just this thing. Quick, now, before these same kiddies rush in and make you forget it—get that stamped, self-addressed envelope off to the Dare Department of the Washington Post. And I promise you the kiddies will like these toys better than any others you could buy for them, no matter how expensive!

You'll also find some mighty interesting ideas in Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Post.

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

A Chance to Be Decent.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: Night after night I have read your column, hoping to find there a solution to my own life's problem, which suddenly has come to such an ending that I don't know what to do, and so I am turning to you, hoping you can help me, and I will watch night after night for the answer. This is my story: I was married at the age of 14 to a man in his early forties. He was a very quiet man and I a happy-go-lucky girl. I knew nothing of men or of life. My grandparents raised me. Mother was left with me just a babe. She never knew where my father went. So she had to go to work to raise me. When she met my husband he told her what a wonderful trade he had and how he could make me a wonderful home; so she made me marry him, and then she found out that he was only a machinist's helper. Oh, I can not go over my married life. It was terrible. Only I will say now I have four children to raise and I am alone. Now this is what has happened. I worked all night and day and then I started to run around with people of my age, card parties, dancing all hours of the night and I thought I was having such a wonderful time. Then I met men of leisure who were willing to pay for their entertainment. I could get a doctor for my mother. I moved to a better home, my children were the best dressed on the street. Oh, I thought it was O. K.

Then suddenly I met a man one night when I was drinking more than was good for me and he asked me, "Why are you doing this?" Then I saw with my own eyes what I was. But now what am I to do? Oh, please help me. This man loves me, wants to marry me, is willing to take me and my children. But I must give this all up. My children will have to live in poverty. I could give everything up for him, but I couldn't be with my mother. I am so sick of this life. Oh, tell me, please, must I stay where I am, keep on living like this, or would I be justified in going with the man I love and live honest and good and be happy, or should I stay where I am? Oh, please answer my letter. I don't know where to turn for advice and I need it, and do please excuse how it is written and please answer me.

JUST A SAD WOMAN.

Your children are entitled to a decent name, and to a mother they can respect as they grow up. Your mode of life will shame them as no poverty ever can. If the man you care for is able to support you and respect you, there is no question as to what you should do. The next ten years will see your complete deterioration as a woman or your salvation. Thousands before you have gone the way you are going. Few of them would hesitate in their advice to you. Children do not require wealth for happiness, but they shrivel under shame. If you think that your children would not eventually, knowing all about your activities as they advance in years, you greatly underestimate their intelligence.

As a mother you have no choice when the question is decency or the reverse.

Work's Radio Bridge Game

A pretty game was played in the fourth of Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge broadcasts, put on the air yesterday from station WRC. The experts making up the table were Mrs. J. Vail Shipley, Wichita, Kans.; Miss Florence B. Grant, Zanesville, Ohio; Earl S. Cobey, Rochester, N. Y., and Henry P. Jaeger, Cleveland, Ohio.

The hands were: Mrs. Shipley, Dealer, South: Spades, K, 5, 3, 2; Hearts, A, J, 9, 8, 4. Mr. Cobey, West: Spades, Q, 9, 8, 4; Hearts, 7, 6, 2; Diamonds, K, 10, 6, 3; Clubs, A, 2. Mr. Jaeger, North: Spades, A, J, 7; Hearts, 10, 3; Diamonds, Q, 8; Clubs, Q, J, 10, 7, 6, 5. Miss Grant, East: Spades, 10, 6; Hearts, K, Q, 9, 5, 4, 3; Diamonds, J, 9, 7, 6; Clubs, 3.

Mrs. Shipley, South, opened the bidding with one No Trump. Mr. Cobey, West, passed. Mr. Jaeger, North, with two doubletons in his hand, feared that a No Trump contract would be dangerous, and as he is one of the experts who believe that two of a minor should be bid over a partner's No Trump when holding some strength in the minor, he called two Clubs on his six cards of the suit to the Queen-Jack-Ten. Miss Grant, East, said two Hearts, and Mrs. Shipley, South, having only one stopper in the adverse Hearts, said three Clubs, which held the bid.

Miss Grant, East, opened the play with the King of Hearts to show her partner that she held the Ace or Queen, or both, of the suit. Mrs. Shipley, South, spread her hand for Dummy, and Declarer, Mr. Jaeger, took stock of his assets. He counted two or three Spade tricks in his combined hands; one Heart, one, possibly two, Diamonds and five Clubs—a minimum of nine and a maximum of eleven tricks. He then won the Heart King with Dummy's Heart Ace. West played the Deuce and Declarer himself false-carded the 10, hoping to make the adversaries think he had no more Hearts.

To trick two Declarer led Dummy's 4 of Clubs; West played the Deuce, North the Queen; another false card, and East the Trey. Declarer continued the trump suit by leading the 5 from closed hand; East discarded the 4 of Hearts; Dummy played the 8 of Clubs and West won with the Ace. West then led the 7 of Hearts, Declarer played the 6, East the Queen and Dummy the Jack. Miss Grant, East, did not continue the Heart suit, as she was almost certain that the only Heart outstanding was held by her partner, West, and, should Hearts be led, Declarer would be able to trump in one hand and discard from the other, which probably would present him with a trick. So to trick five East led the 6 of Diamonds, Dummy played the Ace, West the 5 and North the 8.

Declarer led the Deuce of Spades from Dummy to trick six; West played the 4; closed hand the Jack and East the 6. Mr. Jaeger, Declarer, then knew that he need not lose a Spade trick, but that he must lose a Diamond unless the fourth Spade in Dummy's hand could be made a winner, or unless he could force West to make a fatal discard. Declarer reasoned it was probable that West held four Spades, and it was also probable that he had the King of Diamonds; therefore a squeeze might be effective.

To trick seven Declarer led the 6 of Clubs from his own hand; East discarded the Trey of Hearts; Dummy played the King of Clubs, and West discarded the 5 of Hearts; Declarer continued trumps with Dummy's 9 of Clubs; West discarded the Trey of Diamonds; closed hand won the trick with the 10 of Clubs; and East discarded the 7 of Diamonds.

To trick nine Declarer led the Jack of Clubs; East discarded the 8 of Hearts; Dummy the Deuce of Diamonds, and West the 10 of Diamonds.

Declarer then led the thirteenth trump from his own hand; East discarded the 9 of Diamonds; Dummy the 4 of Diamonds, and Mr. Cobey, West, was effectively squeezed. He knew that closed hand had the Ace and another Spade and that he must keep his three Spades in order to block Dummy's thirteenth Spade. He was also quite sure that Declarer had in his closed hand the Queen of Diamonds, and that an effort to make that good was the reason for the squeeze. Still, it was remotely possible that the Queen of Diamonds was in the East hand, and on that chance Mr. Cobey discarded the King of Diamonds rather than a Spade which was certain to establish a Spade in Dummy. Of course, Mr. Cobey's discard was immaterial. Mr. Jaeger's squeeze had worked and he had the rest of the tricks, winning 30 trick points below the line, and 40 for honors above the line. At Progressive or Duplicate he would also have scored 125 for game in one hand.

Commenting on the bidding of the hand, Mr. Work commended the correctness of Mrs. Shipley's No Trump, West's pass, and North's two Clubs because of his two doubletons, provided, of course, that the partner understood that bid to show strength. He mentioned that Miss Grant, East, had a close decision as to whether she should bid two Hearts or pass. However, she doubtless reasoned that her partner would have been justified in passing Declarer's No Trump with a comparatively strong hand, and there was a possibility of game in hearts if her partner could support that bid. And even if her partner did have a weak holding, there was small possibility that two Hearts would be doubled for business, and the bid might induce the adversaries to stay away from No Trump. Mrs. Shipley, South, after the Heart bid, did well to say three Clubs. Had she bid two No Trumps with one Heart stopper, her partner, Mr. Jaeger, holding six Clubs headed by Queen-Jack-Ten and a positive entry, would have passed and game would have been sacrificed.

At Contract, Mr. Work gave the probable bidding as: South, one No Trump; West, pass; North, with a count of 12, would have sufficient strength for a jump to three No Trumps, but would bid three Clubs in preference on account of the two doubletons. This bid would ask South to choose between Clubs and No Trumps. East would hardly be justified in bidding three Hearts; and South would bid four Clubs, since her No Trump is quite thin and the hand has four Clubs. West would pass and North would bid five Clubs. Mr. Work concluded his talk by giving questions 7 and 8 in his Bridge Handicap test, based on these hands:

SOUTH, (Dealer): SPADES, 5, 4; HEARTS, K, J, 4, 3; DIAMONDS, A, K, Q, 10, 8, 4; CLUBS, J. WEST: SPADES, A, K, 7, 6, 3, 2; HEARTS, 10, 7, 5; DIAMONDS, 9, 7; CLUBS, A, K. NORTH: SPADES, 8; HEARTS, 8, 6, 2; Diamonds, 3, 2; CLUBS, Q, 10, 8, 7, 4, 3, 2. EAST: SPADES, Q, J, 10, 9; HEARTS, A, Q, 9; DIAMONDS, J, 6, 5; CLUBS, 9, 6, 5.

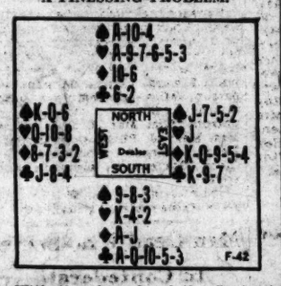
West is the Declarer playing with Spades the trump (at Contract Bridge four Spades.) South has bid Diamonds, North leads a Diamond, South wins and continues the suit. Trick three, South leads a third Diamond and West ruffs with an honor. Tricks four and five are trumps won in Dummy; tricks six and seven are Clubs won in closed hand.

Question 7. What suit should West lead to trick 8 and where should the trick be won?

Question 8. Can Declarer make game against the best defense?

Work's Bridge

A FINESSING PROBLEM.



With the above hand the Contract Bridge bidding would be: South one No Trump, West pass, North three Hearts, East pass, and South four Hearts; or South one Club, West pass, North one Heart, East pass, South three Hearts, West pass, North four Hearts.

At Auction the bidding would be: South one No Trump, West pass, and North two Hearts.

When the hand was played with Hearts the trump and North the Declarer, East led the King of Diamonds. South won with the Ace and Declarer then determined to lead two rounds of trumps, winning the first in dummy, hoping that would exhaust the adverse trumps. He was careful to play North's five on South's King so that if the adverse trumps were evenly divided, South's Four would be an entry; but unfortunately the adverse trumps did not fall when, dummy played the Ace on South's Deuce.

North then led a Club and dummy finessed the Queen. That won, but then all the Declarer could make outside of his long trumps was the Ace of Clubs and the Ace of Spades. The adversaries took two Spades, one Heart and one Diamond, thus saving game.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The Declarer could have developed his hand in either of two ways. After winning trick 1 with the Ace of Diamonds, he could have led the Deuce of trumps from South (dummy), winning with the Ace in closed hand; then have led a Club, finessing the Queen. Next the lead of the Ace of Clubs and then a small Club, ruffed with the Five of trumps in closed hand (retaining the Trey). Then the lead of the Six of trumps, won by the King in dummy, after which a good Club. West would have had to trump with the winning trump (otherwise another Club would be led), and North would discard a Diamond. North subsequently could obtain a Spade discard on dummy's last Club, dummy having an entry with the Four of trumps, and make five-odd.

The other and more dangerous method of playing the hand would be for Declarer to take out two rounds of trumps as in the incorrect play; and then take the double finesse in Clubs, playing the Ten from dummy. West would win with the Jack, lead his Queen of trumps, drawing two for one, and then lead a Diamond. When North won the following trick he would lead his last Club and finesse the Queen, making game.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

FILIAL LOVE.

It is still generally believed that children are born with an instinctive love for their parents, and that for a child not to love his parents is a wicked and unnatural sin.

Studies of the emotional life of both adults and children make it increasingly clear that the love of children for their parents is in direct response to the treatment which they receive from them.

A child naturally loves most those persons through whom he experiences comfort, pleasure, affection and achievement. In the normal home the child's love naturally goes out toward his parents. However, where the child for one reason or another sees practically nothing of father and mother his deepest attachment may well be for the parent substitute who obviously loves, cares for and plays with him.

In homes where one parent is harsh, unsympathetic and uninterested, the affections of the child are concentrated upon the other parent.

In even the most sane and balanced family life the love which children feel for their parents is frequently colored by feelings of antagonism and hate.

These unhappy emotions may be fleeting and infrequent, but they represent real trends of feeling.

They are a harmful influence in the child's life only when his expression of them meets with severe criticism or punishment. The child who flies into a rage at the parent who has denied him something, and cries out "I hate you" is often made to feel that he has committed a grievous sin.

The subsequent suppression of such hate feelings with its accompanying burden of guilt is not a wholesome influence in his development.

MONTGOMERY GROU GETS PLANNING DATA

Details of Washington Area Projects Are Submitted for Participation.

BOND ISSUE IS APPROVED

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday received a communication from Charles W. Eliot 2d, secretary of the Washington regional highway committee and director of planning of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, outlining in detail a proposed survey for regional planning in the Greater Washington area.

At the preliminary meeting of the committee last September Montgomery County was represented by Lacy Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners and commissioner in charge of the eastern suburban district. At that time it was voted to favor a traffic survey as requisite to highway planning in that region.

According to Mr. Eliot, the staff of the Bureau of Public Roads, in cooperation with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, has prepared a nestimate of the cost of securing data within an area 20 miles from the Capitol and extending across part of Montgomery County. It is estimated that 200 stations should be covered and that an allowance of $40,000 will be necessary to cover all expenses of collection and analysis of data.

Mr. Eliot pointed out that the proposed survey would be similar to that conducted by the Bureau of Public Roads in collaboration with the counties about Chicago and Cleveland, and would provide data on origin and destination of traffic, necessity of new highways and indication as to the priority to be given to various proposed routes. He added that such a survey would undoubtedly prove of enormous value to State and county officials in the preparation of road improvement programs in the next ten years.

To carry out this proposed program for a survey extending over a year's time, the United States Bureau of Public Roads is prepared to contribute one-half the cost, provided the other jurisdictions concerned are prepared to contribute the remainder either in funds or by the loan of personnel. In previous cases where the bureau has cooperated with local agencies it has been customary for all parties to sign an agreement. The agreement, in this case, would be between the Bureau of Public Roads and the nine cooperating bodies—Commissioners of the District of Columbia, Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Prince Georges and Montgomery counties, Fairfax and Arlington counties, the City of Alexandria and the State Highway Departments of Maryland and Virginia.

The estimated cost of securing data for the proposed survey, it is shown, would then amount to $1,000 as Montgomery County's share.

The tentative list of Montgomery County station for traffic count includes 50 of the 200 stations scattered throughout the greater Washington area.

The County Commissioners have agreed to cooperate with the regional highway committee in the effort to secure a well-regulated and orderly plan of highway development. The proposed survey will be studied by the board with a view to taking further action on the matter at the earliest possible date.

The County Commissioners yesterday approved an issue of Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission bonds amounting to $300,000 and directed Lacy Shaw, president of the board, and Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, to affix their signatures to the bonds.

The bonds are being issued by the sanitary commission for sanitary improvements in the metropolitan area, and must be approved by the county commissioners of Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties and the signatures of the president and clerk of the board affixed to the bonds, which are guaranteed by the two counties.

The bonds will be issued in denominations of $1,000 and will bear interest at 4½ per cent. They will run for 50 years, being retirable in 30 years. They are issued under authority of an act of the General Assembly.

Suit for limited divorce was filed yesterday in circuit court at Rockville by Mrs. Edith D. Wallich, of Washington, who alleges that Horace E. Wallich, of Silver Spring, deserted her. The couple was married June 9, 1929, and has no children. The wife is represented by Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville.

Mrs. May A. Thompson, of Washington, was named defendant in a suit for absolute divorce filed yesterday by William C. Thompson, of Silver Spring, in circuit court at Rockville. Through Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville, the husband charges infidelity. The couple was married August 12, 1919, and has one child. The husband asks custody of the small daughter.

Montgomery County's schools showed averages for attendance in November that are believed to be among the best in the State, it was announced yesterday by Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools. The county average for elementary schools was 93.9 per cent, and for high schools 94.1 per cent.

The schools which led their respective classes and were awarded the attendance banner for the month of November follow: Boyd's School (one teacher), 98.1 per cent; Garrett Park School (two teachers), 97.5 per cent; Laytonsville Graded School, 96.1 per cent; Takoma-Silver Spring Junior High School, seventh and eighth grades, 96.4 per cent, and ninth-grade, 94.3 per cent.

In the colored schools, Norbeck won the elementary banner with a percenteage of 98.7, and Rockville High School with 93.7 per cent.

The Montgomery County Medical Society met last night at the Manor Club, near Norbeck, for a dinner meeting. Dr. F. J. Brosnart, of Gaithersburg, the president, was toastmaster.

Papers were read by Dr. Fred A. Coe, Dr. Calhoun Sterling and Dr. R. E. Moran, all of Washington. The papers were discussed by Dr. Jacob W. Bird, of Sandy Spring; Dr. Thomas A. Conrad, of Chevy Chase, and Dr. A. W. Truman, of Takoma Park, Md.

Charged with bigamy, Charles A. Read, 73-year-old retired businessman of Oak Place, Alta Vista, has been returned to Richmond by a deputy sheriff. He was arrested by Sergt. Leroy Rodgers, of the Bethesda substation, Montgomery County police, on a warrant issued in Richmond.

Read is charged with having married Miss Netta Melliken, who resides with him in Alta Vista, while still married to Miss Jennie E. North, of Canton, Ohio. The warrant was sworn out by W. E. Brennan, of Richmond, and names the Rev. J. J. Sherer, of Richmond, as the officiating clergyman. The second marriage took place on September 11, 1930. Read is twice a widower and has two sons, living in Washington.

The Bethesda Chamber of Commerce has invited chambers of commerce of Rockville, Takoma Park, Kensington and Gaithersburg to send representatives to the January 5 meeting of the Bethesda chamber. It is hoped to secure the support of these chambers in a campaign for the speeding up of work on the parks proposed for the county and the beautification and widening of the Rockville pike.

An open meeting of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Glen Echo-Cabin John School. Plans for the proposed new firehouse and the formation of a woman's auxiliary will be discussed.

Among the speakers who have been invited are J. Fred Imirie, chief of the Bethesda Volunter Fire Department; County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, in charge of the Western suburban district; a representative of the District of Columbia Fire Department, and E. N. Maxim, of Cabin John Park. The speakers will be introduced by Charles E. Benson, president of the department.

The entertainment committee includes H. S. Williams, chairman; Joseph Blandford, John Lynch, Alden A. Potetr, J. Reugles and E. L. Starry.

Man, Blind 25 Years, Now Sees With One Eye

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—After living 25 years in darkness, Marvin Jenkins, pianist and radio entertainer, is able to see.

A delicate operation performed last Friday has restored the sight of one of Jenkins' eyes, who was born blind and had expected to remain so until his death. One of the first persons he saw when the bandage was removed was his wife, Carol, to whom he was married three years ago.

The operation was performed in a hospital here by Dr. John O. Wetzel, assisted by Dr. Howard C. Rockwell, both of Lansing. It consisted of removal of a congenital cataract, and required the fitting of an artificial lens to the eye. No effort will be made to restore sight to the other eye. Friends of Jenkins and members of a local luncheon club helped arrange for the operation.

Arthur H. Amick, 78, Was Head of Improvement Company.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Dec. 16.—Arthur Hammond Amick, 78, prominent in banking, business and civic circles here for nearly 60 years, died last night. For some years he conducted a marble yard here. He was president of the Cumberland Improvement Co., secretary and treasurer of the Alleghany Building and Loan Association and was connected with other enterprises. He was one of the founders of the old Interstate Trust Co. Mr. Amick had been prominent in the Associated Charities and Young Men's Christian Association work.

Mr. Amick is survived by his wife, Mrs. Laura Amick; one son, Arthur Hammond Amick, jr., an officer attached to the Italian flying corps in the World War, and two daughters, Mrs. John F. Lucey and Mrs. George B. Clifton, both of Scaradale, N. Y. Mr. Amick was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Policemen Fooled By Liquorless Jug

Joker Proves It Held Only Water, but Gets Trips to Station.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 16.—James Jamerson, of 1045 Brook street, discovered two policemen hiding near his home and he decided to play a joke on the two officers. Returning to his home he filled a jug with water and then exposed himself to view of the officers. The two policemen came out of hiding and started to arrest Jamerson. Then Jamerson protested that he had nothing but water and that he was only playing a joke.

This did not cause the officers to desist and they took Jamerson and his jug to headquarters, where a charge was noted against him for violating the prohibition law, second offense.

Then the liquor was turned over to the public welfare department, where tests showed Jamerson was right. But the joke caused Jamerson two trips to police headquarters, one with the officers and the other to make good under a $500 bond under which he obtained his liberty after he played the joke.

Eastern Star Chapter Selects New Officers

Special to The Washington Post.

Lonaconing, Md., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Janet Yountz was elected worthy matron of Martha Washington Chapter, No. 10, Order of the Eastern Star, to serve during 1931. Phillips, treasurer; Mrs. Isabel Morgan, conductress; Mrs. Clara Stevenson, associate conductress.

Installation exercises will take place Friday evening, January 9.

Man Dead Who Served In Confederate Army

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 16.—John H. Hardy, 88 years old, retired contractor and builder and a Confederate veteran, died last night at the home of his son, V. T. Hardy, near White Hall. He was a native of West Virginia, but spent most of his life near here.

He served in the quartermaster department of the Confederate army. Surviving also are another son, E. N. Hardy, here, and one daughter, Mrs. Martha J. Potts, Martinsburg, W. Va.

Manslaughter Charge Is Filed in Auto Death

Special to The Washington Post.

Romney, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Forrest Kidwell, 20, was formally charged with responsibility for the death of Lee Smith, 40, by a coroner's jury here today. The jurors said Smith came to his death early Saturday morning as a result of Kidwell's driving an automobile recklessly and while he was under the influence of liquor.

A formal charge of manslaughter was lodged against him and bond arranged for his appearance before the Hampshire County grand jury in January.

SCHMELING ORDERED TO SIGN FOR SHARKEY FIGHT

Westbrook Pegler Says.

THE end of the football season finds the game in a curious situation, its desirability subject to doubt atmong the students for the first time in its history.. Football has been reformed before, once at the vigorous prompting of the late Theodore Roosevelt, and the rules have been revised out of any but the faintest general resemblance to the original game, but, up to the present time, these changes have been effected by the elders. This year the student bodies are beginning to assert an interest which will presently become an authority, and if the undergraduates ever do obtain full control it will be interesting to see whether youth is any more honest or any wiser than maturity and middle age.

It is pleasant to think of youth as clear-eyed mentally as well as physically, and comparatively sinless, but it is puzzling to reflect that the majority of the elders who have been mishandling the game in some respects are, in the main, quite youthful themselves and recent graduates.

A graduates manager of athletics at one of the big universities, discussing the current agitation to give the game back to the boys, claims that the boys were unable to manage the game when they had it, adding that there were some deplorable discrepancies in the accounts of the gate receipts and expenditures in the days when the student managers handled the business affairs.

3 OPTIONS FACED BY YALE

At Yale, just now, in response to the demand of some of the alumni for winning teams, an expression of undergraduate opinion perceives that Yale must either change systems and frankly go into the football business or go even more amateur and withdraw into a select company of similarly minded schools.

At Pennsylvania the revolt against domination by the coaches has been particularly against one coach who is not a typical coach. Mr. Lud Wray, from all accounts, was a coach who could not lead this particular group of young men as Maj. Ralph Sasse and Knute Rockne lead theirs and therefore was put to the unfortunate necessity of trying to drive them. So there was covert mutiny and spiritual sabotage in the team, and Penn had a miserable season at the end of which Mr. Wray withdrew. But it has not been made clear whether Mr. Wray was hired as an instructor or a boss.

If his players were strictly amateurs, paying their way at college, then he should have been regarded as an instructor and in a sense the servant of the football squad. But if some of the players were receiving scholarships and other subsidies in return for their football, as I have heard they were, then they were employes of the school themselves, hired to play football, and I suppose Mr. Wray had a right to regard them as his subordinates. Some bosses use psychological gall otherwise known as leadership in managing their men, but there are some employes who prefer the driving type of foreman.

ACES UNDER ORDERS, IF PAID

At any rate, the Pennsylvania case is not characteristic, for the football coaches, as a class, are interesting men who know how to appeal to the loyalty and other emotions of young athletes, and it is seldom that a football team repudiates the coach, even after a bad season. Illinois had a bad season, but I have been reading that the players presented Mr. Zuppke, their coach, who is also a part-time comic artist, with a round robin parchment expressing their loyalty to him and their thanks for his gentle patience with their shortcomings.

Mention of Mr. Zuppke's practice as a comic artist suggests one of the principal embarrassments of the coaching profession. Last winter one of the coaches who is currently involved in an attempt to preempt the late Walter Camp's all-America idea was discussing his literary practice which has become the source of important unearned pickings for him and he said: "I know that as a writer I would not be worth more than

Colonial Five Opens With Victory

Defeats Shenandoah, 45-25, as Second Team Stars.

Brown, Visitors' One-man Team, Scores 18 Points.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY played its first game of the season last night in the Colonial gym against a boy named Brown, although the schedule called for a game against Shenandoah College, of Dayton, Va. The Colonials defeated Brown, 45-25.

Brown, a big, alert speeder, was the whole Shenandoah team. He was the only visitor who showed more than tolerable skill in passing; he was the only visitor who solved G. W.'s defense play, and he was he was the only man on his team to score a field goal, and he scored 6 field goals and 6 free tosses, for 18 of his team's 25 ponits.

Second G. W. Team Has Edge on Regulars.

Coach Pixlee used two squads in the rout of the visitors. A smoother-working second team started the fray and worked its way into a 24-11 lead as the half whistle sounded. The Colonial subs showed good passing akill and a real basket shark in Zahn, forward.

Three Games Scheduled In Community Loop

The Community Center Basket Ball League will hit its real stride tonight when three tilts will be staged, all at Central High Gym.

Company E, National Guard basket men will meet the Petworth Mets at 8 o'clock, while at 9 o'clock the Crescents will battle the Pontiacs and the Drakes will take on the Griffith Consumers.

Fox Chase Collision Injures Two Whippers

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 16.—Towney Craun, 29, whipper of the Piedmont Hunt Club, was lingering in a hospital here tonight with a severe skull fracture, sustained today at Llangolen, the John Hay Whitney estate, near Upperville, when thrown from his horse. Irwin Beavers, another whipper, sustained lacerations.

Their horses collided head on while racing down a steep hill during a fox chase. Waugh Glasscock, master of the Piedmont Hunt, and members of the club and guests, many from New York, Philadelphia and other cities, rushed to the injured men. Doctors here said Craun's condition was critical. He is married. The chase continued with substitute whippers, but with less enthusiasm.

3 at Cumberland Post $500 in Killing of Doe

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md. Dec. 16.—C. P. Fletcher, Charles Leasure, Earl Fletcher and C. L. Creek, all of near Little Orleans, this county, charged with killing a doe each, furnished $500 bond today for a hearing in People's Court December 22.

Earl Fletcher gave additional bond of $1,000 on a charge of using shot in killing a buck, while Russell Fletcher, Earl Price and Luther Price posted $500 each, alleged to be involved in the same case. It is illegal to use anything but a single ball in hunting deer.

The charges were preferred by District Deputy Game Warden H. Russell Kenney. The penalty for killing does is a fine of $300 or 90 days in jail, or both.

EPIPHANYS WIN.

The Epiphany A. C. girls basket team defeated the Boxie A. C. last night at Eastern High gym by the score 24-17.

Golf Develops Eyes, Optometrists Are Told

"Golf is Heaven-sent to the business man," said Dr. A. M. Skeffington, of Chicago, at the American Academy of Optometry meeting today.

"It's value lies not in the paltry exercise of walking and slicing turf, but in the benefit derived by the eyes. Golf requires of the eyes a similar use to those under which the visual system was developed; long, keen, accurate sight."

GRID LEADER AT V. P. I. STRICKEN

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Dec. 16.—Henry V. "Bird" Hooper, who led Virginia Poly's football team to the Virginia championship this fall, is seriously ill. The Poly captain was taken sick Sunday in the midst of the fall quarter examinations and he was in a coma intermittently for two days.

V. P. I. medical authorities took him to Roanoke today for examination and physicians at Jefferson Hospital there, rushed him to Baltimore where he will be under care of a specialist. His illness is considered serious, although it was reliably stated in Blacksburg today that doctors had not definitely diagnosed it.

Hooper's brilliant running, passing and defensive game accounted for two touchdowns for his team in the fourth quarter of the Thanksgiving Day game with V. M. I. at Roanoke, but it was subsequently revealed that he was wholly out of his head during late stages of the game and has never been able to recall anything that happened in the final period of the game.

Family En Route To Bedside.

His family was notified of his illness this morning and is en route to his bedside today. V. P. I. and a host of friends are eagerly awaiting word from Baltimore as to his condition for Hooper is very popular on the campus, being president of the corps of cadets, cadet captain and candidate for academic honors. His home is at Newport News, Va.

2 Kentucky Gridmen In New York for Game

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Although sponsors of a charity football game at New York between Southern and Northern all-star college teams have said they doubt whether enough players can be rounded up to participate, two University of Kentucky players have already gone to Gotham to take part in the proposed encounter.

L. G. (Floppy) Forquer, 1930 Wildcat captain, and Conrad Rose, his running mate at guard, received railroad tickets and traveling expenses and left Sunday night. They said "Stumpy" Thomason, former Georgia Tech half back, will be in charge of the Southern eleven, which is expected to play a Northern team December 27.

Gonzaga to Reward Gridmen Next Week

Coach Orrel Mitchell, of Gonzaga, announced last night that letters would be distributed next week to the regulars on Gonzaga's Grid Team.

Gonzaga was best all year by injuries, scholastic ineligibilities and the graduation of regular performers, but put up keen competition to all grades of opposition. Tech, in the final game, was given a real battle, and in the opinion of Coach Hardell, it was one of the hardest games his Manual Trainers played.

GRID LEADER

THEODORE METCALF, of Winthrop, Mass., who has been elected to captain the Manlius School gridmen next season. He is a guard, 18 years old, and tips the scales at 170. Next year will be Metcalf's third as a regular at Manlius.

C. U. Winner, 39-19, in Debut

Spinelli, Sophomore, Bright Star Against Normal Quintet.

Stages Scoring Spree Near End; Jansen Invaders' Hero.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY inaugurated its basket ball campaign with a 39-19 victory over the Maryland State Normal Five last night and revealed two highly-effective Sophomoric additions to the team in Lou Spinelli and Bud Sheary, guards.

Spinelli provided the offensive fireworks in the second half rout of the Normal quintet, which had waged a stubborn battle in the first half. He placed the game beyond the recall of the Marylanders in the final 10 minutes with a scoring spree that added 10 points to the slim margin of the Cardinals.

Spinelli Registers 16 Points.

The sum total of Spinelli's efforts amounted to seven field goals and two fouls for an aggregate of 16 points, winning him individual honors conclusively. It was on the defense that Sheary's presence was valuable. He proved a bulwark under the Normal school basket.

The competition went out of the game with Augie Jansen, Maryland State Guard, who kent his team in the running with 7 points before he incurred the four personal fouls that caused his ejection before the first half ended.

Maryland State was baffled by the Cardinals' semizone defense and relied chiefly upon long shots which failed to find their mark consistently in the second half. It was near the close of the game that Spinelli ran the Cardinal total up rapidly, twice scoring field goals on follow-up efforts after his mates had missed.

White C. U. Frosh Star In Business' Defeat

Overcoming a 9-4 alien lead in the third quarter on some fancy shooting by White, right forward, the Catholic University Freshmen basketers opened their season with a 23-15 victory last night over the Business High School quintet in the Brookland gymnasium.

White went on a scoring rampage early in the third period and soon pushed his team ahead, but from there on the Stenographers clung tenaciously on the Freshmen's heels.

Lucas, with three field goals and as many charity points, was outstanding for Business.

League to Continue, Says Pro Court Head

New York, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The American Professional Basket Ball League is in no danger of breaking up, John J. O'Brien, president of the circuit, said today when informed of a report that it would disband after this week's schedule has been played.

O'Brien said a change in the ownership of the Chicago Bruins might take place about January 1, but the franchise would continue in Chicago. Two applications already have been received for the franchise abandoned by the Cleveland Rosenblums, he added. The applicants are Dayton, Ohio, and the combined cities of Utica and Mohawk, N. Y.

Most of the six clubs now in the league have been drawing good crowds, O'Brien declared, and indications are that there will be seven or eight clubs in the circuit when the second half of the season starts about January 15.

Football Is Not Commercialized Sufficiently, Rockne Declares

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne, here to speak at the annual Canisius College football dinner tonight, said in an interview today that he did not believe college football was overcommercialized. He went even so far as to say "It is not commercialized enough."

"Football," he said, "supports all minor sports in most colleges. Because football doesn't take in sufficient receipts at many colleges these institutions have been forced to abandon their other athletic activities.

"I say football isn't commercialized enough because there are only about 25 out of 1,000 colleges making any real money out of it. Two colleges in the last three weeks have had to give up the sport."

A. A. U. Votes Jones Sullivan Award As Best Amateur Despite Film Contract

Demar Beaten for Honor by 2 to 1 in Balloting.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones' international golfing triumphs have won for him the Sullivan Memorial Award, the Amateur Athletic Union announced today.

The award, given for the first time this year in memory of the late James E. Sullivan, A. A. U. pioneer, goes to the athlete who by his performances and by his example and influence as an amateur and as a man, has done most during the year to advance the couse of sportsmanship. The award, a gold medal, will be presented to Jones at a time and place to be decided upon later.

Frankness Marks Movie Contract.

It was felt that the award was to be made on the basis of what the recipient was and what he had accomplished during the year and that furthermore, Jones' attitude in signing the movie contract had been entirely above board and marked by that "frankness and openness which has always been one of his characteristics." All this made him "stand out more than ever as a thorough sportsman."

Jones won by an overwhelming margin, receiving more than twice as many votes as the runner-up, Clarence Demar, famous marathoner from Melrose, Mass. Jones received 1,625 votes and Demar 800. Others in the contest, with the votes cast for them, were:

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, tennis champion, 666; Helene Madison, Seattle, Wash., swimming, 375; Barney Berlinger, all-around athlete from the University of Pennsylvania, 255; Thomas Hitchcock, famous polo ace, 236; George Simpson, Ohio State, national 220-yard sprint title holder, 232; Harlow Rothert, all-around athlete at Stanford University, 156; Raymond Ruddy, Columbia, long-distance swimming champion, 149, and Stella Walsh, Cleveland, women's sprint champion, 61.

BOBBY JONES

Summarize Reasons For Selection.

The committee, in announcing the award, summarized the reasons for its selection as follows:

"Foremost golfer of today, probably of all time. The winner of open and amateur championships of Great Britain and the United States this year, an unprecedented achievement. High ideals of amateurism and strength of character were exemplified in his refusal to accept a gift of $50,000 raised by popular subscription in Atlanta with which he was to buy a home. Has often been acclaimed at home and abroad as an unofficial ambassador of the United States to foreign lands.

"During the several years that he has been in the public eye there has not been a single reflection on his sportamanship or amateur status. By his excellence of performance, retiring nature, disdain for acclaim, helpfulness to and generous spirit toward his opponent and fine example under many trying situations, he has endeared himself to all lovers of amateur sport."

150 Nominated Originally.

Over 150 names originally were nominated by the selection tribunal for the award. In making their nominations, the members of the tribunal were asked to take into consideration acts of sportsmanship; excellence of performance, strength of character, qualities of leadership, force of personality and high ideals of amateurism.

From among those nominated, the Sullivan memorial committee of the A. A. U. selected the ten considered the most worthy. These ten, together with a summary of the reasons for their selection, were sent back to the tribunal for final vote. The members of the tribunal, some 600 outstanding leaders in the world of sport, were asked to vote for three in the order of their choice, the first to receive five votes, the second 3 and the third 1.

Dixie Group Rejects Plan to Use Freshmen

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association today voted its disapproval of plans reported under consideration by several schools, that would permit freshmen to play with varsity athletic teams.

The association defined its attitude at the request of Dr. C. C. Stroud, of Louisiana College, and Robert T. Hinton, of Georgetown College, Kentucky, who said they had been advised several schools would have trouble supporting a team if freshmen were not allowed to play.

The association also adopted a rule requiring that athletes play their three years of college football within a period of five years.

A proposal that dues be raised from $25 to $50, approved yesterday, was brought back to the floor of the convention today on a motion to reconsider, and the association went on record as opposed to the increase.

Swiderski, Suspended, Sues Boxing Officials

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Paul Swiderski, New York light heavyweight boxer, who was disqualified in the seventh round of his bout with Maxie Rosenbloom, titleholder, here December 2, was suspended for six months and his $550 purse declared forfeited by the Missouri State Athletic Commission after a hearing today.

As Missouri is a member of the National Boxing Association, the suspension will also go into effect in the other States belonging to that body.

Several boxing referees, fans and newspaper reporters testified that Swiderski, in their opinion was not putting forth his best efforts and the bout should have been stopped. Swiderski has sued Seneca Taylor, State Boxing Commissioner in this district and Referee Walter Heisner for $50,000 damages for disqualifying him.

Boxing Chiefs Give Teuton 15 Days

Schmeling's 6-Month Limit Expires; No Bout for Carnera.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The emperors of maul swung the big stick today and scattered the doldrums that have settled over the heavyweight division in the past few months.

The three members of the New York State Athletic Commission accepted the challenge of Jack Sharkey for a championship battle and notified Max Schmeling in Germany that he must agree within fifteen days to defend his crown against the Boston biffer.

"There is on file in this office a challenge directed at you by Jack Sharkey," Chairman James A. Farley cabled Schmeling in Berlin on behalf of the commission. "Your six month period in which to defend the title expired December 12. You are directed to advise within fifteen days from date your acceptance of the above challenge."

Elimination Series Eliminated.

The action of the commission dispelled any idea another long drawn out elimination series would be fostered to bring out a worthy challenger.

Sharkey now will not be forced to prove his strength once more by disposing of Young Stribling, considered by many the outstanding heavyweight; boxing any of the highly ballyhooed foreign threats, or meeting the younger menaces as typified by such willing huskies as Max Baer, of San Francisco.

The commissioners likewise disposed of rumors that Madison Square Garden was planning to stage a Stribling-Carnera match in Miami, Fla., this winter with an eye toward pitting the winner against Sharkey here in April.

The presence in town of "Pa" Stribling, manager of the Macon terror; representative of Carnera, and Frank Bruen, who is interested in various promotions in Miami and Havana, seemed to bear out the rumors, but the commission's demand for an explanation brought a complete and immediate denial from Bill Carey, Garden president.

Carnera Regarded With Suspicion.

Carey wrote Farley that the Garden had no intention of matching Stribling and Carnera in the South or anywhere else and was not dickering for Carnera's services. Since the big Italian's knockout here of Big Boy Peterson that started his bunting practice around the country, he has been looked upon with suspicion by the New York commission.

Carnera was indefinitely suspended and his license revoked following the scandal that broke out after his engagement with Bombo Chevalier in Oakland, Calif., several months ago. The penalty for negotiating with a fighter suspended by the commission includes revocation of the club license among other things.

Unless word is received from Schmeling within fifteen days accepting Sharkey as his next opponent, the commission will suspend the champion.

Schmeling promised the commissioners last June, following the unsatisfactory match in which he won the title from the Boston sailor on a foul, that he would meet Sharkey within a few months. Managerial complications prevented the return match at that time.

To add another bit of life to the heavyweight situation, Jack Dempsey applied through his secretary for renewal of his referee's license and the request was granted. The old man mauler plans to spend the Christmas holidays in New York and meet some of the Yuletide expenses with a bit of work here and there about the State.

EAST'S ALL-STAR SQUAD OF 22 LEAVES FOR COAST

Coach Names Tentative Line-Up

Places Bruder, Hart, Baker, Macaluso in Back Field.

No Drills Will Be Held En Route to San Francisco.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—The all-star Eastern football squad, consisting of Coaches Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, and Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and 22 players, entrained tonight for San Francisco, where they will meet an all-star Western team in a charity game, December 27.

The squad will arrive in San Francisco Friday morning. No workouts will be held en route.

The coaches sent their stars through a brisk rehearsal at Dyche Stadium, Evanston, this afternoon and were fairly satisfied with the workout. They were not certain about their starting line-up, but Hanley said it was likely that he would try this combination:

Baker, Northwestern, and Gantenbein, Wisconsin, ends; Lubratovich, Wisconsin, and Van Bibber, Purdue, tackles; Woodworth, Northwestern, and Linehan, Yale, guards; Siano, Fordham, center; Baker, Pittsburgh, quarter back; Bruder, Northwestern, and Hart, Colgate, half backs; Macaluso, Colgate, full back.

Long "Skull" Sessions On Program.

Special plays have been devised and long "skull" sessions have been programed to break up the monotony of the journey.

Other players making the trip were: Ends, Rosenzweigg, Carnegie Tech, and Bates, Western Maryland; tackles, Ely, Iowa, and Vincent, Yale; guards, Selby, Ohio State, and Doyle, Colgate; center, Bernard, Syracuse; quarter back, Brockmeyer, Minnesota; half backs, Wheeler, Michigan, and Fogarty, Brown; full back, Gardner, Villanova.

Georgia Stars Leave For Coast Benefit Game

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Herb Maffett, captain and end of the Georgia Football Team, and Vance Maree, Georgia Tech's giant tackle, left here tonight for San Francisco, where they will play on a team of selected players from the East against a Western team in the annual charity game during the Christmas holidays.

Jimmy Steele, Florida guard, also has been chosen from the South, and probably will join Maffett and Maree in New Orleans. The other members of the squad, chosen from the East and Middle West, headed toward the coast from Evanston, Ill.

SAYS PEGLER

$3,000 a year in any newspaper or syndicate shop in the land. But, of course, my football reputation sells my stuff and I earn many times $3,000 a year."

This consideration naturally tempts the coaches generally to ballyhoo themselves exploiting for their own profit reputations which properly belong in large part to their players and the schools which they serve. So presently they become showmen. The teams are their teams and like the more showy professionals in golf who hire out to showy golf clubs, they fancy that they lend distinction to the schools which they serve, which is not the correct balance.

BALLYHOO IS VALUED BY COACHES

I do not mean to belittle Mr. Zippke's comic strip. Most comic strips are comic only in the unconscious sense, and while I have never been stirred to uproarious mirth by his, that may be a reflection on my sense of humor, not on the strip. However, with some knowledge of the syndicate business, I venture the opinion that Mr. Zuppke would have had much less chance to sell his harmless little continuity in the cartoon factories of New York if he offered it under the name of Joseph Dokes.

I make the point that the football coach should approach his job with something of the feeling of amateurism and that he should not exploit his reputation for earnings which are gauged by his reputation rather than by the actual value of the work. I realize that many of the coaches are actually worth considerably more than many of the professors who regard the coaches' earnings with such envious alarm and would not deny them a dollar of their salaries. Even the clergy must live and it is considered quite ethical in the clergy to quit one pastorate for another which pays more money.

But I am not sure that there is really anything seriously wrong with football, barring certain localized excesses. Father O'Donnell, the president of Notre Dame, a school which to the public stands for football first and for intellectual attainments only incidentally if at all, holds that football has not been harmful to his school and that it will be soon enough to curtail football when the harm begins to show. The game certainly is show business now, and any school which wishes to withdraw from the show busines need only release the coach, deformalize the big shows and reduce the game again to its original purpose, which was 60 minutes of strenuous exercise. But even the students in their revolt against exploitation of the players' efforts and their own loyalties will not go that far.

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE Burnside Purse, 6 furlongs, for four-year-olds and up, the feature at Jefferson Park today, fourth on the card, by far eclipses in class any other event, and has apparently a standout in the filly SCONE, which is a daughter of John P. Grier—Muffins. She is a Whitney-bred, but will carry the colors of P. O'Keefe. She beat Bocaratone in her last start, a week ago, and Bocaratone beat Skirl, of the Whitney stable, Monday, which makes the case appear all the more favorable for SCONE.

SCONE led Baracatone all the way, and ran 6 furlongs in 1:13. BOB ROGERS, which beat Rain or Shine and other good ones, to come back and suffer defeat by Chene last week, appears the chief contender against SCONE. TADDYWAWA, somewhat off form at present, may improve, and is rated best of the others, because of her successful summer record, in which she beat some of the best sprinters in the West. Eleven are listed for the race, and others in this race stand a good chance, notably CHIANTI and JACK HASKELL.

FIRST RACE—The first race is for maiden 2 and 3-year olds. FLAGG PORTER is entitled to serious consideration on his last race, in which he closed fast, but was beaten out by a head by Charles Clarke. SHONNA, second to Yarrow Monday, is probably the contender, and may further improve. TEAR ON has an outside chance, and should be in the money.

SECOND RACE—THE ABBOTT is picked to repeat in the second race, which is for older horses at 6 furlongs. He ran a good race last out, running The Moon into submission to win by almost two length in 1:13 4-5. He has the same weight up, and will have BOURBON MAID to beat. She won with ease last out. CASH PLAY'S last effort was a good effort, second to Gold Bet, and LADENTELLE was good enough to win from a good field last week.

THIRD RACE—MY LAVA is selected to win the third race for fillies and mares at a mile and a sixteenth. Her last two races have been very ordinary, but she takes off weight and will have a more ordinary field opposing her than in several starts. Of these, HAZEL DENSON seems the best, running third a few days ago to Duke Pohl. MARETTE has a chance. She was third to La Dentelle in her last start, and that race repeated would be very dangerous here. This field is probably the most ordinary on the program, and there is little from which to choose.

FIFTH RACE—SANTA SOPHIA is believed best in the fifth race at a mile and a furlong. Her last race was not so good, JUNIOR C winning, but in her race previous to that, she won all the way over a stronger field, distancing Black On White. She favors a heavy track, and the course now is fast. REIGH OLGA is dangerous, finishing third to Aviator a few days ago. JUNIOR C is to be reckoned with in this gallop, having beaten the filly selected to win on a fast track as noted above. VANQUISH also has a chance in this event.

SIXTH RACE—The Sixth is also a mile and a furlong. SPANFLOW is selected to beat this field, repeating his last winning effort of Saturday, in which he took a margin of three lengths from Herendeen on a good track in 2:09 3-5 at a mile and a quarter. This race is a furlong less. SPANFLOW showed indications of becoming a useful plater in Maryland, after he began running on the flat instead of in steeplechases. OLD BILL should give him a battle, on his defeat of Voltmeter last out. CLEARANCE won his last race and may be best of the others, but is a bad post horse.

SEVENTH RACE—INTERIOR will have ALMA to beat in the seventh. She was second to Duke Pohl in her last start at the same distance as this. ALMA is a speedy filly and has had a rest from racing. PORT GAR should figure in the race. She was in stronger company in her last few races, and may be closer than third in this. She would have a better chance in slow going. A cold wave hit Jefferson Park yesterday, but the weather is clear.

Western High Beats Woodward Five, 26-15

The Western High School Basket Ball Team continued its winning streak yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. Gym when Woodward School was taken into camp by the margin of 26-15.

The victory boosts the Westenders' win column to five straight victories, despite the absence of Everett Buscher, Coach Cliff Moore's regular forward. Buscher's place was ably filled yesterday by Fox, who scored three field goals and one foul basket.

Yowell, center, was Western's big gun yesterday against the Woodwards. Generally regarded as lacking in the fundamentals necessary in an outstanding center, Yowell showed real skill yesterday, being high point scorer for his team. The score at the half was 15-10 in Western's favor.

Rockville Five Routed By Georgetown Prep

Led by Capt. Dick Heckin, the Georgetown Prep School quintet scored an easy victory in its opening game yesterday with the Rockville High School Team on the Garret Park court. The score was 46 to 18, Heekin's point total equaling that of the entire Rockville team.

The prepmen gathered an early lead and held it throughout. The score at the intermission was 22 to 11.

The game between the Emerson Institute Basket Ball Team and the strong Alpha Delta Omegas, of Alexandria, scheduled to be played yesterday, has been moved up to the middle of January, Coach Harley Page Sanborn, of the Emersonians, announced last night.

DAILEY QUITS AS HEAD OF U.S.L.T.A.

Not to Be Candidate Again; Dissatisfaction Hinted.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Louis B. Dailey, of South Orange, N. J., who became president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association last February to the accompaniment of a ringing declaration of strict standards of amateurism will not be a candidate for reelection, he said today.

Louis J. Carruthers, a New York lawyer and first vice president of the association, is slated to succeed Mr. Dailey at the annual meeting here February 14. Reports current in tennis circles that Dailey's action was due to dissatisfaction with progress made in putting his program into effect, brought denial.

"I have declined to be a candidate for reelection solely and strictly because I can not continue to devote the necessary time to tennis," Mr. Dailey said. He added that, even if he had agreed to run, his election by no means would have been assured.

Called Radical in Tennis Matters.

Called a progressive and sometimes a radical in tennis matters, President Dailey has been known as a reformer with definite ideas and definite plans for realizing them.

In a straight-forward address following his election at St. Louis early this year, Dailey called upon tennis clubs and players to stamp out commercialism, advocated funds for development of young players throughout the country and recommended "open competition between amateurs and professionals."

The open tennis proposal was turned down subsequently by the International Tennis Federation, European representatives expressing fear that open tournaments would decrease interest in their big amateur events.

Carruthers, who is to be elevated to the presidency has been closely connected with the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills for sixteen years and was largely instrumental in the construction of the West Side Stadium. He is looked upon as a conservative in tennis matters.

Dailey today expressed the belief that under Carruthers many of his own policies would be carried on. One of the most important of these calls for a reduction of emphasis upon international campaigns with elimination of intensive training of Davis Cup candidates.

VETERANS SIGN WITH TIGERS

Veterans Demoted by Wade On Eve of Alabama's Start

Four Regulars, Including Cain, Shunted to Second Team for Indifferent Practice; 35 Players, 8 Coaches Go to Coast.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Indifferent performances by several veterans caused Coach Wallace Wade to juggle his varsity lineup today almost on the eve of Alabama's departure for the Pacific Coast and the New Year's Rose Bowl football game with Washington State.

Howard and Miller, guards, and Eberdt, center, in the line, and Cain, sensational sophomore full back, and McWright, half back, were shunted to the reserves, while Sanford and Godfrey moved up to first string guard berths, with Sharpe at center, Boykin took McWright's post, while Tucker took Cain's place.

The demotion to the second squad served to urge the stars toward more spirited playing and today's workout found them driving at top speed again.

Wade will carry 35 players and eight coaches, with their wives, nine Southern sports writers and university officials on the Crimson Tide special to the Coast.

The players to make the trip are Elmore, Moore, Dotherow, Smith, Dobbs, Taylor and Hodd, ends; Simpton, Clements, Godfrey, Jackson, Sims and Barker, tackles; Miller, Howard, Sanford, Whitworth, Leslie and Frey, guards; Ebert, Sharpe and Houston, centers; Campbell, Holley, Tucker and Causey, quarter backs; Suther, McWright, Long, H. B. Miller, Brown and Bellini, half backs; Cain, Boykin and Hansen, full backs.

Betless Race Meeting Proposed in Tampa

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—A proposal for conducting horse racing without betting as a move to convince the State Legislature such sport "can be conducted by Floridians without law violation," was announced here today by Tucker Savage, a director of the Tampa Racing Association.

The organization, including many prominent Tampa men, will open its meet New Year's Day on a five-eighths mile track at Egypt Lake on the outskirts of town. Weekly cards will be presented. The first will include three races and a horse show. Purses of $50 and $100 will be offered. Proceeds of the meeting will go to charity, Savage said.

"The first thing we want to do is build up public sentiment for racing," said Savage. "Then we may expand our programs and invite outside stables to participate."

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DODIE LEIGHTON, $20.00, $5.20, $3.80; SUPAWANA, $5.60, $4.20; PAGAN LADDIE, $11.00.

DODIE LEIGHTON broke very fast, opened up wide early lead, displayed good speed and easily held race safe. SUPAWANA was taken wide on turn and finished very fast. PAGAN LADDIE was kept close to pace and ran a good race. BRINKLEY tired chasing the pace. COPPER had early speed. MARABOU is worth remembering.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs (split of second race). Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:59½. Off at 3:03½. Winner, F. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ORFORD, $4.00, $3.00, $2.80; CHAFF, $3.20, $3.20; WAR NYMPH, $5.40.

ORFORD broke slowly and in a tangle, worked his way up and, under a hard drive, just got up to win. CHAFF was taken around all the way and held on gamely. WAR NYMPH was kept close to pace and held on well. KNOCKABOUT showed a good effort.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. White Purse. For all ages. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:28. Off at 3:30½. Winner, Mrs. C. L. Applegate's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HOT TIME, $4.80, $3.00, $2.40; AGITATOR, $3.40, $2.20; WHILEAWAY, $9.00.

HOT TIME broke fast, rushed to the front, opened wide lead and showed dazzling speed to win galloping. AGITATOR broke well, but was crowded back in first furlong, closed with a rush and was a fast-going second. WHILEAWAY was well up and made a game effort. PLAY TIME finished very fast in the middle of the track. He ran a good race. MARTIS showed a dull effort.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:56½. Off at 4:00½. Winner, Superior Stable's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KADIAK, $4.00, $2.40, $2.20; BOB KERNAN, $3.00, $2.20; BUDDY BASIL, $2.40.

KADIAK was much the best. He was rated off the early pace, came around BOB KERNAN on stretch turn and drew out to win galloping. BOB KERNAN had plenty of early speed and was next best. BUDDY BASIL broke slow and closed a big rap. COME ON was always well up and had no excuse. ESSIE tired after showing speed for six furlongs. MORSNUFF lacked speed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:26½. Winner, E. McCuan's b. g. HIGH SCHOOL TOSSERS IN THREE GAMES TODAY

Tech to Meet C. U. Frosh In Debut

Russell Is Manual Trainers' Only Experienced Man.

Eastern vs. Hyattsville, Gonzaga Opposes Alumni.

GAMES TODAY.

Business vs. Hyattsville, at Hyattsville; 4 o'clock.

Gonzaga vs. Alumni, at Gonzaga, 3:30 o'clock.

THREE local high schools, including Tech, will meet some real opposition this afternoon on the basket ball court, according to the schedule of games and the reports of the coaches in charge. Great waves of confidence exuded from Tech High School's basket ball camp last night on the eve of its first action on the court today when the Manual Trainers take on Catholic University Freshmen at Tech.

Coach Artie Boyd, of Tech, believes his charges will win over the Cardinal Cubs. He considers that his squad is in almost as good shape as it will ever be and he likes the way his men have been going through their drills in Tech's spacious gym.

Russell Only Remaining Tech Mainstay.

However, about the only experienced man on Tech's team tonight will be "Honeyboy" Russell, one of Tech's 1929-30 mainstays, who helped give his school another basket ball title. Russell, Coach Boyd believes, is showing form of being a better ball player this year. Last year he finished third in total points scored by the high school players.

Tech's new style of attack, branded the Pittsburgh system, will be on view today. In the line-up also will be seen the comparatively new faces of Reichardt and Wheeler at forwards, Deach and Johns, centers, and Reid and Willison doing the guarding work.

Catholic University's squad is still so large that it is problematical which of the Cardinal Cubs will face Tech tonight. Charley McVean appears to be about the only one certain of gaining service and experience this afternoon.

Catholic looked good against Business High last night, but the basket mentors of the institution were none too pleased with the result.

Business, untouched by its game last night against the strong Catholic University Frosh, will go on today against the Hyattsville High, what should be another real test for Coach Woodworth's scrappy little bunch of courtmen.

Plenty of Action Listed For Stenog Five.

Woodworth evidently believes that his men can not see too much action, for tomorrow they meet George Washington University Freshmen and Friday they journey to Fredericksburg for a tussle with the high school basketers of that village.

Coach Orrel Mitchell, of Gonzaga, has become reconciled to a bad season, judging from the reports emanating from the I street school. Gonzaga will have one of the smallest squads it has had in the history of basket ball at the institution.

But while Mitchell's boys are small, they do not possess the redeeming quality of speed.

Fitzgerald, Nolan, Lynch, Carusi and Hester will be the five starters today against the cream of Gonzaga's former students. The Alumni five will be picked from Bussink, Pyne, McVean, Dunn, Connor and several of the Farrels.

TEAM OF COURT STARS REPRESENTS SAKS & CO.

Post Staff Photo.

Saks & Co. has high hopes for a successful season in view of the record of the players now bearing its colors. Five years ago the group, then known as the De Luxe, won the 115-pound South Atlantic title and the following year reached the finals in the 130-pound class. In the season of 1928-29, when known as the Curtin Wonders, they won the District championship again in the 130-pound class. Last year they reached the finals in the 145-pound division. Left to right (kneeling)—Frank Mansuy, "Shorty" Sebastian, Bud Turner. (Standing)—Bill Dougherty, Sidney Letvin, Dick Mothershead (manager), Bill Fisher and Bernie Jones.

MIDDIE FIVE BUSY THIS WEEK

Meets Lafayette Today and Western Md. Friday.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 16.—Naval Academy cagers, victorious a week ago in their initial game against William and Mary College, will face two opponents this week prior to Christmas leave. Tomorrow afternoon Lafayette will come here, while on Friday afternoon Western Maryland will be the rival. The Terror game was shifted to Friday because of the conflict with the leave of the midshipmen.

Coach John N. Wilson was not pleased with initial game of his charges, although several probable regulars were still playing football. However, quite a number of changes are promised tomorrow in what is regarded as the first team. Capt. Freshour has been demoted to the second team, as have Kastein, center, and Hagenmeister, guard.

Team Boasts Strong Offensive.

As a result of the shift, Loughlin, expected to be the team's star, and the diminutive Rogers will be the forwards; Holtzworacb, the center, and South and Bedell the guards. The team has the greatest amount of offensive strength that Coach Wilson can muster.

Freshour, Campbell, Kastein and Hagenmeister constitute the second combination. Most members of the squad are inexperienced, more than half being last year's plebes, while none of the others were regulars last year.

However, the Middies expect to finish their preyule schedule undefeated, although the Indians last week forced the locals to come from 9 points behind in the last five minutes to win. That spurt helped the Green five's confidence considerably.

20 Football Letters Are Awarded at Pitt

Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 16.—Pitt's new football captain, Edward Hirschberg, of McKeesport, Pa., is, like Capt. Eddie Baker, of the 1930 team, one of the high-standing students of the University of Pittsburgh. Hirschberg is a student in the school of journalism and has played end for two seasons, though injuries both years kept him out of many games.

Of the 20 letters awarded last night, 4 were won by sophomores, Warren, Heller and Paul Reider, half backs; Joseph Tormey, center, and Theodore Dailey, end.

Capt. Eddie Baker, Harold Williams, William Wallnchus and Charles Tully received their third letter.

Ernest Lewis, Franklin Hood, Edward Schultz, Jack Kelly, Harry Wagner and Al Ciper won their first letter in their last year of football. Other letter men honored last night are Jim Clark, Ralph Daugherty, Ed Hirschberg, Jess Quatse, Walter Milligan and Hart Morris. Walter Kearney, student manager, also was honored with a letter.

Yale Hall Scholarship Awarded Lindenberg

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—John T. Lindenberg, of Columbus, Ohio, a football and basket ball man, has been awarded the Norman Stewart Hall memorial scholarship at Yale, it was announced tonight.

The scholarship was awarded for the first time last year. It was established in memory of Norman S. Hall, Yale football and track man, who was drowned two years ago while saving the life of a skating companion.

The scholarship is awarded each year to the junior who "most nearly approaches the standards of manly character and good sportsmanship, which Norman Hall exemplified."

Lindenberg played end on this year's Yale varsity team until he was injured in the Army game. In his sophomore year he won his letter in basket ball.

15 Voted Grid Letters At Hampton-Sidney

Hampton-Sidney, Va., Dec. 16 (A. P.).—Twelve of the fifteen members of the Hampden-Sidney Tiger football squad awarded letters this year were Virginians. Capt. Lloyd Arehart and Manager Edward Agsten were West Virginians, and there was one South Carolinian in the group that included Capt-elect Billy Howell, of Richmond.

Seven of the fifteen letter men will be lost to the 1931 squad through graduation.

Marquette and Pitt Fives Play Tomorrow

Special to The Washington Post.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15.—Marquette University cagers bump up against what possibly may be their stiffest competition of the season Wednesday night when they meet the University of Pittsburgh quintet in the Milwaukee Auditorium.

Pitt's great offensive combination, minus Hyatt, L. Cohen and Zehfuss of last year's team, will provide a merry evening for the Marquette quintet now being developed by Bill Chandler, the old Wisconsin all-Western, who is new to the Hilltop this season. The Panthers again are coached by Dr. H. C. (Red) Carlson, whose teams have won 107 games and lost 41. In every year but 1924-25, under Carlson, the Easterners have won the Big Four title.

Coach Chandler, of Marquette, is expected to have at least two sophomores—Joe Fitzgerald, forward, and Tuffy Ronzani, guard, in the starting line-up against Pitt. Francis McElligott, forward; Whitey Budrunas, center, and Capt. Joe King, guard, veterans, probably will round out the Blue and Gold combination.

PENN DELAYS GRID COACH SELECTION

Wray's Successor to Be Decided Upon Next Spring.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Lud Wray's successor as head football coach at the University of Pennsylvania may not be selected until early next spring, according to an announcement today by John Arthur Brown, chairman of the special committee of the council of athletics.

"Just to stop all idle rumors and speculation, the question of choosing a new coach has not even been discussed," said Mr. Brown.

"No action whatever will be taken until Dr. Michael Dorizas and Gorman Hardwick, a special committee appointed by Thomas S. Gates, president of the university, files its report surveying athletic systems at other institutions, and recommends changes in our system of conducting athletics."

No One Being Considered Now, Says Brown.

"No one is even being considered for the coaching position now."

The Dorizas-Hardwick committee is expected to report its findings about February 1.

The names of Glenn Warner, of Stanford, and Dick Harlow, coach of Western Maryland's undefeated eleven, also continue to be mentioned.

As to the two unexpired years of Wray's contract, Mr. Brown said: "We will be fair with Mr. Wray."

Pennsylvania, it is said, is willing to pay Wray the $28,000 which his contract is reported to call for during 1931 and 1932, in monthly installments over a period of two years, with the reservation that all the money Wray earns elsewhere during that time be refunded to the council on athletics.

VIRGINIA FOE ROUTED BY CENTRAL

CENTRAL HIGH'S BASKET BALL TEAM blossomed to full bloom yesterday, exhibiting the best form that it has shown this year to defeat the Washington-Lee Little Generals by the score of 53-22. The game was played at Central.

The Ballston, Va., Team, coached in the zone defense system of play, saw its reputedly airtight design go to pieces under the swift attack of the Central squad. Time after time the Central forwards broke through with telling effect.

The trio of Rice, center; Burke, forward, and Broadbent, forward, were quick to put Central in the lead, 12-4, in the first three minutes of play, a lead that was never relinquished and never threatened, although Coach Bert Coggins flung in his entire second string men after the half.

Broadbent Accurate From Distance.

W.-L.'s attack was found wanting throughout most of the fray and the battle developed into a defensive game as far as the Virginians were concerned. Their defense tightened toward the end of the first half, but Broadbent nullified it by showing deadly accuracy in shooting from just past the middle of the floor.

Central played well throughout the game, the second team almost matching the first in speed, passing and shooting.

North Carolina State Books 8 Grid Games

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The North Carolina State 1931 football schedule calls for eight games at present, two dates being open. The schedule was announced tonight by Dr. Ray Bermon, athletic director.

Six of the games scheduled will be with Southern Conference rivals.

The schedule:

September 26 Davidson, at Raleigh or Greensboro.

October 3, Florida, at Raleigh; 10, Clemson, at Charlotte; 18, Wake Forest, at Raleigh; 24, pending; 31, North Carolina, at Raleigh.

November 7, Mississippi A. and M., at Starkeville, Miss.; 14, Duke, at Durham; 21, South Carolina, at Raleigh; 28, pending.

G. U. TO GIVE 23 GRIDMEN LETTERS

Dubofsky or Brennan May Be Named Captain Tomorrow.

VARSITY "G" letters for football service the past season will be awarded 23 Georgetown University athletes, Director of Athletics Tommy Mills announced yesterday.

Sixteen of the number are juniors or sophomores at present and are expected to return to form the nucleus for the Hilltop eleven next fall.

Heading the list of letter-winners is Capt. William Morris, center, who is one of the seven seniors due to graduate in June. This is the second time that Morris has been recommended for the varsity football award. The others who have completed their gridiron careers are John Bozek, Edward Leary, William Maczees and Philip Mooney, half backs; John Scalzi, quarter back, and David Muir, guard.

Two Mentioned as 1931 Captain.

Following are named the junior and sophomore letter-winners: Leroy Bordeau and Mancell Gillis, full backs; Emile Bozek, Russell Danieu and Richard King, half backs; Robert Brennan, Ray Hudson and James Leavey, ends; Carl Anderson, Edward Katalinas, George Dyer and William Slezak, tackles; Charles Brickman, Maurice Dubofsky, Richard Danner and Aurel Tremblay, guards.

The election for the 1931 captain will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. Prominently mentioned as candidates for the honor are Dubofsky and Brennan, both of whom have served two years on the varsity team.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER

By JACK ESPEY

THE undergraduate "Targum" of Rutgers University works up a fever and shouts deliriously, in effect, "save us, oh, save us from commercialism of football." The Targum, or its editorial writer, is sick at heart, but apparently for no good reason. It, or he, seems to believe that the grand old game of intercollegiate football—which Rutgers helped to originate 61 years ago—has picked up a deadly infection of some sort and soon will be outcast from respectable society.

Indeed, the Targum says that football is sinking to the level of the prize ring and the race track and that it is darkened by the checkered vest and black cigar, shadows of the gambling world.

Commercialism of football—highly paid coaches, stupendous gate receipts and large crowds composed mostly of plain, ordinary fans—has taken the fun out of the sport so far as Rutgrs is concerned, according ot Targum.

Present Day Game Gives All Kick.

Well, perhaps football has been commercialized. Maybe the gamblers have taken an interest in it. Undoubtedly some of the coaches receive swell salaries. But what of it?

Do the students care? Do you see them crying and wringing their hands at games, meanwhile sobbing, "Oh, if they would only make these outsiders keep away." Have you heard of any players yelping because they are told what to do by the coaches? Have you heard them complain because they are not given the duty of mapping out tactocs and strategy, making substitutions, &c.? By inference, the Targum says that they do, and that that's why football is no longer any fun for the players and the undergraduates.

But we doubt it. It seems to us that the players and students get a big kick out of the present-day game. The larger the crowd, the better they enjoy it; the bigger the reputation of the coach, the harder they train. And as for the gamblers—the players certainly are unapproachable.

Maryland-G. U. Breach Is Healing.

Intercollegiate football, to our way of thinking, is not in the hands of the spectator, rather than the player, as the Targum believes. If it is in the hands of the spectator, he doesn't appreciate it.

Will Georgetown and Maryland ever resume varsity athletic relations? The answer is not to be secured from the coaches of these institutions. Not a word out of them. But there's something in the air.

After years and years of going separate ways, Georgetown and Maryland got together last fall to the extent of playing a freshmen football game. Now they have scheduled two freshmen basket ball games. Evidently, the obstacles to revival of full athletic relationship are slowly, but surely being swept away.

On January 17 the Hilltop Freshmen will entertain the Old Line Freshmen in a preliminary to the Georgetown-Washington and Lee game in Tech High School gymnasium. The return game will be played on Maryland's floor on February 19.

Virginia Considers Ending Hunting Season on Dec. 31

Game Body to Consider Matter With Respect to Eastern Section at Public Hearing at Richmond Tomorrow.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—M. D. Hart, executive secretary of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, said today that correspondence received at his office indicated that delegations from many sections of eastern Virginia will attend the commission hearing called here Thursday in connection with the proposal to close the hunting season December 31.

The meeting is to be held in the house of delegates hall of the capitol to accommodate the number of sportsmen expected. Mr. Hart said reports from some of the counties are contradictory as to the amount of game on hand. One hunter reported there was virtually no game in his community. A neighbor in the same community told the commission he found the game supply fairly abundant.

Discussions to Affect 79 Counties.

The discussions Thursday will affect the season in 79 counties in the State. The season in 21 counties in the Shenandoah Valley and in northern Virginia was closed on December 6 by the commission's order after similar public hearings.

Mr. Hart said the attitude of the commission was that shooting should be discontinued for most game in most counties on the last day of the year. It is possible, however, he said, that some counties may be excepted from such an order, if the people indicate they wish a continuance of hunting during January. It was pointed out, however, that if a few counties are excepted they would be likely to be overrun by hunters from counties in the closed area.

The upland hunting season ends generally with January 31, but the commission is given the authority to curtail the season in its discretion.

Birds and other game were severely affected by the drought throughout the whole State, and forest fires in many sections also were disastrous.

Alexandria High Tossers Meet Western in Opener

Games to Be Played Here Tomorrow Night, With Central Guest in Home Inaugural Saturday; Schwartz Trains for Fight.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 16.—Alexandria High School basketers will inaugurate their 1930-31 court season on Thursday when they trek to Washington to oppose the crack Western High team in a game in the latter's gymnasium.

Coaches Given and Wilson are enthused over prospects for the club this season and have their eyes glued on winning the District title and advancing far into the State championship play for class "B" schools.

Open With Central at Home Saturday.

The "Twins" will play their first home game, of the sixteen scheduled, in Armory hall Saturday, when they mix with Bert Coggins' Central High School Team. As a preliminary contest to the big battle, the high school girls' sextet will meet the alumnae team under the direction of Miss Ada Hicks.

The varsity players with the "Twins" are Schreiner, Boran, Evans, Travers, Bruin, Luckett, Routzhan, Curtis, Jackson and Turner. Practices are being held daily in Armory hall.

Billy Schwartz, Alexandria leading heavyweight boxer, expects to go to Philadelphia for a bout after the Christmas holidays. Schwartz is training daily in Frankie Mann's gymnasium in Washington.

Roland "Speed-King" Jones, considered one of Alexandria's leading baseball players, who some years ago had a try-out with the Washington Nationals, died Monday in the hospital at Winchester, Va., after a long illness.

Whitestone Jr. Five Bows To St. Martin's.

The Whitestone Juniors dropped their first game of the season last night to the St. Martins Club in Washington, 19-12.

The Virginia Juniors will hold an important meeting Wednesday night at 128 S. Royal street. They plan to disband for the season at this time. Coaches Whitestone and Briscoe request all members to be present. The session begins at 7 o'clock.

Duke Five Promises Strong Defensive

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Dec. 16.—Although Duke's basket ball team this year has only two regulars back, they have exhibited a strong defensive, and, at times, a flashy offensive in practice games with city teams here. In a scrimmage tilt against the Durham "Y" team in the Duke gym recently, a picked quint of Blue Devils held the local team to three field goals, while they ran up 27 points in 20 minutes of play.

That Duke Team, composed of the cocaptains, Rogers, at forward, and Croson, at center; Carter, a veteran, at forward, and Shaw, veteran, and Colley, sophomore, at guards, is slated to start the opening game with Villanova here Friday night.

An entire second five, which consists of sophomores in all save one position, probably will see action against the Pennsylvania team. Don Garber, a veteran forward from last year; Capelli or Horno, forwards; Hill, center, and Robertshaw and Cochrane, guards, make up the second group.

Coach Cameron is giving preference to the veterans in the first game, there being only a shade of difference in the two teams, and says there may be changes in the lineup at any time. He looks for a good season with two full teams of approximately the same strength.

G. U., West Point Play West Virginia Five

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Featured by the appearance of the United States Military Academy Team at Morgantown on February 21; Georgetown here on February 12, and other games with Navy, and Penn State on their floors, the West Virginia University basket ball schedule was announced here today.

The card shows 20 games as contrasted to the 22 played last year, but the arrangement is such that it is doubtful if the burden upon the players is much relieved, especially with respect to the usual Eastern invasion. It calls for the Mountaineers to meet W. and L. at Huntington on a Saturday; jump to Washington to play Georgetown on Monday; thence to Philadelphia to meet Temple on Tuesday; back to Annapolis to meet Navy on Wednesday; then hurry home to meet Georgetown at the field house on Thursday; topping off this strenuous series of opponents and railroad jumps with a trip to State College to meet Penn State on Saturday.

January 5, Salem College at Morgantown; 8, Allegheny College at Morgantown; 10, West Virginia Wesleyan at Morgantown; 14, Marshall College at Morgantown; 17, University of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh; 28, Geneva College at Morgantown; 31, Weleyan College at Buckhannon.

February 4, Bethany College at Morgantown; 7, Washington and Lee at Huntington; 9, Georgetown at Washington, D. C.; 10, Temple University at Philadelphia, Pa.; 11, U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.; 12, Georgetown University at Morgantown; 14, Penn States at State College, Pa.; 21, U. S. Military Academy at Morgantown; 25, Duquesne University at Morgantown; 28, Washington and Jefferson at Washington, Pa.

March 3, Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh, Pa.; 7, Washington and Lee at Morgantown; 11, University of Pittsburgh at Morgantown.

ROBINS BUSY SIGNING UP PLAYERS

Bissonette, Gilbert Latest to Come in Fold.

By WILLIAM HENNIGAN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Frank York, president of the Brooklyn Club, believes in doing his contract-shopping early; in fact, he is of the opinion that the documents should be sent out early and that every player, whether the biggest star or the rawest of the rookies, should be under lock and key when it comes time to start the trip to the training camp in the South.

The majority of the Brooklyn players already have received their contracts for the 1931 season. Babe Phelps, the big right-hander, and Senor Lopez, the young Spaniard catcher, signed before they returned to their respective home after the season closed. And today the mail man dropped two important letters on Dave Driscoll's desk at Ebbets Field.

Bissonette, Gilbert Sign Contracts.

When Dave opened them, a smile came to his face. They were the signed contracts of Del Bissonette, the clouting first baseman, and Wally Gilbert, the quiet and hardworking third sacker. Whether Bissonette received an increase over last year's salary could not be learned, that nearly always being held a private matter between the club and the player.

A lot of folks believe enough credit is not given by the fans and the baseball writers to Gilbert. Like George Burns, the old Giant outfielder, Wally doesn't attract much attention on the field. He hasn't much color, as they say, and he does not often make the headlines.

But color never made a base hit or won a ball game, and Wally played a right smart game at third during those hectic days of Robbie's struggle for the pennant

IMPORTANT STOCKS LOSE 2 TO 5 POINTS

EARLY RISE COLLAPSES

New York, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Pronounced weakness of stocks, heaviness of many commodities and only scattering improvement in the highest grade bonds today pictured the state of sentiment in the financial markets. Cotton made a technical recovery; otherwise it was a day of declines.

Many important stocks lost 2 to 5 points net, and the pressure was hardest against several of the pivotal shares. Once more the market essayed a morning rally, rising 1 to 3 points, only to crumble under an afternoon deluge of liquidation. Sales totaled 4,156,110 shares, the largest turnover since November 10.

Another slump in bar silver, a half-cent cut in export copper, losses of more than 2 cents a bushel in corn and recessions in raw sugar futures were some of the developments outside the stock exchange. In addition, a dozen or more smaller interior banks closed and the foreign trade figures for November were decidedly unfavorable. Thus there was nothing in the news to nourish the early advance in stocks.

American Phone Off 4⅝.

U. S. Steel, American Telephone, New York Central, Pennsylvania, General Electric, American Can, Westinghouse and Standard Oil of New Jersey had to take a severe drubbing. Telephone, which sold as high as 181½, broke to 172⅝. It closed 2 points above the bottom, off 4⅝. Standard of New Jersey cracked to 45⅛, which happened to be its final price. The net loss was 3⅞. New York Central dropped to 107 and then recovered to 108⅜, off 4⅜.

A large number of issues lost 5 or 6 points net, among them Allied Chemical, Macy, Ingersoll-Rand, Corn Products, Coca Cola and North American. Columbian Carbon and Worthington Pump dropped 8, Peoples Gas was down 12 at the close and Worthington Pump preferred "B", an inactive, tumbled 13. There were declines of 1 to 3 in American Smelting, American Can, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil of New York, Texas Corporation, Westinghouse, Du Pont, National Biscuit, Johns-Manville, Bethlehem Steel and General Electric. General Motors and Radio were heavy, but held their losses to fractions.

Anaconda was one of the few important issues to show firmness. Some rails bucked the general trend for gains of two or three points, among them Lackawanna, Frisco and Delaware & Hudson. Most of the others joined the long procession of new lows.

Commercial Loans Decline.

The weekly bank statement of reporting Federal Reserve members revealed a $16,000,000 gain in investments, but it was all in governments, for holdings of corporate bonds declined, as was to have been expected from the recent action of the bond market. Security loans were stationary. Although this item is materially under the 1929 high, it is only $49,000,000 less than a year ago this time, which leads some observers to believe that a further reduction is not improbable. Commercial loans fell $91,000,000.

Failure of the sugar conference in Brussels was not regarded too unfavorably, since it was believed in trade circles that a compromise was still possible, and it was apparently on the strength of this assumption that futures here recovered half of their extreme losses of 8 to 10 points.

America's foreign trade last month was 12 per cent less than October's, emphasizing the duration of the depression abroad. Imports reached the smallest volume since October, 1921, but it was the poorest November in fourteen years.

Call Money at 2 Per Cent.

The $200,000,000 Treasury overdraft at the Federal Reserve Bank was cut in half and the money markets eased. Although the demand loan rate held at 2½ per cent on the stock exchange funds were again offered unofficially at 2.

Notwithstanding obvious Farm Board support, wheat was inclined to sag in sympathy with weak foreign and Northwest markets and a bearish estimate of the exportable surplus. Final quotations were unchanged ⅝ lower. Corn's losses ranged from 2½ to 2¾ cents, reflecting heaviness in Liverpool and an increase in contract stock.

After making new lows for five successive days, cotton, although irregular at times, showed net advances of 55 to 80 cents.

The general steadiness of European exchanges was enlivened by a brisk recovery in the Spanish peseta, which shot up nearly half a cent. The French franc, the mark and sterling were virtually unchanged.

BONDS' PRICE LEVEL SINKS AS SALES RISE

Few Legal, Second-Grade Rail Issues in Investment Section Score Gains.

MANY NEW 1930 LOWS

New York, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Bonds resumed their downward course today, and with the exception of some investment issues, particularly those in the carter group, were lower at the close of a very busy session.

Several score domestic and foreign loans were included in the crop of new 1930 lows, which the day's trading brought. In both sections many changes were registered in points. The outstanding weak spots were domestic bonds that follow the trend of stocks and Latin-American issues.

U. S. Governments Dip.

United States Governments failed to maintain the advance which developed in yesterday's session, but the few changes that occurred were of the smallest variety. The relatively few plus signs sprinkled through the bond list were mostly in legals and a few second-grade rails that have yielded the most ground in the autumn decline. The steadier tone that has developed in investment issues widely held by commercial banks has encouraged the belief in financial circles that selling by the banks to improve their liquid condition had ceased.

Selling of Latin-American and some European issues broadened in today's session and was attributed to the nervousness inspired by the revolution in Spain and reports showing the effect of the world-wide depression on several countries. Losses of 1 to 3 points were numerous, but the sharpest tumble was taken by Bolivian governments. They declined 7 to 9 points, all to new lows for the year. Commission is conferring with New York bankers in an effort to obtain an adjustment of service on the debt which amounts to approximately $60,000,000.

Italian and German Bonds Drop.

Several Brazilian and Peruvian loans joined the Bolivian group in new low ground for the year. Italian and German bonds of various descriptions yielded to pressure. New lows for the year were registered by Rhine Westphalian 7s, Cologne City 6½s and Berlin 6½s. German 5½s and Italian 7s were heavily traded and each sagged a point or more.

More than a dozen stock privilege bonds reached to new 1930 minimums and in many instances the losses were registered in points. The same was true of third grade and speculative domestics. Even among the best grade issues there were many adjustments to the lower level established this month in infrequently traded obligations.

PLANS FORMULATED FOR BANK MEETING

Four Sessions Will Occupy Management Parley Here February 26-27.

A. & P. SALES INCREASE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Four sessions will occupy the bank management conference, the second to be sponsored in the Central Atlantic States by the American Bankers Association in cooperation with State bankers' associations, to be held here, February 26 and 27.

These sessions will give participating bankers an opportunity to engage in an intensive study and discussion of current bank management problems. Successful bankers, chosen because of their qualifications to present practical knowledge gained from seasoned first-hand experience in bank operation, will address the delegates.

The application of the best banking practices and methods to the individual bank's requirements under conditions confronting them today will be treated from all points of view. The delegates will be given opportunity to engage in an interchange of ideas and experiences regarding the different subjects discussed.

The first conference of this character in the Central Atlantic States was held in Philadelphia this year with more than 1,000 delegates in attendance. Benefits gained from the meeting far surpassed expectations and representative bankers in this district have been most enthusiastic in requesting a similar conference next year.

Need for Auto Junking Plan.

The importance of a nation-wide dealer junking plan for obsolete automobiles is stressed in a commentary prepared by the Bank of America N. A., which explains that in normal years between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 cars become ready for the scrap heap and that this number represents about 1,000,000 tons of iron and steel scrap.

The significance of the plan is reflected in the fact that while in 1929 there were about 2,800,000 obsolete automobiles in the country, only about 500,000 were scrapped by dealers, indicating that the later created only one-fifth of the replacement demand through their own scrapping efforts.

Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company were $79,820,446 for the month of November. This compares with $83,713,860 for the corresponding period a year ago, and shows a decrease of $3,893,414, or 4.65 per cent.

Sales for the 11-month period ended November 29 were $980,949,625, compared with $940,654,424 for the same 11-month period in 1929, and is a gain of $40,295,201, or 4.89 per cent.

Prudential Insurance Dividends.

Dividends amounting to $86,299,000, a new high record, are announced by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America.

Of this amount, $53,566,000 was apportioned for industrial policyholders, or those whose premiums are paid weekly. The apportionment for this group in 1929 was $41,000,000, thus a gain of $12,566,000 is shown for this year.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the American Security & Trust Co., held yesterday, the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, with an extra dividend of 2 per cent, was declared, payable January 10, to stockholders of record December 31.

The directors also voted the usual Christmas bonus to employes. The annual meeting of the stockholders falling on Tuesday, January 20, the transfer books of the company will only be closed from January 11 to 20, both days, inclusive.

General Motors' Sales To Dealers Show Gains

New York, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—November sales of General Motors Corporation to dealers in the United States increased sharply over October, and also showed an increase over November last year, although sales to consumers showed a decrease in each instance. The increase in sales to dealers to a total of 48,155 cars in November, against only 39,745 in the like month last year marked the first month this year that sales to dealers in the United States exceeded the monthly sales for the corresponding period last year and was explained as largely due to the introduction of new Chevrolet models.

Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, last month were 57,257 cars, against 28,253 in October and 60,977 in November last year. November sales to consumers in the United States were 41,757 cars, against 57,757 in October and 68,893 in November of 1929.

FARMERS' MARKET RULES ARE TIGHTER

Commissioners Put Teeth in Restriction of Produce Allowed on Stands.

FAVORS NEARBY GROWN

Regulations with teeth in them to compel farmers who sell their produce at the Farmers' Market on B street, between Seventh and Fourteenth streets northwest, to obtain District permits and to prevent them from bringing their merchandise into Washington from nearby cities instead of farms were adopted yesterday afternoon by the District Commissioners.

The Commissioners have decided to retain the market temporarily even though Center Market is razed after January 1, it was revealed with the adoption of the new police rules upon the recommendation of George M. Roberts, superintendent of weights, measures and markets.

Former regulations contained no penalties for violation, according to Mr. Roberts, and consequently were frequently ignored. Some of the produce was brought here from Baltimore for sale at the market despite the limitation to farmers who have raised the products on farms in and nearby the District.

The Commissioners took no definite action regarding the plan to close Center Market January 1, but instructed Daniel Garges, secretary, to write a letter to Charles W. Darr, attorney for some of the dealers, explaining that the matter was now up to Congress as the Treasury Department has already let a contract to raze the structure.

Purcellville, Va., Dec. 15.—Death claimed a sister and brother within sixteen hours when Joseph William Brown, 69 years of age, died at his home in Philomont Saturday night and Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Rutter, 82 years of age, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cecil Hawling, in Philomont, Sunday afternoon, after an illness of several years.

Besides Mrs. Hawling they are survived by one brother, Charles Brown, of this county. Mr. Brown is also survived by his wife and two sons.

Mrs. Rutter was interred this afternoon in Leesburg Union Cemetery, while Mr. Brown was buried at Lincoln this morning, Elder Frasier, of Marshall, conducting the services.

Former Judge Named To Juvenile Aid Board

Judge J. Wilmer Latimer, former judge of the Juvenile Court of the District, was elected to the board of directors of the Juvenile Protective Association at a meeting of the board yesterday. Judge Latimer, one of the organizers of the association, was one of its early presidents, and has served in former years as a member of the board.

Paul Benjamin, connected with the committee on the costs of medical care, was also elected to the board at yesterday's meeting. A newcomer to Washington, Mr. Benjamin was formerly head of the Family Society in Louisville, Ky. Elwood P. Morey, president of the association, urged active participation in the Community Chest campaign.

Dr. Cole Will Speak To Dental Assistants

Dr. Charles D. Cole will be the speaker at the next meeting of the District of Columbia Dental Assistants Society at the Hamilton Hotel at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Arrangements will be completed for the January dance for the benefit of the charity dental work at Children's Hospital. Election of officers for the coming year also will be held.

Hurt in Connecticut, Minor Files Suit Here

An accident which occurred September 1, 1929, at Greenwich, Conn., was echoed here yesterday when Cy Gerber, a minor, through his father, Abraham Gerber, of Boston, filed suit in District Supreme Cout against Marion F. Cord and George R. Cord, of 3523 Twelfth street northeast, to recover $25,000 damages.

Gerber tells the court that, on the date given, the defendants' automobile, operated by an agent, struck him down. Negligence on the part of the driver is alleged. Attorney Frank J. Albus appears for the plaintiff.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.
Washington, Tuesday, Dec. 16—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Increasing cloudiness and slightly warmer Wednesday, followed by snow or rain Wednesday night and Thursday; moderate to fresh southeast winds.

For Maryland—Increasing cloudiness and warmer Wednesday, followed by snow, changing to rain, Wednesday night and Thursday; warmer Thursday; increasing east winds.

For Virginia—Increasing cloudiness and not quite so cold Wednesday, followed by snow or rain in southwest portion; Thursday rain, with rising temperature; fresh to strong east winds.

The disturbance that was off the northwest Florida coast Tuesday morning has increased slightly in intensity without further eastward movement. There are some indications that it will move northward with increasing intensity, and storm warnings have been ordered on the south Atlantic coast between Jacksonville, Fla., and Wilmington, N. C. Pressure is low over northwestern Hudson Bay, Churchill, 29.16 inches, with a trough extending southsouthwestward to Arizona, and pressure is falling rapidly over the plains States, the lake region, and the Ohio and middle and upper Mississippi Valleys. Pressure is also low but rising over the Canadian maritime provinces, Belle Isle, 29.54 inches. An anticyclone is moving eastward over the Middle Atlantic States, Baltimore, 30.64 inches, with an extension northwestward to Lake Michigan and thence southwestward over the west Gulf States. Pressure is also high on the north Pacific Coast. During the last 24 hours rains have occurred in the north Pacific States and the south Atlantic and east Gulf States. Temperatures have fallen in the south Atlantic and east Gulf States and have risen along the northern border from North Dakota eastward to northern New York.

The outlook is for rain on Wednesday in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the south Atlantic States, and the southern Appalachian region, and for rain on Thursday in the Atlantic States, Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the lake region. Elsewhere the weather will be somewhat overcast Wednesday and Thursday in the Washington forecast district. Temperatures will rise Wednesday and Thursday.

NATION'S HOSPITALS COST $3,125,123,000

Are Among Major Industries, Medical Care Group's Economist Says.

MOST OPERATE AT LOSS

Hospitals have become one of the Nation's major industries, with investments totaling in the neighborhood of $3,125,123,000, Dr. C. Rufus Rorem, economist on the staff of the committee on the costs of medical care, reported here today.

This represents more than all money invested in the lumber, paper or printing industries, Dr. Rorem said. There are 7,310 hospitals in the United States and their annual cost of operation is $900,000,000, nearly one-third of the Federal Government's total yearly expenditures, he reported.

Dr. Rorem estimates there are 904,934 beds in public and private hospitals, or enough to give every man, woman and child in the country one day in a hospital every year. He said 91 per cent of the money invested is on a nonprofit basis, provided in almost equal proportions by government and private associations.

His investigation revealed that practically all hospitals, if considered as business enterprises, are run at a loss, and patients as an average pay less than the cost of service furnished.

Capital Student Accidentally Shot

Son of Patent Attorney and Friend Injured in Pistol Mishap.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Dec. 16.—Phillip A. Dieterich, 15 years old, son of Albert E. Dieterich, Washington patent attorney, yesterday accidentally discharged a revolver, wounding himself and a fellow student of Staunton Military Academy in a motion picture theater here.

Dieterich is understood to have been unloading the weapon as a precautionary measure, after returning from a hike through the nearby countryside. The bullet struck young Dieterich in the thigh and wounded Cadet Glenn A. Irvin, of Buffalo, N. Y., in the calf of the leg.

Neither of the boys' wounds are considered serious by attending physicians. It was said that possession of a pistol is in violation of school regulations.

Bank Closes; Examiner Fails to Arrive in Time

Fairmont, W. Va., Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Inability of a national bank examiner, carrying a charter authorizing a new bank, to make his way in an automobile through a snowstorm in time to arrive from Washington by 9 o'clock this morning indirectly brought about closing today of the Union National Bank of Fairmont, officials said.

A "run" on the bank began last week. Plans were started for a new bank which was to have opened in the Union National quarters today. But the examiner arrived late. Meanwhile, Union National opened its doors only to close them because of the continuation of withdrawals by depositors. Reorganization plans are expected to result in a reopening soon. The bank was capitalized at $420,000.

Maryland and Virginia Postmasters Nominated

Nomination of postmasters in Virginia and Maryland were sent to the Senate yesterday by President Hoover. Those named for Virginia were: For Greenwood, John W. Patterson; Independence, Phillip L. Harrington; New Market, Raye Z. Litten. Those named for Maryland were: For Middletown, Leslie W. Graver, and for Poolesville, Ernest G. Willard.

KATHERINE CRAWLEY DIES.

Daughter of Chevy Chase Couple Succumbs in Paris.

Miss Katherine Crawley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Crawley, of Chevy Chase, Md., died last Friday in a hospital in Paris, France, where she had been spending the winter. She was 30 years old.

Miss Crawley was formerly a resident of Warrenton, Va., and for a number of years was a teacher in the Warrenton High School. Besides her parents, she is survived by two sisters, Miss Margaret Crawley, of Philadelphia, and Miss Marian Crawley, of New York.
